

TOUR CHARLOTTE GROENEVELD'S CHILDRENS BEDROOMS IN THEIR NEW YORK CITY UES APARTMENT

Welcome back! It's been FOREVER since we were here on Thefashionguitar together, but I'm so excited that we are, and even more to share our first "Home story", created in partnership with Maisonette.

After moving into our new apartment in our favorite neighborhood on the UES, October last year, our first job was to get both childrens bedrooms ready. We've moved many times, within London, from London to New York City, and within New York City, but we've always made it a case to – no matter how the rest of the apartment looks – to finish the children's bedrooms first! Although, this is actually the first time they are in their own room, until this apartment they've always shared a bedroom.

Until this apartment, James and Stella shared their bedroom and they loved it. We loved it, too, because we believed the companionship actually helped them feeling comfortable and secure when going to bed. They rarely woke up at night, or had trouble falling asleep – and I don't necessarily think this is because of any sleep training magic, because we never did any in particular other than having a solid bedtime routine, which we vigorously stuck to. At all times.

Then there's also an age-factor that played part in the decision to keep them together, rather than separating them. I mean, don't get me wrong, I have nothing against separate rooms, I just have more Pro's than Con's, and in the end of the day, it worked for us... But this doesn't mean it's a formula for guaranteed success. Anyway, where I'm going with this, is that what I mentioned before, about James and Stella being secure and comfortable together and the the age-factor, is simply that we feel that when they we're younger, they had stronger emotional needs to "support" each other. Now, James being almost 10 and Stella turning 8 in a few weeks, we noticed their emotional needs around bedtime, or at night, are different. James needs his own space, his own moments before bed, and even dare I say, some sort of privacy. Or call it personal space. Stella is definitely not 100% there yet, emotionally. She asks us frequently if she can sleep with James, or James with her, but sadly for Stella, James refuses more often than that he says yes. Stella therefore, we think, asked us if the new baby – arriving end of October if all goes well – can stay in her room. We obviously said yes to that, but explained that he will first be in our room, until he's sleeping through the night. She agreed. We all agreed. And we went back to implementing a solid bedtimes routine for both of them, in separate rooms – god is this a challenge, after their summer break! But a week in, a week of waking up early for school, we feel we are getting there... now we have to just stick to it!

But sorry, I know you didn't come here for parenting advice – nor do I want this platform to be the focus of that – but for children's bedrooms ideas, so let's get to it!

For both rooms one thing was very clear from the start; I wanted a design infused feeling, but with modern basis. Primal colors were a must, too, that I knew ever since I saw the Kelly Green bed on Maisonette – which ended up in James' room. Stella always wanted a bunk bed, and with her room being more rectangle shaped than the squared room James was going to sleep in, it felt like the perfect fit. Plus, they now both had also space for a guest – when sleepovers are back on the menu again. Oeuf is a favorite furniture brand in our household, and with the Oeuf desk that moved from the old apartment to this in, it was an easy choice to go for a bunkbed from this brand.

Accessories around the bed we kept simple, but in line with the color palette of the room and the style we were vibe we were trying to achieve. For James this meant a more grownup atmosphere in Kelly green and Cook's blue – by Farrow & Ball – and darker wooden undertones, for Stella bright and happy mixing boldly tones of red and pink, and a beautiful wallpaper by Work + Sea.

Desk pace is more important than ever! Where before the pandemic the kids would do most of their schoolwork at the dining table, homeschooling brought the importance of their own “work space” to be free to do Zoom classes and virtual playdates. Also a place to relax – preferably with a rocking chair if you ask Stella – became an important part of their room. It's like their room became mini-apartments so that when we are at home with the four – soon five – of us, we don't have to constantly sit, work, or read on top of each other. The pandemic definitely made it very clear we all are at some points during the day in need of our “own space” and with a bedroom that offers a little bit of everything, we served the kids the best we could!

Thank you Maisonette to making our children's bedroom dream become reality. For the wonderful team that came over to photograph and film – stay tuned for this one – the old and the new!

MODA OPERANDI: THE PLATFORM WHERE YOU WILL DISCOVER FASHION

I want to start with the following – before diving into the world of “Fashion Discovery” because Moda Operandi is, after all, the platform for Fashion Discovery – Moda Operandi is the only online platform that offers straight off the runway pre-ordering. This means that we as customers can make sure to actually get our hands on the most-wanted, most-coveted, and ultra-trendy pieces that everyone wants to wear next season. This is an extremely smart and exciting way to shop, but of course, you’ll need to be confident about what’s going to be “hot” next season, and above all, you’ll need to have the patience for it to arrive, because it’s not a next-day delivery situation. Your next season’s person will get to you, but only just before the new collections hit the stores...

The way to be ahead of the pack, and order next season’s best pieces, is through Moda Operandi’s many “Trunkshows”. These trunk shows arrive pretty much right after the new collections hit the runway, or when their new season lookbooks come out – this is usually for the brands who don’t show at fashion week.

On top of being able to pre-order the latest collections – something that clearly sets Moda Operandi apart from most other online retailers – is the incredible curation of designers, and buy. You will find pieces on Moda Operandi that other online retailers aren’t offering, and they will bring you the most promising and loved new and upcoming designers of the moment.

A good example of a designer I already knew and loved – and was able to pre-order straight off the runway – and a designer that I didn't know existed, yet fell in love with right when I saw their new lookbook are Alessandra Rich and Michael Lo Sordo.

Alessandra Rich is a long time favorite of mine; the combination of classic designers, but with a little twist – naughty but nice – have always appealed to me, and she does amazing evening wear, as well as knits and accessories. Below a little selection of some of the best looks of her Spring-Summer 2020 collection.

Michael Lo Sordo is a designer from Australia I discovered on Moda Operandi, mainly because his Spring-Summer 2020 looked so beautiful. A collection of super sophisticated and feminine pieces, in an earthy tone palette, simple or some with a little funny accent. See below some of his best looks, and you will understand what I mean!

A list of designers that received raving reviews on their Spring-Summer 2020 collections, are available for Pre-Order right now, AND are some of my favorites are, but not limited to: Hunting Season and Giambattista Valli. And some of the best under $500 are I think Christopher Esber and Rokh. And last but not least, and influencer collaboration everyone loves: Gia x Pernille Teisbaek.

However, those of us who aren't a 100% sure about what will be "IT" next season, and want to shop what is most-loved right now, those are able to shop the extremely well curated list of designers on Moda Operandi. Enjoy!

BEAUTIFUL FALL

Tommy and I go way back. Back to some of my first fashion memories. I remember I received a Tommy piece when I was pregnant with James 7 years ago and thinking it was one of the first designer pieces he will ever own!

It's quite special if you think about it, how brands are weaved into our lives. To me that means quality, and that's what I value as much as a good design.

Tommy Hilfiger is a go-to for those reasons; I know what I get when I buy a Tommy coat or pair of trousers. I get a product that will almost outlive me – especially when you take good care of it.

I buy timeless and classic pieces from the brand because I think that's what they are best known for; however, I've been introduced to their Hilfiger Collection line through this partnership, and I must admit that this put them in a whole different perspective for me. The look I'm wearing in this post, is the absolute everyday sophisticated look I – and you – need in our wardrobes. It will be perfect for a work meeting, but I can do a school run in it too. Needless to say, the colours are beyond. To me, there is nothing more chic than camel and cream tones for the fall-winter season. In addition to the colors, the richness of the fabric elevates this look to be unbelievably chic!

I loved an oversized knit, so I chose to go a size up, but you can go for your normal size if you prefer to have it less chunky. The trousers are on the long side for me, but what's a tailor-run these days? No biggie!

Proved to be the perfect fall-winter look, I can recommend to take a peek at their new collection, I am sure it won't disappoint!

I'm wearing: Hilfiger Collection knit / Hilfiger Collection pants (get short version here) / KHAITE bag / Celine sunglasses / Bottega Veneta sneakers.

AN AMAZON FASHION LOVE STORY... WHO KNEW!

In a world of online shopping, endless love for the latest, but a deep desire for comfort, too, I find a gem. Not really hidden to be honest, because it's been there for a while, yet I never considered it to be my "fashion destination", until I did...

Amazon has been my emergency line, my home appliances heaven, my final shopping destination. Sounds rather dramatic, I know, but when you have a newborn you find yourself in need of many things, one the most ungodly hours of the day.

I never shied away from a PRIME order in the middle of the night, even if it were for a box of diapers during fashion week, because I knew I wouldn't be able to get them at the supermarket while running around during back to back shows... Yet, I didn't realize until a little while back, that Amazon Fashion was going to be my new obsession. With many contemporary brands being available within three clicks and with PRIME delivery – aka next day, or even SAME day on some occasions – it was obviously only a matter of time before we would enter a true love affair.

Not to sound ridiculous, but it is really a love story: for the longest time, and still do, I dreaded the idea of finding time to go shopping. I truly don't find joy in going to a store, on my day off, where it is – as it always proves to be in NYC – mega packed. I'm a person who needs to shop in their own space, without a store manager hovering behind me asking me – of course with the best intentions – if I need anything. I'm a big girl, I will ask you if I need something, thank you.

I'm wearing a Ralph Lauren shirt & Nike shorts, both from Amazon Fashion.

I don't mean this to sound rude, and I know they are just doing their job, but the truth is, it takes away from the shopping experience for me. I like peace and quiet, and above all convenience. Which is basically exactly what I get when I get my wardrobe staples from Amazon Fashion. Who knew!

Speaking of wardrobe staples, this summer I stocked up on white tees and tank tops – see one I'm wearing in this post. They are the perfect transitional pieces to use when its beginning to get cold in NYC. Just layer a knit over your shoulders or a classic denim jacket with an all-white look.

I was also able to get some great poplin shirts from Ralph Lauren, too. I used to grab Thomas' but now I created my own little section in my wardrobe, just oversized poplins from the all American heritage brand. Another thing that is literally the best deal is athleisure wear. I'm not saying workout clothes, because truth is, I don't really work out in them, I wear them just on regular moments of the day. Here combined with heels and my latest poplin love of orange for the warmer fall days and with trousers and a knit for cooler days.

What I'm trying to say is that we have to rethink our shopping strategy, broaden our horizon, and look beyond what we know. I mean, who knew Amazon would be your next fashion destination?

I'm wearing a pair of Mara Hoffman linen trousers, white basic tank top, and Birkenstock slides!

HOW KHAITE CONVERTED ME TO A MORE MINIMAL WAY OF DRESSING...

When KHAITE launched in 2016, it immediately grew on me and became one of my favorite brands. With their dreamy dresses and tulle tops, it was just in line with my forever obsession over the “runaway-bride” look – aka pretty dresses and sneakers. However, with its core of reimagining of American sportswear, it didn’t come as a surprise that their denim and cashmere sweaters turned out to be a dream, too. Designed in New York City and made in Los Angeles, KHAITE Jeans are the ultimate effortless piece in my everyday dressing. I mean, I’ve mentioned it many times before; I do absolutely want to pick up my kids in a little couture gown and a pair of sneakers, but in reality, that will not happen for a VERY long time, if ever. LOL. So yes, in my day-to-day dressing, a good pair of jeans is a must, and right now, KHAITE serves my denim needs in the best way possible.

Today, I’m wearing The Kyle Jean in Tucson; a style that looks and feels like I borrowed it from the boys – something I love so much anyways – and combines perfectly with any feminine top or pair of shoes. In my case I did both with their new fall/winter Ankle Boot in Black Leather, and their Lucie Top in Black.

I would totally wear it with a white shirt tucked in, one of their tulle tops in nude, or just a light cashmere knit when fall hits and the nights are a little more crisp again. It just feels so effortless, and comfortable, without losing on style or sophistication.

It’s not often I dress this minimal, let alone show it to you, because I feel – and always tell people – “I don’t get away with it”, it doesn’t spark on me as much as on some women, who really just look so effortless and chic this minimal. However, I think I got converted to the church of KHAITE now, and will be living on the more minimal side of looks throughout the week. NOT to worry though, I’m not ever going to let go of my tulle obsession, nor will any pair of sneakers ever leave my closet. But as I said, KHAITE has it all girls: The ultimate wardrobe staples, but not with any less “sparks”.

WHAT TO WEAR AT NEW YORK FASHION WEEK

As always there're many trends surfacing right before Fashion Month kicks off, and these trends determine more or less the whole street style landscape. For some this might feel like a repetition of styles and looks, and even specific pieces that get just a little too much attention. Some of which we never thought it would stand a chance – the “Ugly sneaker” trend for example – and yet, they are beloved by almost everyone right now.

Less in the spotlights right now, simply because it's still summer and temperatures aren't going anywhere cold yet, are statement knits. Needless to say, in fashion we are always a little ahead of time, so right now I'm doing my research on the best Fall/Winter 2019 knits, and I have partnered up with Veronica Beard, a brand close to my heart, to style three of their best ones...

But, since New York Fashion Week is upon us, and all you want is to know what to wear, we combined the two and created three amazing fashion week looks, which will absolutely be street style worthy, and afterwards, the perfect addition to your fall wardrobe!

As you know, I'm the girl who wears dresses with boots, or sneakers. High heels I adore, but I like those with my favorite pair of boyfriend jeans, not with a dress. I'm obviously not saying dresses and heels don't work, but this is a personal style thing, something that makes me unique. Same for layering knitwear with dresses and skirts. I'm always loved it, and probably will forever be one of my go-to's when I'm not sure what to wear.

For this collaboration I worked with three knits that are very understated, yet in detail they are absolutely making a statement: The first has a “western” feel with the detail on the back. The zipper allows you to wear it more as a turtle neck and with your hair tucked in, or when open, it's possible to show of your favorite stacked necklaces. Because the knit has a close fit on the bottom, I thought it would be quite cool to layer it on top of the maxi-dress, which is fitted around the hips as well, which makes the two go super well together, creating a beautiful silhouette. Yet, it would become to feminine with a flat or heel, so a cool pair of Western boots – keep it a bit in this “Saloon” style – was the absolute must here...

For my second look I'm wearing one of my favorite dresses for Fall. The colour is perfect – you know I'm not afraid to wear pink – and the fit super complimenting. It's a bit tricky with a cab-ride, yet I'm personally not bothered with there's a little wrinkle in it afterwards. To keep the "cool-girl" vibe and don't make it too "sweet" I styled it with a pair of those ugly sneakers and sporty sunglasses. They're not really helping with the sun, but the look cool. Especially with the second knit I selected, which has a strong shoulder and a turtle neck, and therefore automatically gives some attitude to the whole look. Exactly how I think a "sweet" dress like this should be worn: With some attitude!

Lastly an ivory sleeveless turtle neck. This was, I have to admit, a challenge, because I am not loving my arms and therefore often opt for something that is covering at least the upper part of them. Yet, when I saw this little corduroy dress, I knew I had to go for the edgy- girl style. Imagine if I would go all the way cute in a little dress like this, you would probably mistake me for a school girl LOL! Not what I'm after. As with the first two looks, I like an element of surprise, that shakes the whole look up a little, and I think I've accomplished that with the hiking boots. I feel this is a great runway look, just add a cute beanie and some retro shades, and you're good to hit the fashion week streets!

Look 1: Veronica Beard dress and knit, Balenciaga bag, vintage boots, Celine sunglasses.

Look 2: Veronica Beard dress and knit, New Balance sneakers, Shrimps bag, Westward Leaning sunglasses.

BEST LOOKS OF THE BONPOINT SPRING-SUMMER 2019 SHOW

I'm obviously biased when it comes to my review of the Bonpoint collection, as my kids have been walking their show AND we are working together for some time now, but still, with the eye of a fashion enthusiast, I'm going to try to tell you about my favorite parts of the Bonpoint Spring-Summer 2019 show, and show you the best look worn by the cutest kids, and my James and Stella!

With Stella almost turning 5 – and with that her growing personality and ideas on fashion – it's getting harder to get them in the looks that I want her in. That's okay. She needs that space to explore and become who she is. We usually negotiate on who can pick the top, and then the other person picks the bottom, and so on. I think to a certain extent it's okay to negotiate with your kids, just for the sake of peace and quiet. We all live busy lives, have busy jobs, and want to be at least a little representable when going on date night – plus I like to hold off on the Botox for a little longer – so we negotiate. Don't confuse this with bribing! This I'm completely against, and sadly see this happening around me a lot. Of course I've done it, and I might do it again, but trust me; those bribes were only to get that smoothie down, or take a bite of their broccoli. But It didn't help, tears all over, never doing that again. Anyway, so my point is, it's hard to get Stella into anything I like her to wear – especially dresses – yet when she walks the Bonpoint show she's all in. She wants to wear it all, show it all, makes 500 more rounds during the finale and is telling me afterwards how much she loves it... Right! I cherish this moment, and soak up this cute little naughty face wearing the CUTEST dresses on the planet, because let's be honest, nobody does dresses better than Bonpoint...

Other pieces from the collection that really caught my eye, mostly because they kind of remind me of pieces I have, or are in a current collection that I want to have... For example, if you look at the first image, do you see the girl's sandals, both Stella's and the girl she's walking with? Aren't they reminding you of those Chanel ones I showed on my instastories the other week? Exactly! And those I want so badly... you have no idea! So, you can imagine,

I've been envying these little feet for a while now, while waiting for my size of the Chanel's to get in! Also what really stood out for me, were the bags little plaid shoppers and the woven ones, the visors – very Dior for kids – and the perfect denim pieces! All the denim pants and jackets are like how I want to wear them, and the dress over jeans look – which Stella will love, since she's more into jeans than dresses as I mentioned – is perfect!

Needless to say, there are a thousand little details that I loved, and you see a lot of it in the “Backstage at the Bonpoint Spring-Summer 2019 show” post I shared earlier... the hair of the little girls, with the ribbon in their braids, or the colours and patterns inspired by cultures from around the world. It truly feels like a very easy to wear, approachable and eclectic line of summer wear, which we secretly would love in our own wardrobes! Scroll down and see for yourself... and don't forget to tell me at the end what you loved the most!

BACKSTAGE AT THE BONPOINT SPRING-SUMMER 2019 SHOW

Two days ago I asked you on my instastories “what do you want to know about our experience with James and Stella walking the Bonpoint Spring-Summer 2019 show, and our family trip to Paris?” and obviously most of you are interested in how it goes behind the scenes at a kids show, and of course, our recommendations for a family trip to Paris. Starting with the latter; going to Paris with two little kids isn’t really that different from going to Paris as a couple. There are little implications, like you’re not going to have dinner past midnight, or drink wine in that little romantic Parisian bistro – well, maybe one glass – and I could argue renting an apartment instead of staying at a hotel, but considering our experience is that the French don’t mind – well behaved – kids in their restaurants or hotels, you can pretty much go wherever you used to go. French couples we know, with kids, didn’t completely change their lives either, after they have little ones. They just make sure their kids have the proper manners to be in a “grown up” environment, which I believe a lot of kids are lacking in New York City. Not really any offense to New Yorkers and their kids, or NYC restaurants, but I do find that when you live for example on the Upper West, there’s definitely certain places most parents go for dinner with their kids, because it’s a kid-friendly place. Yet, it’s not a necessarily a place where you want to go as a grown up. Anyway, my point is, just make sure they are raised with good table manners – bring an iPad if you want to drink that last glass of wine – and you are fine anywhere in Paris/France.

To my French readers: Please correct me if I'm wrong! I would love to hear your thoughts on this! Now back to the part where you want to know more about the "Backstage with Bonpoint" because that's definitely THE MOST ASKED question... If you want to get tips on places to go with kids, leave a comment below!

Being backstage at the Bonpoint Spring-Summer 2019 show is not that much different from any other backstage experience I have; it's bustling, it's warm, and people run around, all on their way to do "something important". Yet, it's completely different from any of my backstage experience – Victoria Secret show, Fenty by Rhianna, Valentino, name it and they are all the same – in the sense that at Bonpoint everyone smiles! There's a very happy atmosphere, and everyone is well taken care of. Of course! No parent would just leave their kid backstage for a show if they didn't know it would be perfect. No stranger can come near my little ones, nor would I EVER let them anywhere where I wasn't sure they would be okay. And again – I've said this many times before – James and Stella are free, and definitely vocal enough, to say if they don't want to walk the show. We, as parents, are not in this for any monetary reason – for those who asked if they earn money with walking the show: they are not earning tons, and whatever they earn goes into their trust account. We are letting them walk the show, because we love the brand, and we've built an amazing relationship with the wonderful people in the New York office. Plus, we are huge fans of Christine Innamorato, the Creative Director of Bonpoint. And the love is both ways, so therefore they love to see James and Stella come back every season.

Another question I got from some of you is how we got involved with the brand. Well, that's pretty straight forward. The nature of my job has always been around (personal) styling, creating creative content for luxury brands, and brand consulting. So when Bonpoint reached out a few years back, when we just moved to Toronto actually, and asked if we were interested in attending the show during Haute Couture, we loved the idea! We would be there as a guest of the brand, and the kids would be dressed in the latest collection. James and Stella didn't walk the show the first time, but we did create beautiful content for them on Social media. Yet, after the first show, when James and Stella were actually very disappointed they were not walking the show themselves, they asked us if we would be open to that. We thought about this well, talked about it with the kids, and decided it would be a wonderful experience. The foundation for our love for the brand is the true craftsmanship and the quality of the clothes. Needless to say, Bonpoint is one of the most respected luxury brands in the world, so along the line of my personal brand – Thefashionguitar – this was the most logic collaboration if it were involving my kids. And so, over the past three years, we've built a beautiful, mutual beneficial relationship, in which we are all very happy!

Then someone asked if the kids get hair and makeup. Yes they do. The makeup is obviously very minimal for the obvious reason: they are all kinds and don't need anything anyway! Yet, the lights – and the heat in Paris in July – are not ideal for the runway photos, even with kids, so they use a little powder on their faces, and as you can see, a bruise here and there gets a bit of camouflage. But as you can see in the images, James has some scratches on his face, those were not at all covered with makeup. Other than that, they are completely natural. Oh actually, James did joke about the lipstick he had to wear! Which turned out to be lip balm, duh, but he thought it was hilarious! the kids' hair on the other hand is a big thing, and definitely this season. Scroll down and see cutest braids with ribbons in Stella's and the other girl's hair. I'm obsessed, and 100% the need to try it myself...

What do they do backstage? Every kid has their own person, who stays with them a 100% of the time, unless the kids are physically on the runway. Then this person would be waiting for the kid to get off the runway, and get them safe and sound back to their backstage seat. This person makes sure they are alright, that they have something to drink and eat – and get lots of Haribo candy, heaven. They also get them dressed in their looks in time, with little to no stress. They give the little ones that secure feeling they need. As a parent you really have nothing to worry about, they are in good hands. However, in the case of an emergency, every parent who has a kid walking in the show is waiting in another area, so if they need you, you are near! Then, as you can see below too, the kids all have their own rack with their looks and props.

Last but not least... Is there also a lot of waiting? Yes, it still is a fashion show, and that means there's also a lot of waiting. But with a lot I mean just a little really, because from the time you drop them off backstage until they show starts is about an hour and a half. So realistically it all goes quite fast. Yet, of course, they need to rehearse at least one time, and get them in hair and makeup, one by one. So there's a little waiting involved. But, as mentioned before, there's a good vibe, there's candy, and enough mischief to have an amazing afternoon!

FROM NEW YORK TO PARIS WITH BONPOINT

I only recently found out that besides the Upper East Side Bonpoint store – on 69th and Madison – and the one in Soho, there's actually also one all the way uptown; on the corner of 96 and Madison. With its large windows and high ceilings, it instantly became my favorite store of the three. Nothing's wrong with the other two stores, but somehow the natural light makes it so beautiful in there. Anyway, so when we visited the store a few weeks back, in preparation for the upcoming Bonpoint Fall-Winter 2019 show, we did a little store tour with Stella, and selected some of her favorites looks. You have to wait a few more days to find out what those are, because James and Stella will be wearing this all in Paris coming week, but here's already a little sneak peek of what's coming!

And by the time you are reading this, we probably just landed in Paris, and getting ready for a few amazing days with the family there. I will be going to some of the most amazing Haute Couture shows, and of course, highlight of the week: James and Stella walking the Bonpoint show for the third time! We couldn't be more excited and proud of them. Tag along on my Instagram, and make sure to read more so you can also see the lovely interior design of the uptown store, and some of my favorite moments with Stella and my mom – who was visiting us from The Netherlands the time we visited the store!

Everything Stella is wearing is available online and in-stores!

Prep Your Natural Hair

Before applying your side part wig, prepare your natural hair by braiding it or using a wig cap to ensure a smooth and secure foundation. Tuck away loose strands or flyaways to create a clean base for your wig.

Customization is Key

Customize your side part wig to make it look natural and tailored to your face shape. Pluck the hairline and parting area to create a more realistic appearance, and trim the wig to suit your desired length and style. Remember to proceed cautiously and gradually make minor adjustments to avoid over-plucking or cutting too much.

Secure Your Wig

To ensure a secure and comfortable fit, use wig clips, combs, or adhesive products specifically designed for wigs. Adjust the straps or hooks inside the wig to achieve a snug fit that stays in place throughout the day.

Style with Confidence

Experiment with different styling options to slay your side part wig. Use a flat iron or curling wand to add waves, curls, or sleekness to the hair. Create volume by teasing the roots or applying volumizing products. Play around with accessories such as headband wigs, scarves, or clips to personalize your look and elevate your style.

Take Care of Your Wig

Proper maintenance is essential for keeping your side part wig in top shape. Follow the manufacturer's instructions for washing, conditioning, and styling your wig. Use products specifically formulated for wigs to maintain their texture and shine. Store your wig on a stand or in a cool, dry place to prevent tangling and damage.

Confidence is Key

Rock your side part wig with confidence and embrace your unique style. Remember that wearing a wig is an opportunity to express yourself and enhance your beauty. Own your look and strut confidently, knowing you're slaying your side part wig.

Can you change the part on a wig?

The part on a wig typically refers to the section where the hair is divided. While some wigs have a fixed part, others offer the flexibility to change the parting. Here's what you need to know about changing the part on a wig:

Pre-Plucked or Freestyle Part

Some wigs come with a pre-plucked or freestyle part, which means the hair is not sewn in a specific direction. With these wigs, you can change the part by brushing or combing the hair in the desired direction. It allows for versatility in styling and parting options.

Adjustable Part

Certain wigs have an adjustable part feature, allowing you to shift the parting to different positions. These wigs usually have a movable or detachable piece at the crown area that can be shifted to create a new part. It allows you to customize the parting according to your preference.

Sewing or Gluing Method

If you have a wig with a fixed part that you wish to change, it is possible to alter the parting by using sewing or gluing methods. It involves carefully lifting the existing part and repositioning the hair in the desired direction. However, this process requires precision and skill to ensure a natural-looking result. It is recommended to seek assistance from a professional wig stylist for this modification.

Wig Cap Construction

The construction of the wig cap can also affect the possibility of changing the part. Lace front wigs, for example, have a sheer lace material at the front that allows for a more realistic-looking part. These wigs offer greater flexibility in changing the parting than those with closed-cap construction.

Can you cut the sides of a wig?

Yes, cutting the sides of a wig to customize its style and fit is possible. Wig customization is standard among wig wearers to achieve a more tailored look that suits their preferences and facial features. Cutting the sides of a wig can help create a desired shape, enhance the wig's overall appearance, and ensure a more natural and comfortable fit.

Before cutting the sides of a wig, it's crucial to consider its construction and determine if it is suitable for cutting. Some wigs, particularly those with wefts or tracks, may need help cutting the sides. Examining the wig's structure and determining if it can withstand the cutting process without compromising its integrity is essential.

Additionally, taking good care of your wig and protecting your natural hair is crucial for maintaining a flawless look.

Conclusion

With these tips and tricks, you can slay your side part wig and confidently showcase your style and personality. Experiment, have fun, and enjoy the versatility and beauty of your side part wig.

Graceful and Glamorous: Styling Tips for Banarasi Sarees

Sarees are an essential addition to the wardrobe of every Indian woman. These garments are known for their versatility, elegance, and the wide range of styles, fabrics, and designs they offer. Among the various types of sarees, the banarasi silk saree holds a cherished position in the hearts of Indian women.

Whether you inherited one from your grandmother or purchased one for a special occasion, knowing how to style and carry it gracefully is essential. This article will explore some styling tips to help you make a stunning statement with your banarasi saree.

Choosing the Right Accessories

When styling your saree, the right accessories can make all the difference. The saree is a work of art, so selecting accessories that complement rather than overpower its beauty is essential. Here are a few suggestions:

Jewellery: Opt for traditional pieces like jhumkas, choker necklaces, or delicate gold chains with pendants. These timeless pieces add a touch of grandeur and enhance the overall look of the saree.

Handbag: If you are wearing a banarasi silk saree for a wedding, pair it with a sleek clutch or a potli bag with intricate embroidery or embellishments. This adds a touch of glamour and helps you carry your essentials in style.

Experimenting with Blouse Designs

The blouse is an essential element that can elevate your overall look. Here are a few trendy blouse designs to consider:

Off-shoulder blouse: An off-shoulder blouse with delicate embroidery or sequin work can give your saree a contemporary edge while maintaining its elegance.

Backless blouse: A backless blouse with intricate detailing or a plunging back neckline can be a bold and glamorous choice for those who want to make a statement.

Draping Techniques

The draping style plays a significant role in the overall appearance of a saree. Here are a couple of draping styles to consider:

Lehenga style: This drape is reminiscent of how lehengas are worn. It involves pleating the saree around the waist and tucking it in, allowing the pallu to flow freely over the shoulder.

Butterfly style: The butterfly drape pleats the saree in a way resembling butterfly wings. This style accentuates the border and designs of the saree and is an excellent choice for showcasing the intricate work on a silk saree.

Playing with Colors and Patterns

Banarasi sarees are known for their vibrant colours and intricate patterns. Here are tips for choosing the right colours and patterns:

Occasion: Consider the event or occasion for which you wear the saree. Vibrant colours with bold patterns work well for festive events, while subtle colours with delicate motifs are suitable for formal occasions.

Skin tone: While selecting colours, take your skin tone into account. Warm and bright hues complement deeper skin tones, while pastels and lighter shades flatter fairer skin tones.

Balance: Find a balance in the pattern of the saree. Choose more prominent motifs for a bolder look or more minor, intricate patterns for a more subtle and delicate appearance.

Hairstyles and Makeup

To complete your banarasi silk saree look, pay attention to your hairstyle and makeup choices. Here are a few suggestions:

Hairstyles: Opt for traditional hairstyles like a neatly tied bun adorned with fresh flowers or hair accessories like jeweled pins or brooches.

Makeup: Keep the makeup natural and balanced. Focus on well-defined eyes with winged eyeliner, complemented by nude or soft pink lip colour.

In conclusion, styling a banarasi saree is about embracing its exquisite grandeur and timeless beauty. By carefully selecting accessories, experimenting with blouse designs and draping techniques, playing with colours and patterns, and paying attention to hairstyles and makeup, you can create a graceful and glamorous look that highlights its allure. So, embrace the elegance of this traditional Indian attire and make a stunning statement wherever you go.

Beginner's Guide: Get the best of comfort through the right footwear

Slippers are footwear that's easy to put on and take off. However, picking a pair of slippers might be tricky. Numerous women frequently make misjudgments when they shop for women slipper. Choosing the wrong women slipper for your feet may create multiple issues. Even so, slippers also provide numerous advantages. They shield the health of our feet and give comfort, which other shoes can't provide. They offer the feet the rest they require to retrieve from the strains of an average day. Also, the slipper comes in multiple sizes and different fabrics. There are also several variables to account for when copping a pair of slippers, and we have made it easy for you by listing down a few factors before you cop a pair of women's slippers. The correct women slipper will regulate the blood to circulate in the legs properly so that your feet don't feel numb. This is why choosing the right women slipper is so essential.

1. Check the material and its quality – The better the material, the further comfy your feet will be. The material of the women slipper shouldn't solely be comfy, but they should also permit airflow. The quality of the material is similarly vital. You don't want to spend your income on women slipper that will easily break after wearing them twice or thrice. This is exactly why you must pay attention to the quality of the women slipper you choose because you'll probably wear them every day.

2. Select the size wisely – The size is vital when opting for slippers for day-to-day wear. As an initial step, ensure your women slippers fit you well and are comfortable walking in. Never purchase slippers that are a size smaller or a size bigger than your foot size. If you buy slippers that are very small for your feet or are difficult to put on, they could bring on foot problems like ligament rips and shoe bites. And if the slippers are a bit bigger for your feet, walking in them can be tricky, and you gamble on hurting your ankles or feet as the chance of tripping in more giant slippers are high. Always ensure enough room between your toes and the end of the women slipper. Judging your foot size is necessary for bagging that fits perfectly, as it helps in opting for the right size of slippers.

3. Check the grip of the slippers – It's essential to buy slippers with a fine grip, particularly if you're purchasing them for older people or people with balance problems. The chances of them slipping or tripping on a wet floor or road are slim if the grip of the slipper is firm. After accounting for the above-mentioned essential tips, further questions might come up in your mind, such as the cost of the slippers, the shade, or the style of the slippers, among other factors, but the most significant factor is to try them and check how you feel while wearing them, and how your feet feel post wearing. That's why at times, the price tag isn't so vital; the most significant thing is how comfortable you are walking in those slippers.

5 Ways to Style Your Pure Silk Kanchipuram Saree

A pure silk Kanchipuram saree is a timeless attire that Indian women have treasured for centuries. Originating in Kanchipuram in Tamil Nadu, India, these sarees are made from the finest silk and are known for their magnificent craftsmanship, intricate designs, and rich colours. If you own a Kanchipuram saree, you know how special it is and how it deserves to be styled in a way that highlights its beauty. This blog post will explore five ways to style your pure silk Kanchipuram saree.

Traditional Look

The Kanchipuram collection of sarees adds to a classic, traditional piece of clothing passed down through generations. To honour its heritage, you can style it traditionally. Pair your saree with a full-sleeved blouse, preferably contrasting, and accessorise with gold jewellery. Gold bangles, jhumkas, and a statement necklace will add sparkle and shine to your look. Style your hair in a bun or a braid, and finish the look with a bindi on your forehead. This timeless look will never go out of style and make you look like a vision of elegance.

Modern Twist

If you want to add a modern touch to your Kanchipuram saree, there are several ways to do it. To give your saree a contemporary edge, you can experiment with different blouse styles, such as a crop top or a halter neck. Instead of gold jewellery, you can opt for silver or oxidized metal statement pieces. A chunky necklace or a pair of shoulder-grazing earrings will add a touch of charm to your look. You can try a messy bun or leave it open in loose waves for your hair. This modern twist on the traditional silk saree will make heads turn and show off your fashion-forward sensibilities.

Fusion Look

You can create a fusion look with your saree to blend traditional and modern styles. You can pair your saree with a crop top, a denim jacket, or a leather jacket to add an element of western style. Keep your accessories minimal and opt for a sleek clutch or sling bag. Try a messy top knot or a side ponytail for your hair. This fusion look will make you stand out and showcase your unique style.

Minimalist Look

You can style your saree understatedly if you prefer a more minimalist look. Pair your saree with a simple, plain blouse in a complementary colour, and keep your jewellery to a minimum. A pair of studs or small hoop earrings and a delicate bracelet will be enough to add a touch of grace to your look. Style your hair in a sleek bun or a low ponytail, and finish the look with a nude lip and a subtle smokey eye. This minimalist look will make you look effortlessly chic and sophisticated.

Bold Look

You can choose a bold look to make your saree style statement. Choose a blouse in a bright, eye-catching colour or prints to contrast with your saree—Accessorise jewellery, such as a chunky necklace or oversized earrings. Finish the look with a bold lip colour and a pop of blush. This bold look will make you the centre of attention and showcase your fearless personality.

In conclusion, any Kancheepuram silk is a work of art that deserves to be styled to highlight its beauty. Whether you prefer a traditional look, a modern twist, a fusion look, a minimalist look, or a bold look, there are several ways to style your saree to suit your taste and personality. With the right accessories and hairstyle, you can transform your saree into a stunning masterpiece that will make you appear and feel like a queen.

Make your Valentine's Day even more stylish by these Bodycon dresses

Seeing your favourite celebrities sport body-hugging clothes that help them flaunt their perfect silhouette can be envious. But if you have made the goal of getting into shape by working out and following a strict diet, achieving that banging body will be a dream come true for you.

With that amazing body, you definitely got to flaunt it which is why bodycon dresses for women are a perfect choice of an ensemble for you. If you love to flaunt your hourglass body, crop tops and bodycon dresses will help you flatter your body even more.

Check out these amazing types of bodycon dresses for women that you can buy and experiment with your style on various occasions.

Floral bodycon dress: Nothing can go wrong when you're wearing floral. The floral theme is always in, irrespective of the occasion. This black bodycon dress with pink and red roses printed all over it is the perfect outfit for a date night with your beau. You can wear this number with heels and carry a tiny sling to complete your look.

Ruched bodycon dress: Ruched dresses and tops are a rage these days. The ruched detailing helps in highlighting the figure even better. If you have got a body worth flaunting, a ruched bodycon floral printed dress is worth the wear. You can even opt for a subtle number such as a solid ruched bodycon dress which can be paired with printed heels to maintain the balance of the look.

Tulle bodycon dress: To add a bit of fairytale sparkle to your look, a bodycon dress with tulle detailing is a perfect choice. This dress features tulle detailing on the sleeves and a zipper on the back. The unicorn-coloured dress is just the perfect number for a fun day out with your gang. Pair this look with white heels and a white tiny sling bag to bring in the right level of chic.

One-shoulder bodycon dress: This raunchy number features one-shoulder and ruched detailing on the sides. This mini dress available in solid shades is the perfect look to curate for a cocktail night. From pumps to strappy heels to highlight your legs, you can carry this look with a tiny clutch and you're sure to make some heads turn at the party.

Bodycon dresses for women can be worn on every occasion. If you want to wear a white bodycon dress for a meeting, give your look a formal twist by simply layering it with a blazer. You can either wear the blazer as usual or wear it over your shoulders for a chic look. If you want to keep up with the monochrome trend, you can opt for a black blazer. But if you want to nail a bubbly look, a bubblegum pink blazer is the right choice. To keep things stylish, a tweed blazer or a woollen blazer to keep warm should be your choice. You can accessorise with cat-eye glasses and wear white heels to keep up with the look.

Everything you should know about Chikankari Kurtis

Chikankari kurtis are Indian outfits that have been traditionally worn by women in India since ancient times. The clothing features detailed designs created using traditional hand-embroidery methods called chikankari. It resembles zardozi, which uses gold thread rather than silver thread to produce designs in clothes. Formerly confined to kurtas, kurti sets, and salwar-kameez, there are now multiple chikankari outfits accessible out there in the market. However, if you don't own any chikankari kurtis, you should definitely buy one for this coming summer. Chikankari kurtis are lightweight and agile and can be paired with a number of bottoms like salwar, straight-fit pants, leggings, and skirts, making them the perfect ethnic clothing for daily wear. The chikankari kurtis can be styled in a casual fashion paired with jeans or elevated for a special event with jewellery, dupattas, and other add-ons.

Most importantly, when it comes to the chikankari kurtis fabric, it's required that you choose cotton or cotton silk fabric. The apparel in absolute-cotton fabric looks majestic and graceful and goes with any jewellery or footwear. For women with slim figures, refined designs in moderate sizes work best. Choose a special colour that makes you feel comfortable and confident. There are several ways you can wear chikankari kurtis, and we have listed them below:

Go all-white: Nowadays, all-white apparel can be noticed in a variety of situations. A white chikankari kurti with a white chikankari cotton palazzo and a delicately woven dupatta might be the perfect outfit for a lunchtime event. Add ornamentations with mirroring work and gorgeous juttis to turn the basic look into a jaw-dropping ensemble in a flash.

Dupatta shrug: Still, you can turn your dupatta into a new jacket over your chikankari kurtis if you don't like wearing dupattas the usual way. Wear the dupatta like a shrug and strap a belt to give you a dignified look. Transform your look by choosing a bandhani dupatta over a white chikankari kurti.

Denim jacket – If you're more of a Boho girl, then adapt the Bohemian vibe into your ensemble by layering your chikankari kurtis with a denim jacket. You can complete this look with oxidised jhumkas and bangles and turn it into the perfect festive outfit.

There are different styles of chikankari kurtis available in the market and some of them are Block-printed chikankari kurtis: These chikankari kurtis are the season's treat because the expansive white thread work on printed georgette cloth gives the dress a surreal look.

Chikankari Anarkali kurti: If you want to wear chikankari kurtis to a marriage, you can go for the Anarkali style kurti that can be teamed with a heavily embroidered dupatta and leggings.

Floral-printed chikankari kurti: You can never go wrong with floral print, so embrace this sweet print in your chikankari kurti and team it up with white chikankari palazzos. Finalize your look with jewellery and mojaris.

So these are the few things you should know about chikankari kurti. If you have a collection of it then great but if you don't then you could refer these.

The best motorcycle clothing trends

Motorcycling can be both a sport and leisure activity. It is loved by many men and women, because it allows you to fully enjoy the beautiful nature you'll encounter during a road trip. Riding a motorcycle is also a quick and good way to commute to your job and back. A beautiful motorcycle outfit can give you the confidence you need to take the bike out for a ride every day and will offer you good protection while you're on the road. But not all motorcycle clothes are trendy enough to wear to work or another important engagement. Keep reading to pick the right motorcycle outfit and enjoy a lovely day without any outfit worries or mistakes.

A black or colorful motorcycle helmet

There are a number of items that every motorcycle user should purchase. Firstly, picking the right motorcycle helmet is essential. Motorcycle helmets offer you protection if you are involved in an accident. The helmet will provide protection for your head while hitting the ground or the bike, and will also protect your neck from any harm. A broken neck can be deadly and therefore a helmet should never be taken for granted.

Motorcycle helmets do not only offer your protection, but can be quite a nice accessory as well. A full face motorcycle helmet with a sun visor can give a tough bad-ass motorcyclist look that the car drivers on the road will only be jealous of. If a tough look is what you're going for, choose a black helmet, or a black helmet with some subtle color accents. This will combine very well with a leather jacket or suit. For a friendlier look, choose a colorful helmet, such as one completely in red, blue, orange, or really any color that you like. A leather or textile motorcycle jacket

Besides the helmet, a trendy motorcycle jacket will come in handy. A leather jacket is a true fashion statement and doesn't burn if you hit the ground. It can offer good ventilation in the summer so that you don't sweat on hot and sunny days. However, for cold winters a leather jacket is less suitable because it does not offer any warmth. During this season, you can opt for some extra thermal layers in combination with your leather jacket, to keep that tough biker look, or try a multi-layer textile jacket with thermal layers. This jacket will keep you warm in the winter, but is too hot for the summer and could cause overheating.

Black leather jackets can give you that real tough biker look that you're looking for, while brown leather jackets give more of an Italian summer feeling. Combine a leather jacket with a black leather pair of pants or a pair of jeans specially made for motorcycling. Jeans made for motorcycling are enforced and will offer protection during an impact, whereas regular jeans will tear and burn.

Trendy motorcycle shoes

The newest trend regarding motorcycle shoes is shoes that look like regular shoes, but actually aren't. Before trendy motorcycle shoes were invented, most bikers used to wear their own shoes, or motorcycle boots. Unfortunately, regular shoes do not offer the protection you need on the road, whereas motorcycle boots do offer protection, but are difficult to walk in.

To solve this problem, motorcycle clothing producers started to develop trendy shoes that were stylish, comfortable to walk in, and offer great protection. These shoes look like regular sneakers or boots, but are enforced with Kevlar patches or protective layers of special fabric inside the shoes. Not only do these shoes fit better with your daily outfit, but they also take away the burden of having to bring another pair of shoes for work or for other activities.

Put Your Best Foot Forward: Choosing The Best Designer Sneakers For Special Occasions

If you are one of the many women who prefer the comfort, practicality, and style of sneakers to teeter on high heels, it's time to discover the ideal kicks for life's most memorable moments!

While you may not wish to wear sneakers to a wedding, there are still plenty of special occasions where a pair of stunning designer running shoes would not go amiss. It could be from smart-casual business meetings to lunch with the girls. Fortunately, some of the world's foremost fashion houses think so too, which is why these days you will even find eye-catching pairs of Gucci sneakers for women appearing on the runway.

But how do you go about choosing the right pair of designer sneakers that will carry you effortlessly from work to a restaurant or party? Pair with seamless socks that made out of breathable fabrics like cotton or merino wool socks and are super soft and comfortable, visit Q for Quinn Inc. Read on for some helpful tips to help you find the shoes that will make you look and feel like a million dollars.

Consider Your Arches

The most essential quality that any shoe should offer is comfort. This is far more vital than the label or even the shoe's aesthetic. Casting aside those unfortunate maxims about pain and beauty, comfort is crucial to your enjoyment of any occasion, and the sneakers you choose should ideally make you feel as if you are walking on air. To help you choose the right pair, be sure to consider the size of your arches so you can find a shoe that will keep your feet well-supported. Whatever kind of arch you have, opt for the sneakers that meld most closely to the unique shape of your feet. Before you buy, give them a little 'test drive' to make sure they don't pinch or rub.

Material, Girl!

Whether you are eyeing up one of these stunning pairs of women's shoes by Gucci from SSENSE, or indeed sneakers from any of the major labels, you should consider the material they're made of. Leather trainers are recommended, as leather is known for providing a more comfortable feel against your skin compared to synthetic materials. On the other hand, you may prefer some canvas high-tops or designer sneakers made with a breathable combination of suede and mesh. At the end of the day, the material you opt for will depend on your personal preference and any skin sensitivities you may have.

Set A Budget

When it comes to buying designer sneakers – or anything, for that matter – it's a good idea to set a budget in your mind beforehand. Sneakers come with a wide range of price tags. Knowing exactly how much you can afford will not only help you narrow down your potential choices but can also help you avoid disappointment.

Buy On The Bigger Side

Did you know that your feet can swell by up to one shoe size during the course of the day? As a result, it's recommended that you go designer sneaker shopping in the afternoon or evening for a more accurate fit. Otherwise, you run the risk of buying a pair that seem to fit perfectly in the morning but end up pinching your feet uncomfortably by mid-afternoon. Never buy sneakers that fit like a glove; there should always be a little room for expansion. By using these tried and tested tips, you will hopefully soon be the proud owner of designer sneakers that will help you stand out in any crowd – and make sure you feel comfortable while doing so!

Anklets that go well with almost any outfits

Anklets are vital for any outfit and keeping in mind that it might appear simpler to wear on several rings or a pleasant, hanging wristband, seriously consider going for an anklet. Yet, many individuals might have some disarray concerning where to begin, including in the event that there is a particular lower leg you ought to wear your anklets on. What's the significance here of wearing an anklet?

Anklet arm bands, likewise called anklets, are well known all over the planet. As one of the most established adornments around, this kind of gem has acquired different implications, that contrast contingent upon the area or culture they're seen in.

Lower leg gems, or an anklet, have been a piece of many societies for quite a long time. They were initially utilized as a type of enhancement and superficial point of interest. In later years, lower leg gems have become more well known as an approach to decorating your outfit. There are various kinds of an anklet accessible, going from straightforward string chains that circumvent the lower leg to additional unpredictable plans with dots and charms.

Lower leg wristbands are a staggering gem piece to claim. an anklet can take pretty much any easygoing outfit and bring it up a couple of scores. In the event that you have a couple of anklets currently in your gems box to look over, then, at that point, fortune has smiled on you.

On the off chance that you don't as of now have a couple of anklets close by, then you're likewise fortunate in light of the fact that this implies you have significantly to a greater extent motivation to buy a couple for yourself.

There are a few favourite types of anklets I have!

Types

1. The Beaded ones

Beaded is an anklet type that has acquired prevalence lately in light of the fact that it looks perfect with pretty much every closet type and is a lovely assistant to wear to the ocean side.

2. The Charms

There's no particular manner by which you can wear anklets. You can wear these lower leg arm bands with any outfit you can envision. Simply be certain that the actual anklet is either gold or silver, as this will assist with figuring out what outfit and event to wear it with. The charms attached to it are the major highlight and hence, I love these.

Which leg to wear the anklets on?

One of the fundamental inquiries individuals appear to have is about the rules of wearing anklets. This is a typical inquiry individual wonders about for a few different gems pieces. For instance, the wedding band is worn on the pass close by to connote marriage. Single studs that are worn on the right or left ear would connote sexual inclination at one particular moment.

There is some conversation about the anklets also. Anklets were likewise once a gift given by the husband to be to the lady of the hour. Wearing the anklet on the right lower leg is the imagery of those young ladies being called young ladies.

Be that as it may, in this day and age, there is no importance behind which lower leg you wear yours on. The choice relies upon which one you like.

Kick off your ethnic wardrobe with these must have kurtis

Kurtis are the most versatile clothes every woman has because they can be worn both during formal and informal occasions. For example, when a kurta is styled with leggings, it becomes perfect office wear; when paired with palazzo pants, it becomes a chic casual attire, and when paired with jeans, it transforms into casual college wear.

The best part about having a kurta is that you can style it the way you want. Whether summer, winter or monsoon, a kurta is suitable in every weather. But today, if you want your style to echo the modern trend, we show you the best women kurta set you must have. Keeping in mind that you want to do both an ethnic and a fusion look, we have curated a list of women kurta sets that you can buy to upgrade your style.

Anarkali kurta set: Anarkalis aren't just restricted to weddings. You can wear an Anarkali kurta set even daily, such as while at the office or college. Instead of investing in a heavily embroidered Anarkali, you can opt for a toned-down one that can be paired with leggings or palazzos.

Flared kurti: If you are a modern woman, why not reflect your belief in your dressing too? A flared kurta is a perfect ensemble for you to make your way through the crowd while turning heads. You can opt for floral prints and let go of the bottoms for a fusion look.

Overlay kurta: This is the new concept in women kurta sets where a slightly shorter kurta needs to be layered over the longer one. Both the kurtas can be of the same colour, but in different tones or different colours altogether. You can pair the look with palazzo pants for a festive look.

Shirt kurta: If you're an office-going woman, keep your look formal even while wearing an ethnic dress such as a shirt-style kurta. And you can pair a button-down kurta in pastel shades with cigarette pants for a boss lady look. You can even wear the kurta with denim and palazzo for an off-duty look.

Kurtas with a jacket: Take your layering game to a new level by wearing an ethnic jacket over your kurta. A cropped or a long-line jacket will work wonders for your traditional look, especially if you're bored wearing your traditional kurta in the same way over and over again.

Angrakha kurta: The angrakha women kurta set is a must-have if you want to don a royal look. Reflecting the Mughal style, these types of kurtas in solid colours with ethnic prints look great when paired with leggings.

Spaghetti kurti: If you want to keep your ethnic look modern and chic, a spaghetti kurti is the perfect ensemble to be worn with leggings or jeans. These types of kurti can be your staple summer wear that you can wear at your college or on your day out.

These are the best women kurta sets that you must have in your wardrobe.

How to Dress Well: 6 Tips for Men to Style Better

Believe it or not, men also like to dress well and feel good about themselves. As they should. But oftentimes, guys simply do not have where to go to, in terms of fashion advice. If you are a guy who wants to up your styling game, look no further. With our advice, you will surely be on the right path of becoming a better version of yourself.

1) Identify your style

You can see a lot of guys that are interested in fashion, but unfortunately, they often end up wearing what is “trendy” instead of what flatters them and their personality. You should never compromise who you are for the sake of others, after all, there is nothing more elegant on a man than his confidence. So, before you throw out every graphic tee you own or get rid of those cargo pants you love, stop and ask yourself – “What do I like?” You can find a way to still look stylish and wear the clothes you like. Even a metalhead can look classy when the occasion calls for it. Go to different men’s stores and try to find as many items as possible that you like, or browse the Internet for ideas. Then think about how you could style those items to look good. It takes time to develop your style, but that is the fun of it.

2) Embrace colour

Most men are afraid to wear colour, they usually stick to navy or grey. Well, we are here to tell you that wearing colours that suit your complexion will make you look like a million bucks. Even if you are used to only wearing black or blue, adding one single piece of clothing that is a different colour will make your outfit pop. Colours like mustard, pinks, greens, different shades of blue are both versatile and look good. Go to the store and try on different colours. Eventually, you will find those that you like. And remember, less is more – you only need one garment to lift an outfit.

3) Invest in a tailor

One thing is for sure, ill-fitting clothes are never in style. This does not mean that skinny jeans or baggy hoodies cannot look good, it is just how they suit your body. Your pants should never sag so much that everyone can see your underwear, nor should your dress shirt be so tight that it is a sneeze away from popping a button in someone’s eye. Invest in well-tailored clothes, especially when it comes to suits and blazers. Even jeans that have an outdated fit can suit you well if you have them taken in. Well-fitting clothes can make you appear taller, more confident and even slimmer, and to top it off, they are made for your body, so they are extremely comfortable.

4) Accessorize

Make a point by wearing stylish accessories. Sometimes a few smart accessories are all you need to pull an outfit together. Accessories can introduce colour to your outfit – like a royal blue scarf paired with a camel coat, some jeans and a white sweater. You can even juxtapose the colours to make the outfit interesting, like a mustard blazer with a burgundy pocket square. Even details catch the eye, like an elegant carbon fiber wallet. Minimalist and stylish, it is surely more fitting for a suit than that old bulky leather wallet you have had since college, and it does not take up space in your pocket. And, of course, no outfit is complete without a classy watch. Every man should have one watch that fits every occasion.

5) Look after your clothes

Whatever you decide to wear will not matter if it is a wrinkled mess. Teach yourself to take care of your clothing items, it will only make you appreciate them more. Organize your closet, make sure your shirts and pants are ironed and folded neatly, that they are clean and fresh. Additionally, polish your shoes regularly, so that they do not become dull. This will not only make you look neat and tidy, but the clothes will last much longer. Also, do not put your outfit together five minutes before you get out the door. Make it a habit to put out clothes and plan your outfit the night before. Make some effort to look stylish.

6) Take care of yourself

Dressing well goes hand in hand with taking care of oneself. Just like wearing clean clothes, a man never truly looks good unless he takes care of his skin, hair and body. By looking after yourself, you say to the world “Hey, I am responsible, reliable, organized, meticulous and my life is in order.” Wash and moisturize your face daily, and always maintain a fresh clean-cut hairstyle, even if you have hair to your waist, it should be clean and combed. Wear deodorant, be clean-shaven or have a groomed beard, and clean your nails. This way you will always look your best, even in simpler clothing.

While stepping out of your comfort zone is never going to be easy, becoming a better version of yourself is definitely possible. Dressing well is a good beginning, since it is a real confidence boost, especially once you start receiving compliments. Just like women, you guys deserve to look and feel beautiful and attractive, and with these few pieces of advice, you definitely can.

We as a whole need solace and opportunity while wearing a conventional dress or a dress with a shrug, and the ideal way to do that is by giving your dress a cutting-edge wind. Here are various ways of giving your traditional outfit a western touch and captivating everyone.

Styling Tips

Dress with Shrug

When you wear pullovers over your crop tops, it looks like you are some fashion queen. The same applies to traditional wear. Dress with shrug is a traditional outfit that will give you casual vibes. When paired with a dress with shrug, the entire look of the ethnic Anarkali kurta changes and a plain Anarkali dress can thus be worn for a typical day out and even for a family function. Pair the dress with shrug and minimal accessories and a sling bag, and you're all set!

12 Style Tips for Short Guys (Men) to Look Taller

If you have come across this article, then the chances are that you are not happy about your natural height. Well, you are not alone. A study completed by Body Logic found that 60% of men wished that they were taller than they are, and those respondents also felt there was a direct correlation between being taller and having a greater level of confidence.

So, if you are hoping to gain more confidence or rid yourself of any self-consciousness by appearing taller than you are, you are in the right place. Listed below, we have 10+ tips on how you can naturally make yourself appear taller.

1. Vertical Lines are Your Best Friend

A good place to start on your journey to appearing to look taller is to ditch as many horizontal lines in your outfits as possible. We are talking about everything from horizontal lines patterned into your clothing choices, to accessories that cross over your body and break up your natural body line, for example, visible belts. So, try to ditch any belts and if you are a fan of strips in your clothing choices, then try to purchase vertical stripes rather than horizontal ones.

2. Opt for Monochrome Tones

Sticking to a particular shade of clothing will also help you appear taller, mostly by tricking your (and everyone else's) eyes. By minimizing the color palette of your outfits, you will not allow any bright colors to be introduced into your outfit, so they cannot break up the seamless line of your monochrome tones. Imagine putting a bright green top under a dark jacket and pair of pants. It will break up the line of your body by showcasing your torso.

3. Fitted Clothes over Baggy Clothes

Sadly, one style of clothing that is incredibly hard for shorter individuals to pull off is baggy clothes. Specific oversized clothes can sometimes give off the vibe that you are wearing someone else's clothes or hand-me-downs. Pants that pool around your ankles, jackets not fitted to your shoulders, and shirts you cannot tuck up because of excess material, they all need to go. Fitted clothes are key here to help make you appear more confident and to ensure that you wear nothing baggy. For example, wear some fitted Levi's jeans, rather than a baggy pair of hand-me-downs.

4. The Old Trick: Height Boosting Shoes

While we're on the subject of accessories, you can also consider adjusting your shoe style and material. By this, I mean choosing shoes with thicker soles and more padding. This is an old trick favored by shorter men in Hollywood.

Wearing thick-soled shoes will add volume to the lower half of the body while simultaneously reducing its perceived width, which tricks people into thinking that it's bigger than it really is. You can check out this fun height comparison tool to have an idea of what your new height would be next to your SO and friends.

5. Try to Wear High or Mid-Rise Pants

The following two tips are all about elongating your legs. If you are on the shorter side, then avoiding low-rise pants is an absolute must. The end of your t-shirt or shirt, and the start of your trousers or jeans, show a clear divide within your body that can be hard to avoid if you are not using our monochrome tip above.

But, by opting for high-rise or mid-rise pants, you are making your waist appear higher than it probably is. Which, in turn, gives the effect that your legs are longer than they are.

6. Avoid Pant Breaks

Another issue that pants can give you, similar to the oversized issue, is if you choose pants with a full break. This is because a fuller break will also have your pant legs bunching at the ankle, which will give off that same effect that you are wearing clothes way too big for you and eliminate any height benefits you have. Instead, opt for either a no break or a cropped finish to the pants. Either of these will have your pants either ending at your ankle or the smallest part of it, which will make your legs appear longer than they are.

7. Why Not Try a V-Neck T-shirt?

This tip will help you elongate another body part - this time, your neck rather than your legs. If you are a faithful crew-neck t-shirt wearer, then why not switch it up? By choosing a v-neck over a crew-neck, you will allow the natural v-shaped neckline to elongate your neck as there is no collar area breaking up the line from your neck to your chest.

8. Start Wearing Pointed Shoes

Women use this trick to look slimmer, wearing pointed high heels with small-scale patterns. Guys can use the same trick to give themselves a height boost. Just make sure you don't wear too many different patterns, as it could ruin the whole effect, and make people think that you have a Napoleon complex.

Just stick to small patterns or go with plain colors. The pointed tip forces your whole body into good posture and makes you look taller by comparison. Additionally, pointy shoes have been proven to elongate the wearer's silhouette, making them appear longer from head to toe.

9. The Long Topcoat Effect

Many short men feel they can't wear coats because they make them look smaller. But this is not always the case. The key lies in wearing coats that are long enough to reach your knees. This type of coat makes you appear taller by comparison.

When people see an apparently normal-sized person wearing a knee-long coat, they automatically assume that any other visible parts must also be longer than usual, subconsciously tricking them into thinking you're taller.

10. Small Scale Patterns Work Magic for Short Guys (Men)

As we've already seen in the case of pointed shoes, wearing smaller patterns can give you a boost. For example, if you want to add a bit of color to your outfit without going overboard, consider choosing a tie with a small-scale pattern. The same goes for shirt patterns.

Just remember that while big prints look messy and unprofessional, too many small prints do the opposite. They make you look shorter due to what scientists call "visual crowding."

So just choose one or two small-scale prints max! Not only will they help add some "extra" inches to your height, but they also keep other people from being distracted by all the extra visual information on your body!

11. Proportionate Accessories to Give the Illusion of Height

A simple rule applies to accessories: Keep them simple and proportionate. A watch that's too big or a tie that's too small for your outfit will only make you look shorter by comparison. A discreet watch or bracelet will be a better bet.

Avoid belts with large buckles as they will both make your hips look tiny and break your natural body line. If you want to take it up a notch, consider getting suspenders instead. They are not only stylish, but they will also keep your pants from sagging and add some extra length to your silhouette!

12. Stand Tall with Confidence

Last but not least, having a correct posture can go a long way to making yourself seem taller. You may have heard of the saying, 'stand tall with confidence', but teaching yourself the correct posture will very much make you appear taller. This method works to both maximize the height that you already have, but also eliminate any bad posture habits that break up the natural line of your body. Say goodbye to any hunchbacks or shoulders and say hello to elevating your own natural height.

Conclusion

Although you can't change your height, you can still do a few things to appear taller. Give each of these tips a try, see what works, and try to mix and match them with other essential fashion tips that will make you feel more confident in your appearance in no time.

Hat Styling Tips 2023: Add Spunk to Your Personality

With multiple categories of hats available in the market, it's often overwhelming to select the one that goes with your personality. When you see your favorite fashion influencer or celebrity wearing different hats, you may be wondering whether you can create the same effect with your selection of hats? Believe it or not, it is possible. You can wear medium-priced hats and create a similar effect only with confidence. You can complement your outfit with elegant-looking hats that will make you different in the crowd. You will have to consider various options in terms of style and color if you want to create a stylish look in 2023.

One critical area that you will have to look into is your head size. Apart from the head size, the face shape also makes a difference. People with an oval shape, round shape, and long shape faces have different options before them. For example, individuals with long faces will have to go for wide-brimmed hats to cut across the forehead and create an impression of a shorter look. Hence, you can go for fedora hats but not beanies.

On the other hand, your head size also makes a huge difference. You must go for Panama hats, fedora hats, and newsboy caps if you have a big head. Wide-brimmed hats are the best for big heads. While considering hats for big heads, you will have to go with wide-brimmed, lightweight, and breathable hats that create a mysterious look.

Hat styles that will make you look elegant in the crowd

Now that you have decided to purchase a hat for your occasion, it's time to delve deep into the options. There are tons of choices before you when you hit the market. You don't have to be a hat specialist to purchase a hat. All you need to do is obey simple guidelines that experts provide you. Do not be scared of experimenting with your accessories because that might give you a completely distinct look.

Sun hats are ideal for casual settings

Yes, you may feel that sun hats are only good for a beachside look. However, it is not so. If you want to flaunt your face, hair, and neck, all you need to do is get a sun hat.

Select big hats with wide brims and wide circumference

It will not only deliver you shade but elevate your look to another level. Sightseeing, gardening, hiking, or when you are heading towards the beach, you will require some protection. Hence, floppy hats are the best option. You can select those coming with a light color like beige, white, or pastel shades. They limit the rays of the sun and thereby keep your head cooler.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Fedora hats are decent for every season

Again, you may feel that fedora hats are only for the summer season. However, your thought is wrong. If you want to hide your bad hair day, you can rely on fedora hats. Believe it or not, the curved headwear comes with indented crowns to draw all the attention towards you. You don't have to style yourself with additional accessories. All you need is to pair your hats with white t-shirts and fitted trousers to do the talking. Fedora hats are available in different materials and colors. You will have to mix and match different shapes and textures to create a feminine balance.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Beret caps are ideal for winter evenings

If you are interested in a distinctive look with a flat crown and woven style, you will have to look at beret hats. Hats are not only popular among women but also men. Ever since the early 19th century, this headwear has become popular in the western world. They are an integral part of official uniforms all across the globe. Hence, they are not only adequate for casual events but also formal get together. Another distinctive feature associated with the beret is that they are available in different materials and colors. Felt, wool, synthetic fiber, and crochet cotton helps in manufacturing these hats. Hence, you are in a better stance to select among them.

How about wearing cowboy hats for your outdoor events?

If you are interested in gardening, hiking, or any such outdoor activities, you can go for wide-brimmed and high crown cowboy hats. They are prevalent all across Western countries and have always remained in fashion. Irrespective of your sense of style, you can wear cowboy hats to give a rugged appearance and a mysterious look. Cowboy hats are available in different materials. However, the traditional ones are fur-based.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Apart from this, you can also take a look at Panama hats. Originating in Ecuador, these hats belong to a specific season. Hence, they are lightweight, breathable, and easy to maintain. The tight weaving makes these hats long-lasting and durable. For that authentic and traditional look, you will have to go for these breathable alternatives.

Winter Wardrobe Essentials for 2023 (9 Staples)

With the Winter fast approaching, it's time to up your wardrobe game with these simple essentials! From warm layers to stylish elements, this list contains the perfect combination of staying toasty with looking amazing. Plus, the great thing about all of these choices is that there are items out there to suit any budget. So, what are you waiting for? Let's upgrade your winter wardrobe in 2023 with these essentials!

1) Black Jeans

Although this might seem like a simple one, black jeans will help to set up your wardrobe for the whole winter. They literally go with anything and can be dressed up or dressed down for any occasion. You could choose wide-leg black jeans, black skinny jeans or any style to suit you! Plus, you know that black jeans are never going to go out of style, so you can wear them again and again. Not only this, but if they fade over time, you can re-dye them so they will keep looking brand new.

Keep it super simple with your black jeans, a white t-shirt and a colourful puffer jacket. Dress your jeans right up with a blazer and white shirt. Pair with a hoodie and autumnal coloured trainers for an effortless weekend look. Your options really are endless when it comes to black jeans, so you know you will be wearing these time after time.

Image Credit: Pinterest

2) Wool Overcoat

Next up we have a wool overcoat, a dressier staple for any winter wardrobe. Wool overcoats are long sleeve coats with a classic shape that usually sits between the mid-thigh and knee. No matter which dressy outfit you are wearing, when you throw on an overcoat, the whole outfit will come together. For a classic and timeless, go with either a navy, black or camel coloured overcoat.

Pair a camel overcoat with an all-black outfit for a classy look. To add a bit more warmth, go with a white shirt, nude cable knit jumper and a camel overcoat with blue jeans and camel boots. If you prefer a more monochromatic look, choose a grey overcoat with a white shirt and black trousers. Your options are endless with a wool overcoat so this really is essential in any wardrobe!

3) Thick Flannel Overshirt

Another winter essential when it comes to layering is a thick flannel overshirt! This is a classic style that is absolutely timeless, so it is worth investing in. First, choose which colour scheme you want to go for. Go for a classic red and black, more simply grey and white or a camel, black and brown for a modern edge. This will depend on the colour of the t-shirt, likely either black or white.

Then, pair the t-shirt and shirt with black or blue jeans, perhaps ripped for a nice twist. You could keep it more casual with a hooded tracksuit underneath for a slightly smarter casual look. To dress it up, go with a turtleneck, black jeans and boat shoes. The most simple of all is a full black outfit with your flannel shirt for an effortless look.

4) Puffer Jacket

Puffer jackets are another staple in any winter wardrobe! This one is much more focused on keeping warm, but hopefully, you realise by now that this doesn't mean you need to compromise on style. You could go for a lightweight puffer jacket if you like to layer or you could choose something much thicker if you like your coat to be the main warming element.

Style with tracksuits, jeans or even smart trousers and you will create a killer look every time. To make this your main winter coat, choose a waterproof choice. No matter your budget, this piece will become a wardrobe staple every year. For a more affordable option without compromising on quality, wait around for a women's or men's puffer jacket sale!

5) Beanie

Going in the direction of accessories, you should invest in a beanie! We all need to make sure that we are keeping warm through the winter and this is a stylish way to go about it. Beanies come in all different colours, so maybe you could go for a brighter option if the majority of your wardrobe is more neutral coloured, like a mustard yellow or deep orange. If you love more simple colours, keep it simple with a marl grey or black.

Again, beanies can be thrown on with anything and they will look great, so you have something on hand when it's cold no matter what you're wearing!

Image Credit: Pinterest

6) Scarf

While we are on the topic of warm accessories, you should pair your beanie with a matching scarf! Of course, we want everything to look good, so choosing something that matches is a great choice, especially if you have chosen a more basic neutral colour. However, you could go with a simple black scarf if you don't want too much colour on the outfit. Nevertheless, having a scarf in your winter wardrobe no matter what is essential to keep you warm in winter 2023!

7) Chelsea Boots

Our next choice is a good pair of Chelsea boots. Sometimes trainers just don't cut it on the coldest of days, so having a thick boot with nice socks is essential. Plus, Chelsea boots are a timeless classic that you will reach for every year. As with the rest of our picks, this one is so diverse.

One of the best ways to style Chelsea boots is with a grey overcoat, a white t-shirt and ripped blue jeans. Or, style it right up with a black turtleneck, smart checkered trousers and a black overcoat. Suede or leather are two of the most popular choices, with leather being the easiest to maintain over time. With a pair of Chelsea boots in the cupboard, you will never be stuck for choice.

8) Cable Knit Jumper

Another important thing when it comes to warmth is a cable knit jumper. When it comes to colour, your options really are endless. Keep it simple with black, grey or nude, go with a hint of colour with a dark green, burgundy or navy, or go bold with mustard or bright blue! Wear on its own or with a shirt underneath for a smarter twist on this look that will keep you warm on a night out.

Crew neck cable knit jumpers look amazing or you could go with a turtleneck if it is particularly cold where you live! Make sure to go for an oversized one if you choose to go with a turtleneck, as this will make you feel super cosy. On a cold day, throw on your jeans and cable knit jumper and you'll be good to go. If you need an extra layer, go with a long sleeve top underneath for extra warmth.

Image Credit: Pinterest

9) ¾ Zip Sweater

Last but not least, we have a ¾ zip sweater. For the days where a cable knit jumper isn't quite dressy enough, then a cable knit jumper worn over a shirt or long sleeve top is a dressy and warm option that is effortlessly stylish! Jeans, trousers and even joggers can all look amazing with a ¾ zip sweater, so having one of these on hand is always a good idea. Comfy, cosy and warm, this is a staple that will help to get you through winter looking stylish.

Final Thoughts

Who said your 2023 winter wardrobe has to be dull just so you can keep warm! With these different winter wardrobe essentials, you're all set for a stylish winter wardrobe that is also practical. From cosy winter accessories to essential coats and stylish finishing touches, you will find yourself reaching for these pieces year after year, making these classic pieces cost-effective and eco-friendly pieces! Prepare to always have something to wear this winter with these amazing wardrobe staples.

Summer Wardrobe Tips 2023 | Up Your Fashion Game

Some people love summertime, whereas others find the heat very problematic. Although summer clothes are super fashionable sometimes, it can be challenging to understand what works best. You want to feel comfortable in your clothes along with looking stylish. Feeling good is just as important as looking good.

There are certain dos and don'ts when it comes to wearing the right clothes in this weather. You want to dress in a way that does not make you feel the heat or humidity. You also do not want to buy something because it is trending and then never wear it again. You want something that completes your wardrobe and complements your whole look. That's why we will talk about seven summer wardrobe tips that will help enhance your fashion game in 2023.

1. Make Dresses Your Best Friend

Dresses are super underrated. You do not have to wear a dress only when going to some formal gatherings. A comfortable flowy dress is perfect for summer. It will not make you feel hot because of the light fabric, and it will not make you sweat either. The best thing about dresses is that you can wear them when you can't figure out what to wear otherwise. Minimal effort goes into styling it. You can add a pair of sandals with the right accessories, and it will make you look chic.

There are different types of dresses you can opt for, such as minidresses, maxi dresses, and sundresses. Sundresses are essential for summer. Not only can you find the most comfortable plus-size sundresses, but the floral prints will give off the perfect summertime vibe. Add a pair of sunglasses and floral sandals, and you are good to go almost anywhere.

2. Opt for Light Colors

As much as dark colors make us feel bold, try opting for lighter colors in the summer. Lighter colors reflect heat and make us feel breezy, and give the perfect vibe. Light colors have an airy and cool feel that fits with summer, which dark colors do not. Pastel colors also come under this category and look stylish. There are plenty of ways to wear pastel-colored clothing. Colors such as lilac, light blue, and mint green are trending pastel colors. You can mix and match these colors or wear them with neutrals. For example, you can mix neutral colors, such as gray, with a pastel color for an elegant and classy look. You can also mix neutral tones with a pastel nude color, such as beige or light peach. You can style these colors with various accessories and do natural makeup and look flawless.

3. Avoid Skin-Tight Clothes

Tight clothing absorbs heat and makes you sweat, which are two things you don't want. The heat and humidity are already stressful, let alone having your clothes bother you too. Thus, choose clothes that have a lot of air circulation. Loose-fitting and flowy clothing not only gives excessive airflow but also goes hand in hand with summertime. You can wear crop tops, oversized shirts, wide-legged pants, and loose blouses, which will help you stay cool. You can also wear off-shoulder or sleeveless blouses for a formal look. It will make you feel stylish and not let the heat get to you either.

Image Credit: Pinterest

4. Choose the Right Fabric

You must know the correct fabric for summer. Choosing clothes based on the material will only matter during this time. However, it is something that needs proper attention. You want to wear breathable and light fabrics that will not make you feel sweaty. Try to wear cotton, silk, chiffon, or linen clothing. You can also choose jersey material and wear basic t-shirts and V-necks. Also, if you want textured clothing, you can choose fabrics such as seersucker. It will be light and make you look fashionable. The best thing about these materials is that they give the perfect summer vibe, along with making you heat-free.

5. Own a Variety of Tank Tops

You must own at least two tank tops. Tank tops are the most useful items in your entire wardrobe and it is the perfect thing for summer. You can wear a tank top and a pair of pants to beat the heat with a summer-loving casual outfit. Yet, you can also wear it below a sheer dress. Apart from this, you can wear different colored tank tops, such as red, blue, or pink every day, and create a whole new look. You can also pair it with tights/shorts and create an outfit for the beach. You can style a tank top in almost any way, and adding accessories gives an effortless summer look.

Image Credit: Pinterest

6. Say No to Denim

Denim is always a good idea, but not in summer! The fabric is quite heavy and will keep bothering you. Denim jeans, high-waisted or skinny, will make you feel hot in the summer. As an alternative to jeans, you can choose different lowers, which have more breathable fabric. You can wear cotton or linen straight pants, palazzos, or baggy pants. However, if you still want to wear denim, wear wide-leg jeans, which will allow better airflow than other options. However, with the variety of clothing items available nowadays, try choosing something stylish and comfortable.

7. Rely on Skirts and Shorts

Skirts and shorts have plenty of variety. They are breathable and help in preventing excessive heat. Mini skirts are your holy grail for summer. You can pair this with formal or casual tops and sandals or closed shoes. It will give you a chic semi-casual summer outfit.

Other options for skirts include tulle and pleated skirts. When we talk about shorts, you can choose anything you prefer. Try going for floral printed or lace shorts. Floral prints are perfect for summer. You can pair them with a tank top/button-down shirt and wedges to give a chic vibe. Lace shorts add an extra feminine touch to your look. You can pair this with a crop top and a summer hat and make a statement style.

Conclusion

The most important thing to remember when it comes to choosing clothes is comfort. If you are not comfortable, nothing else matters. It would help if you never compromised your comfort because of style. While you should look good, nothing trumps your satisfaction. If you are wearing something that others wear out of peer pressure, that will not look good. Wear clothes that you like and are easy to carry. If you feel good, you will automatically look good too. These tips will help you with the heat and give you choices on clothing and fashion, but in the end, only you can decide what suits you best.

However, Wool blend lowers are the perfect alternative to casual layered leggings! You can wear wool-blend trousers with skirts. As such dressing offers warmth and comfort, this dressing is the ideal option for dressing up winters.

When selecting wool-blend lowers, you should consider choosing deep colors such as grey or navy blue. Then, you can pair them with classic knits or silk shirts.

5. Knee-high boots

While you can try out many winter outfit ideas, the classics never go out of style!

These classic shoes usually run all the way up to the knees of the wearer. However, in some cases, the boots also fall slightly under as well. These shoes feel tight around the leg shaft and ankle.

This tightness ensures that these shoes offer a secure fit to the user. In addition, manufacturers usually use leather to design these shoes. Since they are made from leather, these shoes provide the right amount of warmth to the users.

Wear these shoes with a pullover and a formal skirt to rock the look!

6. Ankle boot

Ankle boots come in handy the most in the winter season.

Since they are highly fashionable and go well with casual dresses, you can pair them with trousers to rock your casual winter looks!

These shoes offer a perfect combination of style and comfort, which is just what you should look for in shoes for winter.

You will find that these shoes are highly versatile. They go well with dresses, skirts, leather jackets, and even blazers! You name it.

7. Oxford shoe

You may know Oxford shoes as lace-up shoes. These shoes have the bottom of the lacing section closed due to sewing.

Furthermore, they also come with their eyelet facings stitched underneath the vamp. This design is featured on the front section of the shoe.

It's safe to say that these shoes are trendy. Other than that, these shoes also happen to be unisex.

In conclusion, Oxford shoes give you a lot of variety as they work well with formal and casual wear alike. Considering that, they will make an excellent option for improvising your fashion game!

8. Leather jackets

There couldn't be a better time all around the year if you love wearing leather jackets. Not only are they hot and comfortable, but they are very stylish as well! We wouldn't be wrong if we said that leather jackets happen to be one of the most popular forms of winter outerwear.

Here is a crazy fact for you: The origins of leather jackets date back to World War I. Even after being around for so long, leather jackets still happen to be the one-stop fashion solution for many men and women. If you wonder what kind of leather jacket you should buy, you must check out sexy leather jackets online!

What to Wear for Maternity Photoshoot in 2023

We all know that as blissful as pregnancy is, it can be equally hard too. And an expecting mother goes through all kinds of emotional swings throughout this period. At the same time, it is also a phase when a lady becomes the creator of a new life, carrying it within her body.

Pregnancy brings both physical and emotional transformation to the woman. Inevitably, she'd want to capture the moments and cherish them for a lifetime and more. In the modern world, a maternity photoshoot is the best way to capture these precious moments of life.

Over the years, maternity photoshoots have progressed from taking informal images at home to going out and having them photographed in a studio. Either way, the challenge that every expecting mother faces is, "what to wear for maternity photoshoot in 2023?"

Choosing the correct outfit for an occasion has always been a tough choice especially when it's about pregnancy shoots. And this further complicates the decisions to be made. At the same time, it is also important that the mother feels comfortable in whatever she chooses to wear throughout the shoot.

In this informative article, we will share a few tips and ideas on maternity photoshoot outfits for 2023.

1. Trail Gowns

There is a certain elegance and timelessness that comes with gowns. And when you are pregnant, you get to wear your baby bump with even more pride than ever. With Trail Gowns especially, things tend to get easier and at times, even royal. They are easy to carry and comfortable around the baby bump. In maternity photoshoots, they capture the essence of your curves and contours. Furthermore, trail gowns can sprinkle a bit of drama into your shoot. In a still photograph, the flowing fabric as you flaunt your baby bump, adds to the overall appeal of the picture.

2. Maternity Photoshoot in Saree Ideas

Yes, you read it right! Another option for your maternity photoshoot can be a saree. We all know that those six yards of sheer elegance have been doing wonders for as long as we can remember. And nothing stops a mother from wearing a saree for a baby bump photoshoot. There are no boundaries on the type of sarees you can wear on a pre baby shoot. Wrap it in any style you want and let the camera bring grace to the picture.

3. Lehenga

Another ethnic costume suitable for a pregnancy photoshoot is to go for your wedding lehenga. Wearing a lehenga is every girl's dream come true. And the dream becomes even more divine during a maternity shoot. However, you don't have to buy a whole new lehenga for the shoot. You can use the one you wore for your engagement or wedding or any other function. It will not only bring the extra spark to your shoot but also will bring back so many memories just to build them with the new ones.

4. Professional Outfit

While we have discussed a lot of tastes so far, not everyone wants to go with traditional outfits. And as we said before, it's important for the mother to be comfortable in whatever she wears. So, you may also choose to wear professional-work attire. You can pair up a skirt with a shirt or a dress. You can always "Boss Up" your maternity photoshoot!

Image credit: pinterest

5. Casuals

Speaking of comfort, some women also like to keep things casual or go for a street look. And maternity photoshoots are all up for it! For casual looks, you can run to the basics like a black top and jeans with a denim jacket. Or you can go for dungarees or a crop top with shorts. You may even go for flair dresses. Casual looks tend to fit well in backgrounds like home settings, backyards, parks and even the famous landmarks of your city.

6. One-Piece Bikini

Maternity photoshoots are all about showing off your baby bump. A one-piece full set of bikinis are a good option to show off your curves. For that, you can go for solid-colored bikini costumes or with neons.

Image credit: pinterest

7. Solid Colors

Since it's a maternity shoot, the prime focus is on the baby bump and nothing should distract the focus from it. We generally suggest going with solid colors so your baby bump stays the prime focus. However, a couple pieces of jewelry or a scarf never hurt anyone.

8. Textured Clothing

Using textured clothing for your maternity shoot is a great way to add dimension to your photos without overcrowding them. Lace is a beautiful and feminine option that pictures beautifully. At the same time, knits are not far behind. Textured clothing will give your maternity photoshoot an extra edge and is the perfect substitute for prints and patterns.

9. Have Two Outfits

With maternity shoots, it's good to keep your options open. We suggest that you must have two outfits ready such as one for casuals and one for a sophisticated shoot. It brings variety to your pictures. All you have to do is inform your photographer that you'd like to change outfits during the shoot.

10. Bold Themes

You can have bold prints, vivid colors, and classic childhood themes if you want to bring a huge personality to your pregnancy photography. Any of these clothes can make a joyful statement in your maternity images. A wonderful method to put joy first during your pregnancy!

11. Choosing Outfits With Your Partner and Children

If you want to include your partner or kids in your maternity photos, choose your dress first and then theirs to complement your style. The best option is to choose solid neutral colors. Adding a splash of color with accessories, on the other hand, is a terrific way to bring everyone in the photo together.

There's no need to be concerned about what to wear for a maternity photoshoot. The first half of the battle is settling on your overall look, and then you're good to go. Also, avoid wearing clothing, cosmetics, or hair that is overly trendy. Allow your bump to take center stage in documenting and remembering this special moment.

6 Timeless Fashion Trends That Never Go Out of Style

Everyone should have a few closet staples in their wardrobe. Closet staples are timeless fashion trends that never go out of style. By adding these six trendy and comfortable fashion items to your wardrobe, you'll never have another; "I don't have anything to wear!" moment again.

1) White Linen Shorts

White linen shorts can be dressed up or down, which makes them one of the best fashion trends. If you're having a relaxed day, you can pair them with a casual women's t-shirt. This look is perfect for running errands, picking up the kids from school, working from home - and so much more. It's important to feel trendy and stylish, even while wearing something comfortable. It will help your confidence soar through the roof.

White linen shorts can also be dressed up. Pair your white linen shorts and casual women's t-shirt with your favorite heels and a few stunning accessories, and head out to lunch with the girls. Yes, it's really that simple. You can also pair your white linen shorts with stylish button-down shirts, crop tops, off-the-shoulder ruffle blouses - and much more. Get creative and style your white linen shorts to suit any occasion you're attending.

Image Credit: Pinterest

2) Stretchy Boot Cut Pants

You absolutely have to own a pair or two of stretchy boot-cut pants. Stretchy boot-cut pants are usually worn at work or in other professional settings. But, that doesn't mean that they aren't versatile. Let's talk about why you need these trendy pants:

- They're incredibly comfortable and functional. You can wear them for hours at a time without feeling like, "Oh my gosh, I can't wait until I can take these off"
- You can wear them at work or for dinner.
- Because they're stretchy, they'll fit comfortably, even though minor weight fluctuations or bloating.
- They look nice! Just like white linen shorts, stretchy boot-cut pants flatter your natural silhouette.

Pair your stretchy bootcut pants with heels and your favorite work blouse. Or, get a slightly oversized linen button-down and head out to the best dinner spot in town.

3) Oversized Cardigans

Oversized cardigans are cozy, comfy, trendy, and easy to style! They work during all seasons and, most importantly, they can also be dressed up or down. If you have some quick errands to run, wear an oversized cardigan with your favorite t-shirt and some comfy leggings.

If you happen to get a spontaneous call from your friends to meet them for some eats and drinks during your quick errand day, don't panic! Simply, throw on your favorite heels or fancy sandals and you've got yourself a whole new outfit.

Don't throw your oversized cardigan into storage during summer, either. You'll be needing it. With an oversized cardigan in your closet during the summer, you'll be ready for the chills of movie theaters and cool night walks. Oversized cardigans are also perfect for keeping warm in offices with frigid A/C, unexpectedly windy rainy days, and anything in between.

4) Pencil Skirts

Another versatile closet staple. A pencil skirt is like your own personal magic fairy. All you need is ask, and it'll grant all your wishes. Work, church, brunch, shopping - pencil skirts work for literally any occasion. They're stretchy, comfy and they're definitely never going out of style.

There are so many outfits that you can make with a pencil skirt. They can be worn with heels, sandals, or sneakers. And best of all, you can buy them short, mid-length, or long. Pair your pencil skirt with a leather jacket and sneakers or a blazer and heels. Dress up with a formal floral blouse or dress down with a graphic tee. The possibilities with pencil skirts are literally endless!

Image Credit: Pinterest

5) V-Neck T-Shirt Dresses

Flowy, comfy, versatile. You need a v-neck t-shirt dress. Your wardrobe is simply not complete without it. You can pair your v-neck t-shirt dress with just about anything and wear it just about anywhere. Sneakers, flip flops, or casual sandals are the perfect combination with your v-neck t-shirt dress for a relaxed day.

If you're looking to be a bit more dressed up heels, high knee boots, or dressy sandals are perfect combinations for a v-neck t-shirt dress. Regardless of your shoe or accessory choice, you'll always be comfortable while wearing a t-shirt dress.

When you own comfortable fashion trends that will never go out of style, you always have something to wear. Even if it's just an errand day, leave your house feeling confident, beautiful, radiant, and always looking your best.

Summer is ahead and my feed has started popping up with the posts for the latest trends to look out for. Stylists have begun creating looks that would be trending this summer. This past year, during the lockdown we all have spent our days and nights in pajamas and nightwear. Some of you might still prefer slouchy clothes with light fabrics for work from home, most of us are pretty tired of it and want to hop on the latest trend bandwagon and try some new styles. To be honest, even my Insta needs some cheering up!

It is being said that, as the previous year, 2023 will also be the year of comebacks. Like tie-dye, which is still going strong, matching separates and oversized clothing has also made a banging comeback. Sadly, we aren't still able to go out on a regular basis but that does not mean we can't dress up a little for dinner at home, a zoom call to family and friends, or sizzle up a boring day. Here we have gathered some casual fashion trends and styles that are easy to achieve at home. These styles will give an edge to your everyday clothing. Give the list below a quick look.

1) Statement Sleeve Tops

It isn't the first time this trend is in the spotlight. Every time the style returns, it is grander than before. For outings, you can go big and bold but as we are planning to stay indoors, keep it a little subtle and remember not to overdo it. Be it ruffled, victorian, bell, bishop, or balloon sleeves, pair it with a pair of denim shorts, your regular jeans, or a pair of plaid trousers to give it a smart casual look at the dinner table. Pair it with a pair of studs or a bracelet to keep it minimal. Statement sleeves being in demand, many websites have it on sale; order the one that reflects your style.

Image Credit: Pinterest

2) Wide-Legged Pants (Palazzos)

Wide-legged pants have become the reigning silhouette for bottoms in recent times. As we are staying indoors and it's going to be summers, skinny jeans and fitted pants simply cannot be the go-to choice. Palazzo pants keep you comfortable and give room to breathe. We all have been praying secretly for these pants to be in fashion. Admit it now!

Be it denim, printed, plain or plaid, it will suit a person of any age or whatever your body type. When staying indoors, pair it up with a casual t-shirt, a cardigan, or a crop top and enjoy.

Image Credit: Pinterest

3) Matching Sets

The '70s matching sets styling trend has made an extravagant comeback this year. These sets come in different fabrics, colors, and styles including crop tops and skirts, shorts and blouses, sweatsuits, and many more. The matching sets can be a great addition to your wardrobe and come in very useful when you have online work meetings. They look stylish, sophisticated yet comfortable. It totally depends upon your preference if you want to go for solids, printed, or both. Put your hair in a sleek hairstyle that suits your face and you're good to go for that work call.

Image Credit: Pinterest

4) Scarf Tops

One of the top trends of the '90s and early 2000s, the scarf tops has also made a comeback and no doubt it will be ruling your Insta feeds this summer. Including Beyonce and Bella Hadid, many celebrities having been spotted sporting a scarf top. Almost everyone has invested in a square scarf as it is a staple in every closet. It is the most budget-friendly outfit that makes you stand out from the crowd. This summer when you're visiting the beach, don't forget to wear the scarf top! You can pair it with denim shorts or a pair of fitted pants.

Image Credit: Pinterest

5) Oversized Clothing

We no longer live in the times when oversized clothing is considered unfashionable. Rather, oversized t-shirts, sweatshirts, hoodies, jackets are very much in fashion these days, a lot of celebrities including Kim Kardashian, Rihanna, Hailey Beiber have been seen wearing it.

It will keep you comfortable in the scorching summer heat by giving you a casual, laid-back yet chic look. You can pair it with pants of your choice or skip the bottoms. Style oversized garments with minimal accessories, a belt, sneakers, and sport a no-makeup look. You can wear it on your chore days, grocery runs, or a socially distant stroll in a park.

Image Credit: Pinterest

6) Work Pants

It has been a while since your work pants have seen the light of day. This whole past year when you've been working from home in your pajamas, you must have missed sporting that formal look that makes you feel like a boss lady. You need not worry because thankfully, we live in the times when fashion has no boundaries. We can sport a casual look at work and a formal one at... anywhere!

Pull out those favorite work pants and style them up this summer. Wear it with a casual t-shirt, a tank top, crop top, or a spaghetti-strapped blouse. Put on sneakers if opting for a casual look or pair it with matching heels for a date night.

Image Credit: Pinterest

7) Graphic Tees

A t-shirt is said to be the most expressive garment of all. It has evolved tremendously over the years, from being an undershirt to becoming one of the most fashionable clothing items. Coming on to graphic tees, it was first introduced in the 1960s but took the world by storm in the 70s and since then the trend is going strong.

Youngsters to adults, everyone has graphic tees or a gameday shirt in their wardrobe and this summer as well you can wear your favorite graphic tee to make a statement. Pair it with shorts or a skirt or wear it oversized. You can never go wrong with the styling of a graphic t-shirt.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Bottom Line

All the trends and styling mentioned above are pretty easy to achieve and won't have you going on a shopping spree and breaking your bank account to get a particular look. These items are pretty common, just explore your wardrobe and pair up some garments and accessories to achieve the required look and rock the summer like a queen.

How to Slay in Leather Jackets this Spring 2023

Spring is here, and we are ready to come out of hibernation. It is time to ditch the bulky sweaters and coats and bring out the dresses and skirts. One garment people often question wearing in the springtime is a leather jacket. Who said leather jackets are only meant for the fall and winter seasons? Leather jackets can be worn all year, so make sure not to stack them away after the last snowfall.

However, you must be mindful of a couple of things before wearing leather jackets in the warmer months. First, opt for a lightweight leather jacket with a thin lining so it is airy and breathable. Second, avoid darker tones as they intensify high temperatures. Play with lighter tones instead.

The following is a list of our top 4 picks for springtime. Let us get started.

1. Powder Pink Moto Leather Jacket

Spring fashion is all about colors, so this powder pink moto leather jacket makes the perfect pick. Unlike the regular black and brown variants, this leather jacket comes as a breath of fresh air. Its stunning color exudes a chic and girly aura that will make you feel instantly prettier. Moreover, it is just one of those colors that stands out in the crowd. We have all seen neutral-toned leather jackets. It is time we tried out something different like this pastel powder pink number.

Aside from the color, the cut and finish of a moto leather jacket are unparalleled. With its sleek and simple design and body-hugging silhouette, this jacket flatters all shapes and sizes. Its clean design allows the jacket's unique color to take center stage, the perfect pick for minimalists. If, however, you wish to opt for something fancier, by all means, opt for a moto jacket with details like embroidery and embellishments; they make the jacket look all the more special. For the spring season, make sure to opt for a light lining material so that your jacket is breathable and airy.

Image Credit: Pinterest

When it comes to styling, powder pink may seem like a tricky color to work with, but with the right color palette, it works beautifully every time. Pair your powder pink beauty with a plain white pleated dress, a flirty skirt, and a tank top, or sport it over a pair of everyday jeans and a tee. Easy, breezy, and beautiful, just like spring.

2. Lilac Leather Biker Jacket

Spring is all about pretty pastels, and this lilac leather biker jacket is the hot new must-have for the season. Lilac is such a gorgeous color. It radiates a serene aura and looks supremely elegant and sophisticated. Leather jackets have always been known for their rogue and badass outlook. Therefore, a lilac-colored leather jacket never seemed like a doable idea until now. This perfect amalgamation of two contrasting auras is what we like to call harmonious perfection.

Leather biker jackets are super edgy and bold, which is what makes this particular pick even more stunning to behold and adorn. The wide lapelled collar, the asymmetric zipper, and the slim-fit cut of a biker jacket are one that instantly adds an element of boldness to your ensemble. This lilac-hued number is perfect for you if you are looking to channel all the badass vibes while maintaining that chic, elegant, and feminine outlook. If you are looking to go the extra mile, opt for a studded leather jacket in the same color or try your luck with a leather vest as opposed to the conventional leather jacket.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Like the powder pink leather jacket, this lilac leather jacket also performs best when given the spotlight. It is an absolute beauty; surely, you must let it shine. Style your lilac leather jacket with a monochrome lilac or lavender ensemble (all the purple vibes!), or pair it with understated neutrals like a pair of beige pants and a white button-down shirt or a flirty printed chiffon sundress.

If you are not a fan of color, lilac is the one color that will convert you; trust us. If you are searching for a spring season pick, this one is it.

3. Applique Patchwork Leather Jacket

The classic leather jackets are tried and tested, universal favorites. And rightly so; they are effortless, versatile, and timeless. However, sometimes, the heart craves for something different, something new. If you are on the search for something out-of-the-norm, an applique patchwork jacket is the one for you.

Featuring a unique assortment of leather patches and other accessory details, an intricately crafted masterpiece is nothing short of art. What makes applique jackets even more special is that every piece is unique in its own way; the design always varies. Moreover, there are so many options to play with. Leather patches of different colors and textures, embellishments, and embroidery; you can create your own custom piece by making some tweaks.

If you are a minimalist, play it safe with a monotone or dual-tone applique leather jacket. Monotone jackets feature leather patches of the same color but often varying textures to make them more interesting and attractive. Dual-toned jackets feature one more color to create a good contrast of color and texture.

If you are on the search for a true statement piece, the sky is truly the limit. Graffiti-inspired patchwork leather jackets are all the rage right now. Featuring an array of leather patches intertwined with embellishments and accents that make the jacket all the more special, a jacket such as this one is a head-turner and the ultimate crowd-pleaser. Go as bright and bold as your heart desires; art is not a thing to be restricted.

Coming to the cut, since the jacket canvas has so much going on, it is best to stick to understated cuts to balance everything out. A collarless straight-cut jacket or a sleek moto leather jacket cut works best in this situation.

4. Asymmetrical Collarless Jacket

When it comes to leather jackets, we have seen them all. From the classic biker and bomber cuts to the sleek moto and shirt-cut fits, leather jackets are loved by one and all. Much like other trends, leather jackets too have been subject to innovation, and we are glad to have come up with some refreshingly unique designs such as this asymmetrical collarless jacket. Collarless jackets are the true embodiment of minimalism. They are clean, simple, and statement. Asymmetrical jackets are quirky. Combine the two, and you have something stunning. Asymmetrical collarless jackets are the perfect pick for you if you are on the hunt for something minimal but not basic. Unique, easygoing, and effortless; it ticks all the boxes. Style your asymmetrical collarless jacket with anything from a dress to jeans to everything in between. This is perhaps the easiest one to style of the lot. When it comes to colors, stick to the spring color palette. Play with muted tones like understated neutrals (white, camel, brown) or vibrant colors, including both bright and muted tones like the yellows, millennial pinks, and greens.

Parting thoughts

Leather jackets are perfect for all-year-round wear. They are light, breathable, and easy. Moreover, they are super versatile; how could you say no to them? This spring season, try your luck with our top four picks and turn heads wherever you go.

Once you have had your wedding day, you can go wild with all sorts of crazy designs if that's your thing.

Go for something blingy like a jewel bikini, or keep things more simple with a subtle black swimsuit. Don't forget to take a beach coverup like a fancy sarong or comfy beach pants, and of course a glam beach bag! Make the most of your stunning destination and soak up the sun in your beautiful swimwear.

3) Lightweight Evening Jacket

Depending on your location, the temperature could dip in the evenings, so packing a lightweight evening jacket is a must. Something like a lightweight cardigan or denim jacket would work well and will go with most outfit choices, especially gorgeous cocktail dresses!

You don't want your precious time away with your loved ones to be cut short because it's too cold, so be prepared and you will have nothing to worry about. Roll up your jacket tightly at the bottom of your bag and it won't be any bother.

Image Credit: Pinterest

4) Statement Sunglasses

You're likely to be taking lots of pictures when you are away, so if you don't want to risk squinting too much on your special photos, make sure to take some statement sunglasses with you. You will look effortlessly stylish and you will have a great new accessory in your lovely photos!

Everyone suits different sunglasses, however, a firm favorite for many people are oversized frames. This is a great way to make a statement without any crazy colors or patterns. Just make sure you occasionally take them off to prevent unwanted tan lines, especially before the wedding.

Image Credit: Pinterest

5) Statement Necklace

You want to look as glam as possible during your special trip, and one way to add glamour to any outfit is with a statement necklace. Pick a more simple outfit and pair it with a statement necklace to take it to another level. A white dress with a bright, colorful necklace works amazingly, especially when paired with a more simple bag and shoes. Whilst they aren't necessarily for everyday wear, you will look and feel amazing as soon as you put it on.

Statement necklaces have been in style for years, and it looks like that isn't going to change anytime soon, so invest in a few different pieces so you always have different options. Experiment with a range of colors and textures to find your own unique style. Any vacation outfit isn't complete with a few accessories, yet a statement necklace will make you stand out from the crowd for all the right reasons!

6) Raffia Handbag

The most on-trend vacation accessory you can find is a raffia handbag. These gorgeous, neutral bags look beautiful but they are also more sustainable than other bags thanks to their natural material. Just try to avoid ones with plastic linings and you'll be good to go! Best of all, they go with everything so you will save plenty of packing space for more important things. The subtle color of the bag works especially well with beautiful bright outfits!

You can get miniature sizes if you only need to take a few bits on the go, or larger over-the-shoulder bags which are perfect for the evening as you can easily carry your lightweight jacket. Whether you decide to get a designer raffia bag or a highstreet version, there are plenty of options on the market, so you will find something perfect for you.

Final Thoughts

Of course, your wedding day is the focus of the trip, however, putting some thought into your fashion essentials for before and after the big day will help to make the entire experience all the more special. You want to look and feel better than ever and with these bits and pieces, you will have all the confidence in the world to be yourself and enjoy the time away! Plus, these items are timeless, so you can continue to enjoy them after the wedding.

Bralette vs Sports Bra - How to Choose in 2023

Every type of bra or lingerie piece has a purpose for which it is meant to be worn. You don't have to follow the rule that one type of bra goes with everything. Explore the lingerie world and you will find that the variety is meant to benefit you. There has been an evolution of bras since they were first made. Now you can get a bra for each type of need that you have. From activewear to casual wear, you have something to choose from.

Sports bras and bralettes are the two members of the vast lingerie world that need to be given the attention they deserve. This post will help you know all about sports bras and bralettes, and how they are different and similar to one another in their usage and support.

What is a Bralette and its Uses?

A bralette is a more relaxed and casual version of a bra. It provides coverage and comes with removable pads. The designs and patterns are numerous when it comes to bralettes. They look sassy and elegant even if they are worn all alone. They are fashionable and trendy in terms of their neckline and strappy details.

Bralettes can also be understood as a mix between a crop top and a sports bra. You can ditch your regular bra and wear a bralette that is a much comfier option, non-constricting and provides necessary coverage for your breasts. They are also mostly made of comfortable and breathable material so they can become your go-to option for everyday casual wear.

Image Credit: Pinterest

When it comes to the usability of a bralette, there are many. They can be worn underneath your clothing as well as just as it is as a sexy crop top. They are great for layering underneath a jacket or a blazer which will give you a confident boss lady feels. Those who want little support can go for the padded bralettes and flaunt their curves. Bralettes are available for all sizes of women and no matter what size you are there's a bralette for you.

What is a Sports Bra and its Uses?

A sports bra we all know is meant to be worn while doing sports activities like fuming, playing a sport, running, or even yoga. Breasts are sensitive and need to be protected while doing physical exercises or workouts. Sports bras are necessary to wear during all these physical activities because they hold your breasts in place which prevents injury and soreness that may result from the up and down motion in the breasts.

Based on the type of workout sports bras comes in three variants that provide different supports.

- Low-Impact Sports Bras: For workouts like yoga or meditation you don't need much support as there is little to no movement in the breasts and low-impact sports bras are ideal for this.
- Medium-Impact Sports Bras: These provide support to the breasts to restrict excessive movement that could result in injury. These come with removable pads and are ideal for workouts like running.
- High Impact Sports Bras: They provide coverage and encapsulation of the breasts to restrict movement during physically strenuous exercises and are ideal for maximum support.

Sports bras are not a boring category of lingerie to explore. There are many different types of sports bras out there that provide the support that you need and they are also cute. Apart from the regular black and grey colors, there are many more to seek.

Difference between Sports Bra and Bralette

The differences between bralette and sports bra cannot be ignored. Below are listed some of them to help you understand them better:

- A sports bra is heavily padded which is necessary to fulfill its function of supporting the breasts and holding them in place. A bralette comes with no or removable padding and you choose however you want to wear it.
- Sports bras are worn while working out and can be worn underneath your workout wear or on their own. While bralettes with their beautiful designs and patterns are meant to be seen when you wear them.
- Sports bras that are heavy-duty ones are made for vigorous activities while for activities like yoga you can opt for a bralette instead of a sports bra as this activity doesn't cause much movement in the breasts.

Similarities Between a Sports Bra and a Bralette

Despite the differences between a sports bra and a bralette, they both have a similarity that they are stylish to wear. They elevate your boring regular outfit. A sports bra looks so sassy while providing support during a workout. With the zipper in front and racerback in the back, it makes you look and feel confident in yourself.

A bralette on the other hand does the same for your everyday outfit giving you options to style it differently each time you wear it. Wear a bralette as a crop top or style it underneath a sheer top, the choice is up to you. But the bralette will always end up making you look sexy and feel comfortable.

Summing Up

Both the sports and the bralette are ideal to wear in summer. Sports bras are made up of breathable material and absorb perspiration. Bralettes also provide comfort and breathability. There you know all the things you need to know about a sports bra and a bralette. Choose for yourself between the two keeping all the aspects in mind and according to your need and comfort. Both have their place in the lingerie world that has something to offer for everyone.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

1) Can you wear bralettes as bras?

Yes, you can experiment with wearing bralettes as regular bras. They come in several designs & patterns with a beautiful neckline and help you look sassy. If you are concerned about the nip slip, we recommend you consider using stick-ons.

2) Does wearing a bralette cause sagging?

The short answer is No. There is no scientific evidence available that can support the statement that wearing a bralette can cause the sagging of boobs. Therefore, you don't need to worry about the sagging of your boobs when wearing a bralette for any time duration.

3) Can I wear bralette for exercise?

It's not advisable to wear a bralette for exercise or high-impact workouts. Since bralettes are not designed to reduce the movement of breasts during high-impact workouts. Instead, it is recommended to choose the right sports bra depending on how much support you need.

4) Is it okay to wear a sports bra in public?

Yes, it is completely fine to wear a sports bra in public. Many girls these days wear sports bra outside of the gym when going out for a walk in the morning or a taking a stroll in the evening. You may also find many girls wearing a sports bra while travelling in a metro train. As long as you are comfortable wearing a sports bra, you can wear it anywhere.

5) Do bralettes cause sagging?

Sagging of breasts is a natural process that can't be averted. However, if you wear the right supportive bra, you can reduce the chances of breasts sagging at an early age. Wearing a bralette does not cause sagging at all, it is a myth that needs to be busted right away.

Why Saree Shapewear is Popular + Benefits

Sarees are such an integral part of our culture, and while we can test and rock clothing from cultures all around the world, the grace and beauty that emanate from the simplest of sarees are unmatched. Sarees have a way of really grounding you while giving you the upliftment and confidence you need to flaunt your culture's most deep-rooted clothing style. However, for the modern woman who struggles to fully own her body shape, it can become difficult to completely embrace and show it off with style.

Shapewear for saree effectively and quickly solves this problem for you. This type of shapewear targets your abdomen, thighs, and back and compresses them. Shapewear for saree has gained a lot of popularity among women as inner wear for many different reasons. Enlisted below are some benefits of saree shapewear and also there is a VIDEO below on

"how to style saree shapewear". Don't forget to watch it.

5 Benefits of Wearing a Saree Shapewear Over a Traditional Petticoat in 2022

1) No Drawstring Chafing

Many people avoid wearing sarees because handling all the drapes of a saree along with the flowy petticoats with a tight drawstring isn't comfortable. The string isn't adjustable once it's tied and that can cause chafing on your waistline, but this is not an issue with shapewear for saree. Shapewear comes with an elastic band that sits just right and holds your saree perfectly.

2) Better Comfort Than Traditional Petticoats

Traditional petticoats are often made of materials like cotton and are flowy with a lot of fabric. This isn't the most comfortable situation when wearing a saree, as the petticoat can restrict movement. Shapewear for saree sticks to your body comfortably, giving you more room to move. It's made of spandex material which is equipped with moisture-wicking technology to keep you dry and super comfortable. The best part of saree shapewear is that you can wear it every day for around 10-12 hours with no hassle.

Image Credit: Pinterest

3) More Breathable

Heat can be a significant concern when wearing sarees as the multiple layers of saree with the petticoat can get too bulky. However, saree shapewear is greatly helpful when it comes to breathability. It's made of smooth, comfortable fabric that molds itself according to your body and allows your skin to breathe.

4) Versatile

While saree shapewear is absolutely perfect for sarees, that's not all you can use it with. Shapewear for saree is also really good when worn underneath other long clothing items like lehenga, gowns, maxi dresses, and more. They work their magic the same way with these dresses.

5) Compliments Your Figure and Make You Look Slim

This is one of the main purposes of saree shapewear and the reasons why it's so popular. Traditional petticoats can give your saree an unflattering shape, but shapewear for saree only enhances your figure and helps you look slim. It compresses your curves ever so slightly to smooth out the area and properly bring out your natural shape. This gives you the perfect silhouette you can flaunt your saree in.

Frequently Asked Question (FAQs)

1) How do I choose the right size of saree shapewear?

Selecting the right size of saree shapewear is as easy as 1,2,3. You just need to know the exact size of your waist and hips. For instance, if your waist size is 31-33 and your hip size is 26-29, you should go for the medium (M) size. If your waist size is 33-36 and your hip size is 29-32, then the large (L) size of saree shapewear is the best fit for you. However, if your waist size is 36-39 and your hip size is 32-35, then you should consider the XL size.

2) Is saree shapewear comfortable?

Yes, saree shapewear is more comfortable than petticoats. Unlike traditional petticoats that restrict movement, shapewear provides you more room to walk comfortably.

Fashion Forecast- Trendiest Prints of 2023

Binging Netflix for 8 hours straight, baking, cleaning, online meetings, online classes, rather I should say sleeping in online classes. These were the major 2021-2022 trends. Another thing that was in vogue was being in pajamas all the time. But it's finally 2023 and we have high hopes for 2023 to be a good year.

Talking about the new year, we are definitely going to go out a little more and for sure going to step out of our pajamas and get back to our fashion A-game. This year for the spring 2023 show, designers have focused a lot on prints. So, here we have a list of some printed fashion trends for the year.

#1 Floral Blur

We've heard about floral prints, 'floral blur' is something new for us. So, what is a floral blur? Floral blur prints are inspired by pictures of flowers and not flowers itself. The pictures are deliberately blurred using soft focus lenses or filters. This provides a unique edge to the classic floral prints fabric. This pattern is portrayed by using digital print and even embroidery.

Image Credit: fabcurate

#2 Tie and Dye

Tie-dye is suddenly all over YouTube, Instagram, SnapChat, and Facebook feeds, and it could because it's such an accessible trend. It is so easy, just some rubber band and/or strings are tied in some portions of cotton or muslin fabric and then put on the stove for dyeing. This print can be achieved easily on any fabric be it cotton, linen even organza fabric. Tie and dye look super cool on everything- clothes and accessories, because a splash of colors always lighten up the mood.

#3 Paradise

Designers have been seeking inspiration from nature since forever. And plant-related stuff always tops the list. Therefore, even in 2023, designers have continued their obsession for plants by taking huge leaves as their inspiration. Humongous leaves are printed creatively in the tints and tones of green or pink. Thought styling this trend can be tough, so here's a tip. Wear solid colors to accentuate the overall look.

#4 Abstract

Fashion now a day is all about experimenting and having fun. And these abstract prints are the perfect exemplar for this. Abstract lets designers use their imagination to their full potential and give freedom to promote their creativity to the fullest. No specific motif, or object, or impressions are used to create abstract prints. Just amalgamation of different shapes, colors, and gestures are used to achieve something artistic.

#5 Checks Pattern

Checks pattern when simplified is nothing but horizontal and vertical stripes intersecting to form a square-like pattern. Inspiration for checks pattern have been the board game of chess. Checks pattern/print used to hold a very low status, until Burberry introduced a checkered collection. It changed the people's perspective towards checkered pattern. This year too, this pattern is going to be one of the top trending prints which we are going to see on the streets but with bright and contrasting hues. Checks on checks will be on rage in 2023.

#6 Surreal Paisley

Paisley is an ornamental textile pattern using the boteh or buta, a tear-like pattern with a curved top end. This year stylized versions of paisley are used to give the user vintage yet modern vibes. Earthy tones are tremendously used in this collection. In India, paisley holds an honorable place as paisley motifs are used since ages. And now, a fresh breeze of creativity is flowing in 2023 which will change people's perspective towards paisley pattern.

#6 Twisted Geometry

Geometry is understandable, but understanding twisted geometry twists our mind, quite literally. Twisted geometric fashion is a step ahead of basic geometric fashion. It consists of shapes but in an unusual and in abstract manner creating an illusion for the viewer. Bright colors such as pink, blue, yellow, and green are the star of this collection. This print is going to be the most talked about because of its exceptional concept. Every fashion enthusiast is going to wear this print at least once this year and style it in the most unexceptional way.

Cocktail Attire for Women 2023 - Dos & Don'ts

Ladies, it's time to dial up the glam and step into the captivating world where fashion meets celebration – welcome to the world of cocktail attire for women. It's not just about the clinking glasses and effervescent laughter; it's about making a statement, embodying sophistication, and owning the spotlight.

In a world where nights out become unforgettable memories, your choice of cocktail attire is your ticket to the magic. The glow of city lights, the hum of music, and the air abuzz with anticipation set the stage for an ensemble that stands out, turns heads, and speaks volumes. In this blog post, we're your fashion compass navigating the maze of cocktail attire. So, whether you're a trendsetter or a classic connoisseur, get ready to make heads turn, hearts skip a beat, and your style becomes the life of the party.

Do's and Don'ts of a Cocktail Attire for 2023

1) Don't Reveal too Much

Keep in mind that cocktail attire must not be too revealing. Looking sexy is everyone's top priority but refrain from wearing anything inappropriate because it is a strict no-no for cocktail attire 2023. Instead of mini cocktail dresses, try out the fitted midi cocktail dresses. Avoid plunging necklines; choose scoop, V-shaped, off-shoulder, or straight across necklines that are flattering, sexy, and yet appropriate for all types of events. Here are some ideas for sexy cocktail dresses that you must check out.

2) Don't Go for Casual Fabrics

Casual fabrics like denim, spandex, or jersey aren't ideal for the cocktail dress 2023 code. Your cocktail outfit must look elegant and refined. Fabrics such as crepe, chiffon, satin, or lace are much better. Not only they are comfortable, but these are high-end fabrics that act out perfectly for any dress style.

Image credit: couturecandy (business cocktail attire 2023)

3) Do Wear Heels and Avoid Wearing Sneakers

Your footwear is a crucial part of the entire attire. It completes your look perfectly. With cocktail dresses, only heels can go ideally. Whether you are comfortable with high-pointed heels or mid-wedge heels, it's up to you and your dress but avoid flip-flops, sneakers, or anything flat because they don't go well with the dress and are more of a mismatch. Remember that your aim is to look not too casual and not too formal but a flawless combination of both.

4) Do Carry a Clutch and Avoid an Oversized Bag

It is true that the purse of a woman has pretty much everything required for her to go through the night without any mishaps. From makeup to safety pins, band-aids to cash- we carry everything in our sling bags but if you're going to dress up according to the cocktail dress 2023 code, the oversized purse or sling bag has to be avoided as it does not look as classy as the overall attire. Instead, carry clutches. They are elegant just like the designer short or long cocktail dresses that you're going to put on for the party.

5) Avoid Floor-Kissing Ballgowns

Don't make a style blunder by choosing a floor-length ballgown, instead, save it for Weddings, Prom Nights, Gala, Red Carpet, and Black Tie Events. For a Cocktail Event 2023, you should consider a dress having a mini or midi length but be cautious of hemlines.

Image credit: Pinterest (cocktail fashion 2023)

6) Don't Go Over the Top With the Skirt

By that we mean not to wear poofy skirts with a big train as it is more on the fancy and gorgeous side. You are free to try out trendy cocktail gowns with a brush train or tea-length dresses that will make you look charming and graceful. Ideally, it is said that cocktail attires must be above the knee-length but a little improvisation is going to bring about a unique factor.

7) Do Accessorize in a Sophisticated Way

Without proper accessories, wearing your dream dress will only be half the job done. That's why it is important to put on the right fashion accessories that complement your dress and complete your attire. However, for 2023 cocktail attire, you have to keep it simple yet noticeable. For instance, there's no need to go multicolor but a contrasting effect looks rather classy.

Image credit: Pinterest (cocktail dress trends 2023)

Cocktail attire is not just about fashion; it's about confidence, elegance, and celebrating the moments that truly matter. As you step into the world of clinking glasses and vibrant conversations, let your outfit be the conversation starter, the memory maker, and the embodiment of your unique style.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

1) What should I not wear to a cocktail party?

For a cocktail party, you should avoid wearing a lot of statement accessories, instead wear 1 elegant accessory that stand out. You should not wear hair ties on your wrist, instead wear a cute bracelet that complements your outfit. You should also avoid wearing jeans or denim shorts, instead, you can go for sleek trousers. Lastly, you also should not wear a maxi dress for a cocktail party.

2) What to wear over a cocktail dress?

If you have to attend a wedding reception, an office party, or a gala and you're wondering what to wear over a cocktail dress, we'll recommend you some of the best options. You can pair it with a blazer, bomber jacket, fur wraps/faux fur wraps, vests, shrugs, trench coats, capes/shawl, bolero jackets, kimonos, etc., and slay any event.

3) What is a cocktail length dress?

The length of a cocktail dress depends upon the person. For a formal event, you can go for a length that varies from below the knee to just above the knee. However, for semi-formal events, you can choose a short cocktail dress having a length of somewhere around mid thigh. Complement your outfit with a pair of sexy heels and matching accessories and you're ready to rock.

Bright Hues Will Take Over Streets in 2023: Fashion Talk

The fashion spectrum around the world usually resonates with the glass-half-full philosophy. But when it comes to the spring collection for the New Year, every designer turns into a unicorn spewing glitters and rainbows across the ramps.

The spring collections are filled with bright hues and pretty colors that evoke a sense of hope and purpose in the lives of the people. Especially after a year as gloomy and restless as 2021, the designers had a lot of responsibility on their shoulders to sustain the hopes and joys of the fashion enthusiasts.

While everyone was left locked in their home, fearing from COVID-19, the world needed to see a lot of canary yellow and peachy pinks to get back on track and remain resilient in the coming weeks.

Why so bright? You may wonder...

The bright hues behind the spring collection of 2023 are not a result of Crayola-fest amongst fashion headquarters. Psychologists from the field of fashion have collectively stated that our relationship with colors has evolved at an unprecedented rate.

The era of post-modern subjectivity has helped color and clothing establish a strong connection that allows them both to break free of the monotony and limits of everyday life.

Darker colors, generally, elicit a somber mood and emotions that are hard to articulate. But on the other hand, bright and light colors evoke positive emotions that are necessary for the sustenance of joy and positive energy amongst the masses.

Some colors enhance moods, which is precisely what drives the emotions behind innovative ideas of the 2023 collections. Since styling one's aura is an essential step for the beginning of a new phase, the wardrobe and sartorial choices are an easy choice for each individual.

Image Credit: Pinterest

If you wonder about the new colors for the year 2023, then without much ado, let's jump right into them!

Pastel Yellow

Pastel and pale yellow are the colors of likability, happiness, and being jovial. It is a color that mitigates stress in any social situation. The color projects happiness and impacts the psyche of the wearer and those wearing it. This is one of the reasons why the dazzling spring collections of Jil Sander, Ferragamo, and Peter Do featured some of the prettiest pieces in color.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Image Credit: Pinterest

Lovely Lavenders

The next most significant trend was a large number of lavender numbers in the season. Purple is the color of royalty, opulence, and regality. The use of purple also carries a secretive meaning that points towards the psychological impact of the color.

The entire world has been stuck in limbo after a terrible year of loss and grief. The color purple and precisely the shade of lavender have a calming effect on every audience. It is a color that reminds one of simpler times and remnants of glory that must be reignited. The collections of Baum, Valentino, and Pferdgarten are a testament to the fact!

Image Credit: Pinterest

Rebellious Red

The spring collection of 2023 featured a couple of cherry red pieces. While the fall of 2021 was the showcase for monochromatic reds, the spring of 2023 had a romantic blaze to it. Legendary design powerhouses like Givenchy and Chanel, Fendi, and Hermes chose to indulge in the color of confidence, rebellion, and fiery love.

The shade can be paired with pale pink to get a casual look for the streets, or you can casually tone it down with the help of a plus-size leather jacket. You can incorporate this dress through makeup, accessories, and even complete costumes in the spicy color of rebellion.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Trendy Turquoise

Turquoise makes an excellent choice for aesthetic pleasure and ruffled sleeves. It carries hippie energy, which flows naturally, connecting everyone to the one omniscient energy of the universe.

The color was thoroughly exhibited in the collection of Ulla Johnson, and it also enjoyed a spot of fame and glory in the books of Louis Vuitton and Christopher John Rogers. While the former was focused on the feelings of nature and healing, the latter reminded the world of the new boundaries that need to be established in the name of social distancing. Turquoise is an undertone of serenity and soothing energies. It is expected to go big this year for sure!

Image Credit: Pinterest

Tropical Tangerine

Orange is the color of creativity and independence. It is a surprise addition to the collections of Mara Hoffman and Maryam Nassir Zadeh, but it was indeed necessary to set the mood straight for the following year.

While most people worry about caution and comfort while trying something new, the exact color of tangerine is a test of one's fearlessness and audacity in the face of uncertainty. It is a powerful color that must be embraced for its liveliness and vitality. It is a color that evokes a sense of purpose and must be used with reckless abandon to bring everything back to life.

Generous Greens

Green is the color of rebirth, hope, and fertility. The fresh and vibrant shades of green tend to be the epitome of these feelings. The color is often considered as the flagbearer of optimism and hope, which is why the 2023 collections endorsed it with such vigor.

From Victoria Beckham to Michael Kors, everyone chose to assign a significant portion of their collection to the color and subconscious meanings of growth, expansion, focus, ambition, and determination.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Peachy Pinks

Last but not least is pink. It is a typically feminine shade that is arguably outdated and traditional in the spring collection. Psychologically the color breaks norms and is a bold choice for making a statement. Cecilie Bahnsen and Stella McCartney have used the variant shades of pink in a brilliant method to show the world how the power of peachy pinks and majestic magenta can be embraced.

Final Thoughts

The bright hues of 2023 are like a promise of rebirth and vitality. The spring collections have reiterated a new sense of hope and joy that has worked well in sparking hope amongst the dejected audiences worldwide. Let's hope that these promises are fulfilled, and this world restores its health!

10 Celebrity Inspired Gym Looks in 2023 to Pull Off

If you are regularly hitting the gym, you are probably sticking to the classic - simple leggings and an oversized t-shirt. Well, it's just one combination you could try out - why not spice it up a bit and motivate yourself with cool gym outfits inspired by celebrities?

Some celebrities are as creative in picking out gym clothing as any other outfit. You should do the same - stay stylish and original even when you're breaking a sweat in the gym. Don't think you couldn't pull off the same outfit as Kendall Jenner or Bella Hadid - try it and see for yourself how a great gym outfit could make you work out even harder. And let's not forget what else celebrities are introducing to the world - they are wearing gym wear as daywear.

In other words, crop tops, leggings, trainers, hoodies - they all don't get to shine just at the gym or on the way to the gym. Celebrities are now wearing them any time of the day and many times they don't have their workout planned.

Comfortable fashion is making its way again in 2023 but this time it doesn't have to exclude style and even luxury.

1. Black and tight

Black elegance works for every occasion - jogging included. To copy Bella Hadid jogging through the streets of New York, get a black sports bra, black leggings, and a cropped black sweatshirt, and then complete this sporty and elegant look with a black baseball cap and stunning white sneakers. Fabulous and powerful!

Image Credit: Pinterest

2. Show your legs

Sometimes it's fun to switch it a bit - instead of leggings, why not show off your toned legs in printed running shorts and sneakers while covering your arms with a simple grey long-sleeved hoodie? It's comfy and cool at the same time.

Image Credit: Pinterest

3. Denim jacket forever

Street style scene cannot go wrong without an oversized denim jacket, and that goes for the gym outfit as well. Simple leggings and a T-shirt completed with an oversized denim jacket and a pair of cat-eye sunglasses are the ultimate cool and stylish gym wear.

Image Credit: Pinterest

4. Muted colors

Sometimes it's mostly about the color palette you chose for your gym outfit. You can keep it cool with minimal cut pieces and muted colors - just combine a plain sports bra and leggings and cover your shoulders with an oversized shearling hoodie (in some grayed shade as well) to boost the effect.

Image Credit: Pinterest

5. Back to the 90s

The 90s have their bright moments, and Bella Hadid enjoys reminding us of all of them. Just like her, you can go back to the 90s just for a while by wearing colorful track pants that look as they have just arrived from the 90s shop window and matching them with chunky sneakers. Make sure the top is tight and simple so that you don't look like a bad copy of the 90s style.

Image Credit: Pinterest

6. Enjoy the pink

Bright pink is one of the best colors you can opt for when you want to get noticed and feel feminine - the same goes for your gym outfit.

You don't have to go overboard with pink but instead, add pink details to your black outfit. Your black leggings and jacket can go to a whole new level of cool if you add pink trainers to the combination, along with a bright pink T-shirt and a patterned pink beanie. These instances of pink are what make this outfit unique.

Image Credit: Pinterest

7. Layers, layers

Layers look cool if you combine them smartly. Supermodel Gigi Hadid knows how to do it, so you can simply copy one of her great gym outfits:

Wear a cropped sweatshirt over the sports bra (of course, the sports bra have to show at least a bit), and then add more layers to it - wear a cropped jacket over it and tie a sweatshirt around your waist - just for the looks of it, of course.

You can always tie a sweatshirt around your waist as an additional layer when you are wearing a leather jacket over a T-shirt, as well.

Image Credit: Pinterest

8. Cool cycling outfit

Windbreakers are an excellent piece of clothing if you love jogging outside or cycling no matter the weather. You need your upper body to be well-protected, especially if it's raining.

So try out this stylish option - wear a retro-inspired windbreaker in a bright hue like orange or yellow and tone it down with black leggings or cycling shorts. Complete your look by choosing from the best women's bikes that look powerful and come in a strong hue - you will definitely get noticed while cycling along the streets or the park.

9. Monochromatic coolness

Black and white never cease to awe, so try it out by combining a black crop top with white-hot leggings. This monochromatic look is then accented more with a black-and-white printed jacket, black sneakers that go great with a black tote. And of course, finish it magnificently with black round sunglasses.

Image Credit: Pinterest

10. Lady-like details

Anne Hathway is great at adding elegance to everything, so she was equally successful at it by combining an oversize soft gray sweater and navy blue sunglasses with navy blue leggings. You can wear black sneakers with that and add an oversized leather bag to create a unique mix of sporty and elegant.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

1) Why should you wear a sports bra when working out?

When doing an intense physical exercise, your breasts bounce up and down and if you don't wear a sports bra while exercising or running, it may cause stretch and tear of ligaments surrounding the breast region resulting in soreness, pain, and sagging. Sports bras are designed to reduce the movement of your breast when working out. It is important every woman should wear it no matter what size she has.

2) How can I look attractive and cute in gym workout clothes?

If you want to look cute in your gym workout clothes, you must know what to wear with your gym leggings, shorts, or pants. In this article, we've shared a lookbook to help you pull off celeb-inspired gym looks without going bankrupt.

Outfit Ideas That'll Get You in the Holiday Spirit

Synonymous with festivals, weddings, and vacations, India's autumn-winter season is one of the most eagerly awaited times of the year. The sweltering heat has abated, there's festive cheer in the air, and everybody is generally in a celebratory mood. This joy and exuberance most clearly manifest itself in women's ethnic outfits – the colors get more vivid, fabrics richer, and patterns livelier.

If your ethnic wardrobe needs a bit of renewal – what after two pandemic-blighted years that saw very little festivity. For sartorial requirements primarily pertaining to festive occasions, look no further than the 'Live' collection. If you are planning a languid vacation, the 'Play' collection is brimming with the options you will need.

Are you ready to shop? Here are five great outfit ideas to help you slip into the holiday spirit looking like a dream!

The Glitzy Goddess

Big fat Indian weddings and family get-togethers are marked by glitz, glamour, and gaiety. Sizzle at such special occasions in the stunningly rich Teal sapphire Kurta. Crafted out of luxurious velvet fabric, the kurta features artful sequin embellishment on the sleeves and neckline. Pair it with the matching Teal Sapphire drape and Teal Sapphire trousers adorned with sequin-work at the hem. Turn up the glamour quotient with gold jhumkas and an oversized nose stud. Complete the magic with golden pumps and a sequined clutch purse.

The Devil-may-care Girl

Effortlessly sensuous yet decidedly casual, kaftans are a one-of-a-kind outfit. Sartorially fluid, a kaftan – depending on how you style one – can make you look elegantly dressed up, but also casually dressed down. If wish to blend in a bit of both, go straight for the Marine kaftan. Featuring a quirky multi-colored pattern, an unmissable neckline, and a bold-ish side slit, this one's exotic and eccentric all at once. Black boots and a glass bib necklace will add the perfect finishing touches.

Image source: pinterest

The Chic Conversationalist

A tête-à-tête over lunch with friends on a Sunday afternoon is the perfect occasion for dressing down. The vibe for a luncheon date with the girls is laidback but you could raise the elegance quotient with the Victoria Bloom Maxi dress. Featuring an all-over Victorian-inspired floral pattern with lace detail and ruffle, this startlingly charming dress is all fun and frolic! Amplify the grace with oversized hoop earrings and snow-white sneakers. Don't forget a wide-brimmed hat if it's an alfresco lunch.

The Subtle Diva

Sporting an understated look while retaining the pizzazz of high glamour may sound like a bit of a paradox. But the rich and royal all-deep purple Maryam kurta and sharara set will help you do just that and how! The outfit features Dabka work embroidery, doubling its unabashed vibrancy and charm. Seal the look with silver chandbalis and a stack of silver bangles. Slip into a pair of embellished mojris, dress your hair with fresh flowers and you're all ready to make heads turn!

The Fun Femme

Whether you're enjoying a beach vacation or a weekend getaway in the hills, nothing spells fun and leisure better than the Phool Jhaal crop top and matching Phool Jhaal tiered skirt. Embossed with block-printed blooms, this outfit flawlessly embodies the unbridled freedom and nonchalance of the holiday mood. Forgo accessories for this one altogether; instead, play up the snazzy-simple look with a white carnation tucked in your hair behind the ear and a pair of plain vanilla gladiator sandals.

Dressing in accordance with the occasion is and will always important because doing so actually enables you to live the times. Every outfit idea mentioned above, in its own way, articulates the joie de vivre associated with the festive and holiday season. So stop holding yourself back and go ahead, embrace the spirit – metaphorically and sartorially!

Tips to Style Kolhapuri Chappal for Men

Kolhapuri chappal for men is one the most raging footwear given the fact that they are sturdy and durable. Crafted mostly by hand, this footwear can last for a really long time when taken good care of. Kolhapuris present an undying love for India's culture, which is why it remains so evergreen even today.

Earlier, Kolhapuri chappals were mainly worn by people in villages, but given the changing times and how the Kolhapuris have evolved in accordance with the raging trend, even millennials are wearing them on a regular basis.

Known for their pleasing looks and flattering fits, the Kolhapuris are gaining a sudden resurgence with youngsters today because they are so versatile that men can pair them with almost every outfit. The best part about buying Kolhapuri chappal for men today is that the traditional T-strap has evolved to more strappy styles, appealing to the current generation. The broad upper band has also been toned down, making the overall design more minimal, sustainable, and modern.

While leather was the only fabric that Kolhapuris were made from, today brands have switched to vegan leather, made from fruit and vegetable waste, giving the footwear a leather-like finish.

There are several different ways to style your Kolhapuri chappal so you can pull off a suave and smart look irrespective of the occasion.

Keep it Simple

The most basic yet cliched way to style your Kolhapuris is to pair it with your kurta and pyjamas, thus, keeping your overall look simple yet classy. If you're attending a low-key event such as a puja, this look should be your choice. You can opt for basic colors of Kolhapuris such as tan or black and brown.

Take Things Up by a Notch

It's hard to skip any wedding invites when you're an Indian. To make a stylish appearance at your loved ones' weddings, you can put on a nice embroidered sherwani and slip into a trendy pair of Kolhapuri chappals. To make the look even more festive you can invest in a pair that features a pompom design on the top of the strap.

Nail Your Office Look

Going to the office every day can be a daunting task. If you wear shoes to work and often complain about your feet not being able to breathe, you can always switch your formal shoes for Kolhapuri chappals. Yes, Kolhapuri chappal for men is formal enough to be worn with your regular shirt and trousers on regular basis.

Keep it Casual

If you are in a funky mood today, how about swapping your sneakers or flip-flops for Kolhapuri chappals? If you're going on a day out with your friends, you can wear Kolhapuri chappals with your jeans and T-shirt. A short casual kurta and distressed denim are also another cool look that you can carry with your Kolhapuri chappal.

With these looks to pair your Kolhapuris with, you can wear them on a regular basis. Just a little maintenance will make sure your Kolhapuris will go a long way.

How to Choose the Right Thermals for Men

Thermals are a winter essential. The right pair of thermals keep you warm and makes you feel comfortable when you are out experiencing extreme cold weather. It traps the body heat and provides insulation. Since it is the base clothing layer, worn closest to the body, choosing the right pair is imperative. Here is what you need to consider before buying thermals.

Things to Look for When Buying Thermals

1) The Right Fit

Thermals function as the second skin, creating an insulation layer between your body and the fabric. So, the right fit is super crucial when picking one. If the thermals you wear are too loose or tight, they will not do their job right and can cause discomfort. Opt for a snug fit, as it will keep you warm and allow you to wear layers over it comfortably. Also, check the outer surface of the thermal. Choose one with a slick surface so that the other clothing piece does not get stuck on it.

2) Fabrics & Materials

Not all thermals are the same. Nor do they provide the same level of comfort and warmth. The fabric used is the difference. So, when buying thermals, weight and material are two components you should check for a better pick. The first component (weight) will help you comprehend the level of warmth it will provide. The heavier it is, the better it will be for cooler climates. Likewise, with material, the denser the weave and plusher, the warmer the thermal will be. Besides, make sure the fabric is soft, resilient, and skin-friendly. Below are some common materials for thermals:

- Synthetic fabric: Thermals made of synthetic fabrics are ideally suitable for extreme cold. Synthetic fabrics combine natural fibers with polyester, spandex, lycra, and nylon to provide moisture-wicking and heat-retention properties.
- Woollen fabric: Thermals are also available in woollen fabrics. They balance your body temperature and provide great moisture management.
- Cotton fabric: Unlike other fabric options, cotton retains perspiration better. It leaves the wearer feeling chilled, wet, and clammy. For the right pick, you may choose super combed cotton-rich ones as offered by Jockey India.

3) Weight

Another thing to consider when buying thermals is weight. Each fabric offers different levels of warmth depending on its weight. Thermals with different weights are suited for various cold conditions. Here is a general guide for picking the right weight for the best thermal.

- Ultra-lightweight thermals: They are micro-light in weight and suitable for mild to cool conditions.
- Lightweight thermals: You may choose to buy these thermals when the weather is moderately cool. Such thermals are also ideal for high-level aerobic activities.
- Mid-weight thermals: Mid-weight fabrics are versatile and preferable for moderately cold to cold weather conditions. You may pick them for various recreational and sports activities.
- Heavyweight thermals: When the weather is overly cold and more warmth is needed to regulate the body temperature, heavyweight thermals are the ones you should wear. They are ideal for winter sports in the snow.

The Purpose of Buying Thermal Underwear

Thermals can be specific to purposes, meaning that you may need them to keep the body warm, support the freedom of movement during sports activities, or conserve body heat to combat frigid temperatures. Picking the wrong style could restrict your body movement and cause unwanted discomfort.

Moisture-Wicking Properties

Since thermals are meant to keep the body warm and dry, moisture wicking is critical when buying thermal underwear. Moisture-wicking properties absorb sweat and reduce wetness through external moisture, keeping you dry all day.

Style

Selecting the right style is also crucial when buying thermals. You may choose from long-sleeve vests, short-sleeve vests, and long john, based on your choice.

7 Celebrity-Inspired Autumn Styles for 2023

Season changes require a wardrobe update. Summer is humid and will require you to wear breathable fabrics, while autumn is colder and is the time of the year to embrace winter basics. In short, you'll need to wear different types of clothes to stay comfortable (and fashionable) as the season changes.

If you plan to upgrade your wardrobe for autumn 2023 but don't know where and how to start, we've got you covered. We listed seven celebrity-inspired autumn styles so you'll know what to add or remove from your wardrobe. With our list, looking good in autumn will be easy!

1) Mini Dress + High Pastel Toned Boots

You don't need to mix and match countless pieces to look stunning during autumn. Pairing a floral mini dress with plain-colored high boots is enough! This combination ensures comfort regardless if you're going to run errands or have brunch with friends and family.

To make the outfit look more polished, ensure that your pieces have similar color palettes. For example, if your mini dress has black and white floral prints, pick a pair of high boots in white or black.

2) White T-Shirt + Jeans + Cowboy Boots

A plain shirt and a pair of jeans are one of the most classic pieces anyone can own. And fortunately, this combination is still very in-season during autumn. Katie Holmes paired this classic combo with a pair of cowboy boots during a weekend in New York City.

To make this look more form-fitting, wear high-waisted jeans and tuck your shirt in at the front. You can also accessorize using pieces of the same color, like a black handbag and a black belt.

3) Trench Coat + Knee Boots

Do you want to look like a celebrity who was styled by a professional from Moda Database? Then head out wearing a trench coat and knee-high boots. This combination is an effortless way of staying comfortable and fashionable as the weather turns cold.

Because trench coats are baggy, consider wearing them with a belt. A belt can make you look slimmer as it defines your waist. If possible, go for natural-colored trench coats, knee boots, and accessories to achieve a cleaner, more cohesive look.

4) Turtleneck + Trousers

You can still look good even wearing baggy clothes like how Deepika Padukone raised the bar for autumn fashion when she wore a gray turtleneck sweater with gray flared trousers. This outfit will surely keep you cozy, especially when worn during long flights.

The key to making this combination fashion-forward is to stick to plain-colored pieces and then accessorize with a striking or contrasting color. For instance, you can wear a black turtleneck sweater and black trousers, and then white-toned accessories — oversized sunglasses, a handbag, and a pair of pumps or sneakers.

Image credit: vogue

5) Pops of Pink

To make any autumn outfit look more fun and playful, pair it with pieces in pink. For example, if you're going to wear a shirt and a pair of jeans, top it with a pink button-down. You can also use pink-colored accessories like a pink handbag or pink scarf to complete any autumn outfit.

Image credit: thebudgetbabe

6) Baggy Jeans

Big, baggy jeans have become a staple in Hollywood and are expected to become everyone's favorite during autumn. Aside from being comfortable, baggy jeans are easy to style. You can pair it with a shirt and sneakers or an oversized back slit shirt over a sweater.

Since baggy jeans are the star of the show (or your outfit), avoid wearing too many accessories. A plain-colored handbag or a pair of oversized sunglasses is more than enough to complete the look.

7) Sky-High Platforms

Do you love to wear high heels? Then autumn will be the perfect season to strut your style. Wearing sky-high platforms can significantly boost your confidence and make you look slimmer. This footwear also adds a pop of color to any outfit.

Sky-high platforms are versatile pieces as you can pair them with almost anything — from colorful tights to short dresses. To ensure your comfort when wearing a pair, wear them at home first. This will allow the shoes to mold better to your feet, making the heels feel more comfortable.

Make Cotton Sarees Your Best Friend This Monsoon

Sarees, which were originally strict traditional wear for women have changed its fact in recent times because women prefer to wear them for almost any given occasion. Be it formal, informal, or traditional occasions, sarees are the ultimate fashion choice for women. From fabrics such as silk, crepe, and nylon to organza, sarees are available in different kinds of fabrics, but the most trusted ones are cotton sarees. The cotton fabric makes these sarees such comfortable wear because they are so light in weight and also don't cling to your body. If you are looking for sarees that are easy to wear and can be handled easily, especially if you're a first-time wearer, you can stick to cotton sarees. If you live in a country with harsh weather such as scorching heat during the summers and pouring crazy during the monsoon, these sarees are the perfect kind to opt for.

Who said that cotton sarees have to be boring? If you think so, you clearly haven't explored the latest collection. There are numerous varieties available in cotton sarees these days and if you have one of each then let us tell you that you're sorted for almost all of the upcoming occasions. So let us check out the types of cotton sarees available these days.

1) Sambalpuri Saree

If you are looking for a minimalistic saree, which is comfortable yet stylish, this is the one to opt for. The threads are first dyed and later woven into fabric form, adding richness to the whole saree.

2) Tant Saree

This is by far the most common type of cotton saree you will see on women. This Bengali saree is comfortable and classy and let us not get started on the intricate designs and prints featured on them. These make for an absolute choice for summer weddings.

Summer Fashion 2023: 7 Style Tips for Warm Weather

Summer is here, and that means it's time to finally wear those awesome shorts, tank tops, sundresses, and t-shirts. After all, there's nothing more fun than staying outside, and enjoying the feeling of the sun on your skin, especially if you're also on a vacation. But, in order to keep yourself presentable, and protected, it's important to follow some fashion rules and tips for warm and sunny weather. So for that reason, here are some of them that will surely make your summer this year.

1) Opt for Lightweight Fabrics and Clothes

This is crucial as it will allow you to feel more comfortable while working or running errands during the summer. So if you opt for light fabrics such as lighter versions of cotton, that will make the summer much more bearable, especially during the heavy heatwaves. In order to choose the best fabrics, it's important to get familiar with their characteristics first. So, if you can see through the fabric, then it's a good sign that it will work for you. Also, make sure to check the way fabrics feel on your skin, as that will be an important indicator of its suitability.

2) Breathable Fabrics are the Best for Hot Summer Days

If you want to have a fun and active summer, then it's best to opt for clothes that are made of breathable fabrics. Since people maintain a cool body temperature by perspiring heat away from the body. Also, it is necessary to allow for air circulation in order to keep the body temperature cooler. Fabrics that are breathable should maximize the flow of air, especially in hot climates. This is due to the fact that fabrics that trap moisture tend to cause unpleasant odors as well. On the other hand, synthetics such as polyester may cause excessive sweating, which is something that should be avoided during very hot weather.

3) Make Sure You're Protected From the Sun

Heatstroke is a serious health problem that needs to be taken care of immediately. However, this can be easily prevented by staying away from the sun, mainly in the hours with the highest temperatures such as noon and early afternoon. Clothing is the best protection from the sun, however, some accessories such as sunglasses and hats can be equally helpful. There are different types of hats and styling tips, so feel free to choose what's most compatible with your personal style and the occasion. As for the sunglasses, keep in mind that they should be made of quality materials in order to keep your eyes safe and protected.

4) Be Smart if You Enjoy Working Out

Working out during summer can be a great way to shed those pounds in a healthy way. However, whether you're sticking to an air-conditioned gym or you want to try some outdoor exercises, it's important to wear the right types of clothes, especially if you're female. Women tend to be more sensitive to harsh sun, mainly when that's combined with more intense workouts. In that case, it's essential to opt for quality women's activewear. This type of clothing is excellent not only for exercising but also for a light morning walk when the temperatures are easier to bear. Being on the move during the summer is a great way to boost your self-confidence, as long as you wear the right type of active clothing and protect yourself from the sun.

5) Wear Comfortable Footwear

Your feet also deserve to be treated with care during hot weather. This is why it's essential to wear comfortable and breathable footwear. Wearing uncomfortable (but aesthetically pleasing) footwear during the summer can make your feet get sweaty. Sandals and cotton shoes are both a very safe choice, but you can stick to anything as long as your feet are comfortable. On the other hand, if you prefer to do some activities, then it's best to invest in a well-made pair of sneakers that are both stylish and breathable. Of course, slippers such as flip-flops can be a great addition to your summer footwear collection, but keep in mind that they're meant for casual outings and shorter walks.

Image credit: Pinterest

6) Always Wear SPF

Sunscreen should be a crucial part of your beauty/fashion routine. When it comes to summer, it's essential to wear it every time you're spending time outdoors. Also, make sure to get sunscreen with an SPF high enough to keep you protected at all times. You need to protect your skin from the harsh sun, in order to prevent issues such as skin cancer, dark spots, and premature aging. The easiest way to wear sunscreen regularly is to always have a bottle/tube of sunscreen with you. In case you plan to swim, then be sure to apply sunscreen that is waterproof as well.

Image credit: Pinterest

7) Opt for Lighter Colors

Sure, black and cherry red are alluring and mysterious colors that can make you look more attractive. Yet, they're not the best choice for hot sunny weather, as they tend to absorb the heat. Lighter colors such as white, mint green, and baby blue are a safer choice; they tend to reflect the sunlight, thus making you sweat less in the process. So pastel and light neutral colors are your best bet if you want to keep your body temperature cool. Darker colors are more suitable for evening outfits, or even better, for winter days. The last thing you need is to feel hot, on an already hot summer day.

Image credit: Pinterest

Conclusion

Summer is the best time to proudly show off your fashion style. However, it's crucial to keep yourself safe from harmful UVA and UVB lights, so make sure to wear proper clothing that will help you stay protected. Also, activewear, together with SPF and accessories such as hats and sunglasses, will keep you both stylish and safe from the sun, so feel free to wear them every time you're spending time outside. With these tips, you'll look fashionable even in the warmest and sunniest weather.

6 Latest Lehenga Designs for Brides to Stand Out

Wearing red is said to be auspicious for the brides in India. But with the changing trends, the red color is more modified and designed with different patterns. In fact, girls today ditch the same old red and maroon lehengas to wear something trendier and more magnificent for their special day.

The styles have changed, and now eye-catching trends in subtle colors such as golden, pink, silver, etc., with minimal sequin or mirror work, lure the eyes of the women. To lay their eyes on the maximum variety, women today prefer searching for bridal lehenga online.

If you are also planning your Indian Bridal Lehenga for your special day, you must conduct a lot of research. Read the article below to get insights on what's trending in the arena of lehenga cholis to make the perfect choice for your wedding day.

1. Anarkali Lehenga

If you have a taste in ethnic wear with a slight mix of western boldness, then this Anarkali lehenga is the perfect match for you. This lehenga is made of beautiful handwork and different kalidar designs. Anarkali lehengas are never old-fashioned. These can be of any design pattern like floral, embroidered, solid, or mirror work.

This goes perfectly with dainty pop jewelry, contrasting any shade. It brings out the heaviest look and has an all-eyes-on-me attitude. If you do not want to stick to the same red color and add a little uniqueness, this wedding bridal lehenga is best suited for you.

2. Deep V Necks

Currently in vogue are the lehengas with v-neck that give your lehenga a modern look while keeping your outfit traditional as well. If you are bored with the same old traditional design, then this lehenga design will carry a different fashion sense for you.

This designer bridal lehenga is a union of class and elegance. It would go best with a heavy choker or a necklace to give it a more luxurious look. It comes in beautiful colors and designs to give it a ravishing look and can be carried with a beautiful dupatta.

3. Peplum Style Lehenga

Gorgeously created this piece of art with great contrast of two colors or even one single color is the dream bridal lehenga choli of every bride. This fantastic lehenga is pinned by every bride of 2023. It has a mind-blowing design of a peplum blouse till the waist and flares under the waistline. It is the most comfortable blouse to wear and is also not revealing.

Brides prefer to keep their jewelry simple due to the lehenga's heaviness and eye-catching shimmer work. So, if you have not decided yet, this kind of bridal lehenga is the right choice for you. You can create many styles from the one blouse like ruffle sleeves, bell sleeves, v-neck blouse, scoop neck, Slitted sleeves with high neck, and many more.

4. Red Lehenga

This red Indian bridal lehenga creates a very heavy look when worn by the bride. It is amazingly crafted, presenting the zari embroidery and adding sequin work for more glitter effect and red tassel. Wearing a red lehenga at your wedding never goes out of style. You can get a red lehenga with multiple designs and works, such as sequin work, mirror work, hand work, embroidery, or even prints.

The touch of different colors in it becomes the most fabulous part of the lehenga. This lehenga does not need heavy jewelry as it is already heavily embroidered. However, you can use minimal jewelry to complete your wedding look.

5. Light Gold Lehengas

This bridal lehenga choli is prepared by keeping in mind the brides who do not like to wear heavy lehengas. When they say, "I want to keep it simple," then this elegant design comes out to be the best choice. Wearing it with heavy and long Kundan jewelry and kalire with a fantastic natural makeup look will give you a sophisticated look. The fabric used is silk which is adding more soft touch to the lehenga and graceful shine. It goes perfectly with heavy gold jewelry and the hairdo's red blooming flowers in the back.

6. Bridal Lehenga Choli with Double Dupattas

Today's latest fashion has started a trend of two dupattas, one which goes with the lehenga and the other for adding more grace and color contrast to the lehenga. This lehenga creates a royal look and goes with main color combinations like- red lehenga with pink dupatta, red lehenga with peach dupatta, caramel lehenga with brown dupatta, pink bridal lehenga with light blue dupatta, and many more.

The lehenga is deeply designed with gold zari and other embroidered details with the color combination of golden. It will give a stylish and modern look by wearing a choker necklace contrasting with the combination of lehenga and dupatta. One dupatta can be worn on the head, while the other can be carried on the side. Carrying a heavy dupatta will add more grace to your lehenga, and you can add a velvet dupatta to get a more royal look.

Choose the best fabric for your Indian Bridal Lehenga Choli According to the Season-

- Summer/ Spring weddings - Summers are irritating when we wear heavy jewelry and lehengas. If you are getting hitched in the spring or summer, you must check out the chiffon or georgette fabrics. These fabrics will help you keep the sweat away, and you can enjoy the ceremony.

● Monsoon season - The monsoon season is very pretty and enjoyable, but on the other hand, it is very humid. The humidity in the air makes you sweat very fast, and you are in trouble. So for that, it is recommended to wear crepe, net, georgette, or chiffon. You can even get these bridal lehengas online.

● Winter season - The winter season is the perfect season for weddings, but still, one can catch a cold sooner due to the cold breeze. For that, it is suggested to wear velvet and silk.

Get prepped for your wedding with the perfect outfit style to ensure everyone adores you as a bride. Get your hands on some latest trendy Indian Bridal Lehenga designs online to rock your special day, making it even more memorable for you for a lifetime.

How to be Creative With Workwear (8 Wardrobe Ideas)

When you are working in a professional setting, it's a lot more than getting done with daily tasks and deadlines. You are also supposed to look the best version of yourself in order to present yourself professionally. This also involves everything related to dressing up professionally. However, thinking of new ideas every other day can feel confusing, and this is where being creative with your workwear help you a lot.

So, if you are someone looking for different ways to style yourself professionally, worry not! Below are some of the tips you will love to read till the end, and these will help you with your day-to-day choices. So, without wasting any more time, scroll further and continue reading.

1. Focus on the type of environment you are working in

The first and foremost tip for being creative with your workwear is first to focus on the type of environment you work in. This will help you in more than one way. Yes, you read that right! This is because when you are supposed to dress up professionally, it's more than just wearing a certain type of clothing.

In order to look the best version of yourself, you are supposed to feel comfortable and at ease, while working all day long. This is the reason behind focusing on the type of environment you are working in. You get to decide what to pick and choose without stepping out of your comfort zone.

Image credit: Pinterest

2. Be considerate about the style of the sleeves

Coming onto the next tip to help you dress up professionally, below is everything related to the choice of sleeves you should go for. There's no doubt that everyone loves to explore different styles and everything in between to make their looks stand out.

However, when it comes to professional sitting, there are certain choices you are supposed to make. For example, if your work environment is relatively business and more professional, then the style of sleeves should be in between cuffs and long kimono style. On the other hand, if you are working in a relatively creative environment, you can easily go for trumpet, bishop, and other similar sleeve styles.

3. Keep swapping your hairstyle

Have you ever thought that your hairstyle can very much make or break your overall look? Yes, you read that right! And this is exactly what we are going to talk about to help you dress up professionally. So, if you are someone who is like to stick to the same hairstyle, try to do something different this time in order to be creative with your work look. For example, different hairstyles that you can go for without any second thought are - loose curl hair, a messy hair bun with a somewhat professional look, styling hair bands in different ways, etc.

4. Choose color palette wisely

The color palette you go for is the next thing you should keep in mind to dress up professionally and look the best version of yourself. The reason behind this is that just like you can't wear your beach party wear to a dinner date with your favorite person, your choice of color can both make or break your overall look. This is why, it is always recommended to go for a relatively solid or similar color combination instead of the pop colors.

However, if your workplace has an environment that warmly welcomes such colors, you can simply add a touch of bright colors with the use of different accessorize.

5. Make the most out of what you already have

It is absolutely understandable that sometimes keeping up with your business wardrobe feels utterly daunting. This mainly happens when you are supposed to update your clothing pieces after a few months just to dress up professionally and look perfect.

So, what if we tell you that it shouldn't have to be this way without compromising on your looks?

Yes, that's very much possible. All you have got to do is try one of the hacks that help you make your coat lint-free quickly. You can try the same trick on other similar clothing pieces to breathe life into your vintage pieces and make use of what you already have in a smart way.

6. Try out different patterns

Since we have just talked about being considerate about the color palette you choose to dress up professionally, there's another thing you are supposed to take note of. That is, make the most out of different patterns. This can be anything like a checkered style or the one that has been trending in the market. The benefit of making the most out of patterned style is you can pair them with all types of pants and still look the best version of yourself.

7. Remember, heels are not always necessary

Keeping in line with your comfort and helping you dress up professionally, here you will need to note that heels are not always necessary. Yes, you read that right. You can try out different styles, like loafers, slippers, etc., keeping the types of pants you are wearing.

8. Take up inspiration from others

Lastly, in order to dress up professionally and be creative with your workwear, try to take up inspiration from different people. Like you can follow someone on one of the social media apps to keep track of what's been trending these days and how you can deal with it without having to spend a lot on clothing.

Bottom Line

There's no doubt that when you have to dress up professionally, there's a lot you are supposed to take care of. This involves everything from color combination to the type of style you are choosing.

This is where the importance of the right tips kicks in. Therefore, we hope that the points listed above will help you out in one way or another. Lastly, if you have got anything to add or suggest, feel free to drop your suggestions in the comments section below!

6 Tips to Make Saree Styling Effortless

The weather is getting hotter and the fabrics are getting lighter. It is also the right season to up your style quotient! Six yards of pure elegance in feathery cotton sarees are going to be your best friend this summer.

The many types of artisanal and handloom cotton sarees truly expand the beautiful permutations and combinations one can explore. Unleash creativity while getting dressed, because there is a cotton saree that suits any event even in summer!

Wondering how to get started? These tips are easy to follow and will make your styling effortless this summer.

1. Play With Colors

Cotton sarees have rich tints that are unmatched. Start with colour blocking! Pair a light colour with a darker colour. Wear pastels together for a soft look. Go monochrome by pairing a saree and a blouse from the same colour family, such as a light purple saree with a dark purple blouse. The options are endless!

2. Prints and Patterns to the Rescue

Choose from fancy and modern cotton sarees or classic Chettinad or Kanchi sarees, the playground is set for innovative combinations. Indian fabrics have rich artwork and handwork embedded in them. Print on print is a very bold trend. To begin with, Ikat, Kalamkari, Chanderi, ajrakh block prints and even digital prints work very well on plain sarees.

3. Keep the Blouse Creative

Have a crop-top lying around? Give the simple cotton saree a modern twist by pairing it with a stylish readymade blouse or crop top, a peplum or flared sleeve for a plain cotton saree or even a printed floral t-shirt that is cropped can work well. Experiment with different neck designs, sleeve patterns, cutwork, mirror work, embroidery and more to give it a zing!

4. Add Glitz With Jewelry

Depending on the occasion, jewellery can make the cotton saree look simple or grand. The most popular pairing is oxidised silver jewellery. Add earrings, a long necklace, and a bracelet to enhance the look. To keep the look simple, skip the necklace and add only big earrings and a dainty wristwatch. Terracotta jewellery adds an earthy feel to the grounded cotton fabric. Find a mix that looks the best!

Image credit: Pinterest

5. Mix and Match

When it comes to styling cotton sarees, blouses play a big role. Pair a kanchi cotton saree with a brocade chanderi with pleated sleeves blouse or a chettinad cotton saree with a hand-embroidered blouse, which makes a unique combination of designs and styles. This not only brings the colour effect of the saree but takes it a notch higher when we make myriad combinations of blouses and sarees.

6. Distinctive Draping Styles

Wear a pant-style saree with soft cotton sarees. Pleat the pallu for a crisp look or leave it open for a casual feel. Make broad pleats for a lazy pallu that exudes comfort and convenience or wear the pallu more casual with a crop top. These daring options are undoubtedly rivalled by elegant and charming simple options.

Who said cotton sarees cannot create an exquisite look? With these creative styling ideas and pairing tips, it is easy to take your look to a whole new level of beauty.

Are Gel Manicures Worth The Money? Let's Find Out

Are you the one who visits the nail salon every month? Do you always ask for the same manicure?

You start with trimming your nails, buffing them, and adding another coat of regular nail polish. You might also be the one who always asks for the same nail color all the time. No judgment here!

Sometimes you just know what your color is! Gel nails are extremely popular, and if you have ever been to a nail salon before, then you are well aware that gel polish is an option for you. You may be wondering what all the hype is about regarding gel nail polish.

Are gel nails worth it?

In this article, we will take you through everything you need to know about gel nails!

Downside Of Regular Nail Polish

Going to the salon for a standard manicure using regular nail polish is the most affordable way to get your nails done. It is also the most affordable way to do your own manicure at home. However, a major downside to using regular nail polish is that it chips fairly easily.

You leave your nail appointment, and within hours your nails are chipped and no longer shiny. Another downside to regular nail polish is the dry time. Drying your nails can be difficult because you can easily destroy your newly painted nails when they are wet.

Sometimes to your horror, you think your nails are dry, and when you go about your day, you realize they are not. You end up wasting a bunch of time just waiting to get on with your routine.

About Gel Nails

The process of doing a gel manicure is slightly more in-depth than a traditional manicure. You have to prep your nails before applying gel nail polish to them. This is partly because the drying or curing process is different from regular nail polish.

You must make sure that your nail beds are completely clean. This means there cannot be any residue on the nail bed. This includes old nail polish, cuticle oil, and hand lotion. The gel will not attach itself to the nail if it is not clean.

To ensure all oils are removed, take an alcohol wipe and clean each of your nails. This will ensure the best manicure possible.

Image credit: Pinterest

Benefits Of Gel Nails

Two of the massive benefits of gel nail polish are;

- Its longevity,
- And minimal drying time.

Gel nails are great because they can last up to two weeks!

You do not have to worry about your manicure chipping away within hours of leaving your nail appointment! This is the ideal manicure you would want to get done before any big event!

Gel nails are perfect for vacations, weddings, birthdays, and even work since they last for so long. With gel, there is no need for touch-ups. The other amazing perk about gel nail polish is its minimal dry time. The gel needs to be cured using UV light. You cannot air dry your nails with gel polish. By using a UV lamp, the gel cures within seconds. This alone could save you a massive amount of time.

Image credit: Pinterest

The Costing Of Gel Manicure

Gel manicures cost more than a basic manicure with regular nail polish, but the benefits definitely make investing the extra money worth every penny!

Going to the salon and getting your nails done is a dream come true for some people. For others, they may dread the whole ordeal. For some, salon environments are uncomfortable.

The process is time-consuming; you cannot read or watch what you like, you have to deal with the overwhelming chemical smell that overwhelms salons, and the overall experience is costly.

Image credit: Pinterest

A Perfect Solution For You

The idea of going to a nail salon is always exciting in the beginning, but by the end of the first hour, we are bored. Plus, we are not even able to operate our phones.

So, if you are someone who is in need of a manicure, and polished nails but do not have the patience, then the solution can be delivered right to your doorstep.

We are talking about the genius invention of semi-cured gel nails!

These are nail strips that you can find at any cosmetic store, or simply order it online. These are decorative gel strips that you simply apply to your nails, and get the professionally cured nails look.

- Take the ideal strip for each finger.
- Place them properly on your nails.
- File the excess off, do not cut it.
- Place your hand under the UV cure for 60 seconds, and let the gel harden.
- Although, it is not necessary but you can put a layer of top coat for extra protection.

Image credit: Pinterest

What Are You Waiting For?

Gel nail polish might be a little costly, but the result is worth the money simply. Also, at the same time, you have the option of semi-cured gel nails.

So, now more waiting.

Go out and try out a gel manicure for yourself! You won't regret it!

5 Must-Have Traditional Dresses for Women

For a country as historically rich as India, diversity shines through in every aspect. Different types of food, music, movies, languages, and most of all fashion feature a perfect blend of traditional and modern values. If you consider yourself a fashion enthusiast, your wardrobe is surely incomplete without a few traditional dress for women choices. Today, you can find plenty of such options in the markets from top ethnic clothing brands.

In order to help you stock up on the latest options at once, here's a list of the top five traditional dresses for women that you must have:

1) Lehenga Choli

Originated in 10th-century North India, this is a timeless traditional dress for women you must add to your wardrobe at once. Consisting of a flowy, full-length ethnic skirt worn with a traditional blouse and dupatta, this dress is the epitome of grace. The available lehenga choli options in the markets currently consist of a large variety, especially in terms of the lehenga and dupatta.

2) Anarkali

An Anarkali suit is essentially a long, frock style top worn with slim bottom-wear. This traditional dress for women can be pulled off with or without a dupatta. You can easily find many casual as well as fancy variations of an Anarkali suit. Casuals consist of a light skirt made of comfortable, single-layered fabric whereas fancy options often consist of multiple layers to make the skirt flare out elegantly.

3) Palazzo Suit

While palazzo pants are a relatively latest trend that surfaced during the 1960s and 70s, they have quickly become one of the most liked ethnic trends of all time. A palazzo suit is a traditional dress for women consisting of a long fitted kurta usually worn with palazzo pants that have an extremely loose fit and flare out from the waist down. This is a gorgeous combination of bright pants with intricate embroideries like Chikankari, Zari, etc. for jaw-dropping looks.

4) Sharara

Initially worn by Mughal royalty in the 16th century, these suits can be traced back to a Lebanese origin whose influence on ethnic fashion is still thriving. Worn with sharara pants with a flare so wide that they look like a skirt, this traditional dress for women is all royalty. The fabric of the long kurta, sharara pants as well as dupatta is adorned with intricate embroideries and embellishments of the finest degree. This traditional dress for women is also worn with ostentatious jewelry like naths, head ornaments, etc. for the complete look.

5) Sarees

Last but not the least, sarees are an essential in every woman's ethnic collection. Not only will this traditional dress for women add some elegance to your wardrobe, but it is also just the thing you need to switch up a regular look into something more glamorous. Effortlessly sophisticated and beautiful, countless types of sarees are at your disposal. These include Chanderi, Bandhani, Kanjeevaram, Banarasi, Assam silk, Paithani, and more to represent a piece of every Indian state.

How to Style a White Shirt With Maxi Dress

With the arrival of summer comes the appearance of the maxi dress trend. These light, breezy, and stylish overalls are ideal for hot weather. Furthermore, adding layers over or under these maxi dresses is simple, making them adjustable for cooler days. But how do you wear a maxi dress in the summer? What's more, when you're wearing a fresh white shirt? We're here to offer some helpful white shirt styling advice for maxi dresses. It's suitable for all seasons, including spring, summer, and fall!

White Shirt as a Jacket Over a Maxi Dress

No matter what type of maxi dress you wear, be it floral or tropical printed or solid colored, dark-hued, just add a white shirt over the dress as a jacket. This white shirt styling with the maxi dress will look uber cool and give you a more confident and charming look. Pair it with minimal jewelry, pair of glasses, and your favorite wedges to complete the look.

White Shirt With a Wrapped Maxi Dress

A stunning deep-necked wrap dress that shows off your curves in all the right ways will be the perfect transition look from summer to fall. Add your white shirt before wrapping the outfit to give it a more fashionable appearance. This warm and inviting tone will not only conjure up images of pumpkin spice lattes and cinnamon-scented candles, but a full-length dress will also be ideal as the temperature cools. You'll feel like a fashionista in no time if you pair it with a straw tote and some gorgeous sunglasses.

White Shirt as in Inner

Wear your maxi dress with a white shirt underneath it rather than on top of it. This is a famous white shirt styling tip from the 1990s, and it also keeps you warm. To complete the look, add some shades. Finish the appearance with a smartwatch of your choosing and your favorite sports shoes. Wearing this combination in this unique approach will give you a relaxed and confident look.

White Shirt With a Belt

Embrace your maxi dress in any print and color and wear your regular long but nicely fitting white shirt over it. Now, pair it with an ornamental or leather belt of a contrasting color. You have a semi-formal look ready for your corporate events and day picnics. Wear your comfortable mules over it, and just add a pair of earrings to complete this look.

White Shirt as a Shrug

A maxi dress with a white shirt as a shrug with button open and white strappy sandals is a terrific alternative for a dinner date or a semi-formal event. Instead, get a maxi dress with a row of white buttons and a partial slit up the front of the legs to show off the beautiful flower print, which will work nicely with the hue. This will be an excellent choice for petite women. The centered buttons lead the eye in and up, lengthening the body; the slit and open-front sandals elongate the legs. This is the appearance for you if you are petite.

How to Dress Well: 6 Tips for Men to Style Better

Believe it or not, men also like to dress well and feel good about themselves. As they should. But oftentimes, guys simply do not have where to go to, in terms of fashion advice. If you are a guy who wants to up your styling game, look no further. With our advice, you will surely be on the right path of becoming a better version of yourself.

1) Identify your style

You can see a lot of guys that are interested in fashion, but unfortunately, they often end up wearing what is “trendy” instead of what flatters them and their personality. You should never compromise who you are for the sake of others, after all, there is nothing more elegant on a man than his confidence. So, before you throw out every graphic tee you own or get rid of those cargo pants you love, stop and ask yourself – “What do I like?” You can find a way to still look stylish and wear the clothes you like. Even a metalhead can look classy when the occasion calls for it. Go to different men’s stores and try to find as many items as possible that you like, or browse the Internet for ideas. Then think about how you could style those items to look good. It takes time to develop your style, but that is the fun of it.

2) Embrace colour

Most men are afraid to wear colour, they usually stick to navy or grey. Well, we are here to tell you that wearing colours that suit your complexion will make you look like a million bucks. Even if you are used to only wearing black or blue, adding one single piece of clothing that is a different colour will make your outfit pop. Colours like mustard, pinks, greens, different shades of blue are both versatile and look good. Go to the store and try on different colours. Eventually, you will find those that you like. And remember, less is more – you only need one garment to lift an outfit.

Image Credit: Pinterest

3) Invest in a tailor

One thing is for sure, ill-fitting clothes are never in style. This does not mean that skinny jeans or baggy hoodies cannot look good, it is just how they suit your body. Your pants should never sag so much that everyone can see your underwear, nor should your dress shirt be so tight that it is a sneeze away from popping a button in someone’s eye. Invest in well-tailored clothes, especially when it comes to suits and blazers. Even jeans that have an outdated fit can suit you well if you have them taken in. Well-fitting clothes can make you appear taller, more confident and even slimmer, and to top it off, they are made for your body, so they are extremely comfortable.

4) Accessorize

Make a point by wearing stylish accessories. Sometimes a few smart accessories are all you need to pull an outfit together. Accessories can introduce colour to your outfit – like a royal blue scarf paired with a camel coat, some jeans and a white sweater. You can even juxtapose the colours to make the outfit interesting, like a mustard blazer with a burgundy pocket square. Even details catch the eye, like an elegant carbon fiber wallet. Minimalist and stylish, it is surely more fitting for a suit than that old bulky leather wallet you have had since college, and it does not take up space in your pocket. And, of course, no outfit is complete without a classy watch. Every man should have one watch that fits every occasion.

Image Credit: Pinterest

5) Look after your clothes

Whatever you decide to wear will not matter if it is a wrinkled mess. Teach yourself to take care of your clothing items, it will only make you appreciate them more. Organize your closet, make sure your shirts and pants are ironed and folded neatly, that they are clean and fresh. Additionally, polish your shoes regularly, so that they do not become dull. This will not only make you look neat and tidy, but the clothes will last much longer. Also, do not put your outfit together five minutes before you get out the door. Make it a habit to put out clothes and plan your outfit the night before. Make some effort to look stylish.

6) Take care of yourself

Dressing well goes hand in hand with taking care of oneself. Just like wearing clean clothes, a man never truly looks good unless he takes care of his skin, hair and body. By looking after yourself, you say to the world “Hey, I am responsible, reliable, organized, meticulous and my life is in order.” Wash and moisturize your face daily, and always maintain a fresh clean-cut hairstyle, even if you have hair to your waist, it should be clean and combed. Wear deodorant, be clean-shaven or have a groomed beard, and clean your nails. This way you will always look your best, even in simpler clothing.

While stepping out of your comfort zone is never going to be easy, becoming a better version of yourself is definitely possible. Dressing well is a good beginning, since it is a real confidence boost, especially once you start receiving compliments. Just like women, you guys deserve to look and feel beautiful and attractive, and with these few pieces of advice, you definitely can.

The following are a couple of simple tips starting from dress with shrug to a lot more to keep up your sleeves for an in a flash glitz conventional symbol.

Style continues to change with time; however, its centre continues as before. Design is recurrent; however, there are a few patterns that are evergreen. So everybody needs to get the ideal turn and be upward to date with the most popular trend patterns, be it Indian design or western style.

The best thing about style is that you can give it your own turn and make a new and extraordinary look. However, with merriments around the corner, choosing the ideal customary wear gets highly overwhelming. The styles are changing, and everybody needs to add their own bend to their clothing types yet couldn't concoct something that could give them an upscale touch. We as a whole need solace and opportunity while wearing a conventional dress or a dress with a shrug, and the ideal way to do that is by giving your dress a cutting-edge wind. Here are various ways of giving your traditional outfit a western touch and captivating everyone.

Styling Tips

Dress with Shrug

When you wear pullovers over your crop tops, it looks like you are some fashion queen. The same applies to traditional wear. Dress with shrug is a traditional outfit that will give you casual vibes. When paired with a dress with shrug, the entire look of the ethnic Anarkali kurta changes and a plain Anarkali dress can thus be worn for a typical day out and even for a family function. Pair the dress with shrug and minimal accessories and a sling bag, and you're all set!

12 Style Tips for Short Guys (Men) to Look Taller

If you have come across this article, then the chances are that you are not happy about your natural height. Well, you are not alone. A study completed by Body Logic found that 60% of men wished that they were taller than they are, and those respondents also felt there was a direct correlation between being taller and having a greater level of confidence.

So, if you are hoping to gain more confidence or rid yourself of any self-consciousness by appearing taller than you are, you are in the right place. Listed below, we have 10+ tips on how you can naturally make yourself appear taller.

1. Vertical Lines are Your Best Friend

A good place to start on your journey to appearing to look taller is to ditch as many horizontal lines in your outfits as possible. We are talking about everything from horizontal lines patterned into your clothing choices, to accessories that cross over your body and break up your natural body line, for example, visible belts. So, try to ditch any belts and if you are a fan of strips in your clothing choices, then try to purchase vertical stripes rather than horizontal ones.

2. Opt for Monochrome Tones

Sticking to a particular shade of clothing will also help you appear taller, mostly by tricking your (and everyone else's) eyes. By minimizing the color palette of your outfits, you will not allow any bright colors to be introduced into your outfit, so they cannot break up the seamless line of your monochrome tones. Imagine putting a bright green top under a dark jacket and pair of pants. It will break up the line of your body by showcasing your torso.

3. Fitted Clothes over Baggy Clothes

Sadly, one style of clothing that is incredibly hard for shorter individuals to pull off is baggy clothes. Specific oversized clothes can sometimes give off the vibe that you are wearing someone else's clothes or hand-me-downs. Pants that pool around your ankles, jackets not fitted to your shoulders, and shirts you cannot tuck up because of excess material, they all need to go. Fitted clothes are key here to help make you appear more confident and to ensure that you wear nothing baggy. For example, wear some fitted Levi's jeans, rather than a baggy pair of hand-me-downs.

4. The Old Trick: Height Boosting Shoes

While we're on the subject of accessories, you can also consider adjusting your shoe style and material. By this, I mean choosing shoes with thicker soles and more padding. This is an old trick favored by shorter men in Hollywood.

Wearing thick-soled shoes will add volume to the lower half of the body while simultaneously reducing its perceived width, which tricks people into thinking that it's bigger than it really is. You can check out this fun height comparison tool to have an idea of what your new height would be next to your SO and friends.

5. Try to Wear High or Mid-Rise Pants

The following two tips are all about elongating your legs. If you are on the shorter side, then avoiding low-rise pants is an absolute must. The end of your t-shirt or shirt, and the start of your trousers or jeans, show a clear divide within your body that can be hard to avoid if you are not using our monochrome tip above.

But, by opting for high-rise or mid-rise pants, you are making your waist appear higher than it probably is. Which, in turn, gives the effect that your legs are longer than they are.

6. Avoid Pant Breaks

Another issue that pants can give you, similar to the oversized issue, is if you choose pants with a full break. This is because a fuller break will also have your pant legs bunching at the ankle, which will give off that same effect that you are wearing clothes way too big for you and eliminate any height benefits you have. Instead, opt for either a no break or a cropped finish to the pants. Either of these will have your pants either ending at your ankle or the smallest part of it, which will make your legs appear longer than they are.

7. Why Not Try a V-Neck T-shirt?

This tip will help you elongate another body part - this time, your neck rather than your legs. If you are a faithful crew-neck t-shirt wearer, then why not switch it up? By choosing a v-neck over a crew-neck, you will allow the natural v-shaped neckline to elongate your neck as there is no collar area breaking up the line from your neck to your chest.

8. Start Wearing Pointed Shoes

Women use this trick to look slimmer, wearing pointed high heels with small-scale patterns. Guys can use the same trick to give themselves a height boost. Just make sure you don't wear too many different patterns, as it could ruin the whole effect, and make people think that you have a Napoleon complex.

Just stick to small patterns or go with plain colors. The pointed tip forces your whole body into good posture and makes you look taller by comparison. Additionally, pointy shoes have been proven to elongate the wearer's silhouette, making them appear longer from head to toe.

9. The Long Topcoat Effect

Many short men feel they can't wear coats because they make them look smaller. But this is not always the case. The key lies in wearing coats that are long enough to reach your knees. This type of coat makes you appear taller by comparison.

When people see an apparently normal-sized person wearing a knee-long coat, they automatically assume that any other visible parts must also be longer than usual, subconsciously tricking them into thinking you're taller.

10. Small Scale Patterns Work Magic for Short Guys (Men)

As we've already seen in the case of pointed shoes, wearing smaller patterns can give you a boost. For example, if you want to add a bit of color to your outfit without going overboard, consider choosing a tie with a small-scale pattern. The same goes for shirt patterns.

Just remember that while big prints look messy and unprofessional, too many small prints do the opposite. They make you look shorter due to what scientists call "visual crowding."

So just choose one or two small-scale prints max! Not only will they help add some "extra" inches to your height, but they also keep other people from being distracted by all the extra visual information on your body!

11. Proportionate Accessories to Give the Illusion of Height

A simple rule applies to accessories: Keep them simple and proportionate. A watch that's too big or a tie that's too small for your outfit will only make you look shorter by comparison. A discreet watch or bracelet will be a better bet.

Avoid belts with large buckles as they will both make your hips look tiny and break your natural body line. If you want to take it up a notch, consider getting suspenders instead. They are not only stylish, but they will also keep your pants from sagging and add some extra length to your silhouette!

12. Stand Tall with Confidence

Last but not least, having a correct posture can go a long way to making yourself seem taller. You may have heard of the saying, 'stand tall with confidence', but teaching yourself the correct posture will very much make you appear taller. This method works to both maximize the height that you already have, but also eliminate any bad posture habits that break up the natural line of your body. Say goodbye to any hunchbacks or shoulders and say hello to elevating your own natural height.

Conclusion

Although you can't change your height, you can still do a few things to appear taller. Give each of these tips a try, see what works, and try to mix and match them with other essential fashion tips that will make you feel more confident in your appearance in no time.

Hat Styling Tips 2023: Add Spunk to Your Personality

With multiple categories of hats available in the market, it's often overwhelming to select the one that goes with your personality. When you see your favorite fashion influencer or celebrity wearing different hats, you may be wondering whether you can create the same effect with your selection of hats? Believe it or not, it is possible. You can wear medium-priced hats and create a similar effect only with confidence. You can complement your outfit with elegant-looking hats that will make you different in the crowd. You will have to consider various options in terms of style and color if you want to create a stylish look in 2023.

One critical area that you will have to look into is your head size. Apart from the head size, the face shape also makes a difference. People with an oval shape, round shape, and long shape faces have different options before them. For example, individuals with long faces will have to go for wide-brimmed hats to cut across the forehead and create an impression of a shorter look. Hence, you can go for fedora hats but not beanies.

On the other hand, your head size also makes a huge difference. You must go for Panama hats, fedora hats, and newsboy caps if you have a big head. Wide-brimmed hats are the best for big heads. While considering hats for big heads, you will have to go with wide-brimmed, lightweight, and breathable hats that create a mysterious look.

Hat styles that will make you look elegant in the crowd

Now that you have decided to purchase a hat for your occasion, it's time to delve deep into the options. There are tons of choices before you when you hit the market. You don't have to be a hat specialist to purchase a hat. All you need to do is obey simple guidelines that experts provide you. Do not be scared of experimenting with your accessories because that might give you a completely distinct look.

Sun hats are ideal for casual settings

Yes, you may feel that sun hats are only good for a beachside look. However, it is not so. If you want to flaunt your face, hair, and neck, all you need to do is get a sun hat.

Select big hats with wide brims and wide circumference

It will not only deliver you shade but elevate your look to another level. Sightseeing, gardening, hiking, or when you are heading towards the beach, you will require some protection. Hence, floppy hats are the best option. You can select those coming with a light color like beige, white, or pastel shades. They limit the rays of the sun and thereby keep your head cooler.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Fedora hats are decent for every season

Again, you may feel that fedora hats are only for the summer season. However, your thought is wrong. If you want to hide your bad hair day, you can rely on fedora hats. Believe it or not, the curved headwear comes with indented crowns to draw all the attention towards you. You don't have to style yourself with additional accessories. All you need is to pair your hats with white t-shirts and fitted trousers to do the talking. Fedora hats are available in different materials and colors. You will have to mix and match different shapes and textures to create a feminine balance.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Beret caps are ideal for winter evenings

If you are interested in a distinctive look with a flat crown and woven style, you will have to look at beret hats. Hats are not only popular among women but also men. Ever since the early 19th century, this headwear has become popular in the western world. They are an integral part of official uniforms all across the globe. Hence, they are not only adequate for casual events but also formal get together. Another distinctive feature associated with the beret is that they are available in different materials and colors. Felt, wool, synthetic fiber, and crochet cotton helps in manufacturing these hats. Hence, you are in a better stance to select among them.

How about wearing cowboy hats for your outdoor events?

If you are interested in gardening, hiking, or any such outdoor activities, you can go for wide-brimmed and high crown cowboy hats. They are prevalent all across Western countries and have always remained in fashion. Irrespective of your sense of style, you can wear cowboy hats to give a rugged appearance and a mysterious look. Cowboy hats are available in different materials. However, the traditional ones are fur-based.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Apart from this, you can also take a look at Panama hats. Originating in Ecuador, these hats belong to a specific season. Hence, they are lightweight, breathable, and easy to maintain. The tight weaving makes these hats long-lasting and durable. For that authentic and traditional look, you will have to go for these breathable alternatives.

Winter Wardrobe Essentials for 2023 (9 Staples)

With the Winter fast approaching, it's time to up your wardrobe game with these simple essentials! From warm layers to stylish elements, this list contains the perfect combination of staying toasty with looking amazing. Plus, the great thing about all of these choices is that there are items out there to suit any budget. So, what are you waiting for? Let's upgrade your winter wardrobe in 2023 with these essentials!

1) Black Jeans

Although this might seem like a simple one, black jeans will help to set up your wardrobe for the whole winter. They literally go with anything and can be dressed up or dressed down for any occasion. You could choose wide-leg black jeans, black skinny jeans or any style to suit you! Plus, you know that black jeans are never going to go out of style, so you can wear them again and again. Not only this, but if they fade over time, you can re-dye them so they will keep looking brand new.

Keep it super simple with your black jeans, a white t-shirt and a colourful puffer jacket. Dress your jeans right up with a blazer and white shirt. Pair with a hoodie and autumnal coloured trainers for an effortless weekend look. Your options really are endless when it comes to black jeans, so you know you will be wearing these time after time.

Image Credit: Pinterest

2) Wool Overcoat

Next up we have a wool overcoat, a dressier staple for any winter wardrobe. Wool overcoats are long sleeve coats with a classic shape that usually sits between the mid-thigh and knee. No matter which dressy outfit you are wearing, when you throw on an overcoat, the whole outfit will come together. For a classic and timeless, go with either a navy, black or camel coloured overcoat.

Pair a camel overcoat with an all-black outfit for a classy look. To add a bit more warmth, go with a white shirt, nude cable knit jumper and a camel overcoat with blue jeans and camel boots. If you prefer a more monochromatic look, choose a grey overcoat with a white shirt and black trousers. Your options are endless with a wool overcoat so this really is essential in any wardrobe!

Image Credit: Pinterest

3) Thick Flannel Overshirt

Another winter essential when it comes to layering is a thick flannel overshirt! This is a classic style that is absolutely timeless, so it is worth investing in. First, choose which colour scheme you want to go for. Go for a classic red and black, more simply grey and white or a camel, black and brown for a modern edge. This will depend on the colour of the t-shirt, likely either black or white.

Then, pair the t-shirt and shirt with black or blue jeans, perhaps ripped for a nice twist. You could keep it more casual with a hooded tracksuit underneath for a slightly smarter casual look. To dress it up, go with a turtleneck, black jeans and boat shoes. The most simple of all is a full black outfit with your flannel shirt for an effortless look.

4) Puffer Jacket

Puffer jackets are another staple in any winter wardrobe! This one is much more focused on keeping warm, but hopefully, you realise by now that this doesn't mean you need to compromise on style. You could go for a lightweight puffer jacket if you like to layer or you could choose something much thicker if you like your coat to be the main warming element.

Style with tracksuits, jeans or even smart trousers and you will create a killer look every time. To make this your main winter coat, choose a waterproof choice. No matter your budget, this piece will become a wardrobe staple every year. For a more affordable option without compromising on quality, wait around for a women's or men's puffer jacket sale!

5) Beanie

Going in the direction of accessories, you should invest in a beanie! We all need to make sure that we are keeping warm through the winter and this is a stylish way to go about it. Beanies come in all different colours, so maybe you could go for a brighter option if the majority of your wardrobe is more neutral coloured, like a mustard yellow or deep orange. If you love more simple colours, keep it simple with a marl grey or black.

Again, beanies can be thrown on with anything and they will look great, so you have something on hand when it's cold no matter what you're wearing!

Image Credit: Pinterest

6) Scarf

While we are on the topic of warm accessories, you should pair your beanie with a matching scarf! Of course, we want everything to look good, so choosing something that matches is a great choice, especially if you have chosen a more basic neutral colour. However, you could go with a simple black scarf if you don't want too much colour on the outfit. Nevertheless, having a scarf in your winter wardrobe no matter what is essential to keep you warm in winter 2023!

7) Chelsea Boots

Our next choice is a good pair of Chelsea boots. Sometimes trainers just don't cut it on the coldest of days, so having a thick boot with nice socks is essential. Plus, Chelsea boots are a timeless classic that you will reach for every year. As with the rest of our picks, this one is so diverse.

One of the best ways to style Chelsea boots is with a grey overcoat, a white t-shirt and ripped blue jeans. Or, style it right up with a black turtleneck, smart checkered trousers and a black overcoat. Suede or leather are two of the most popular choices, with leather being the easiest to maintain over time. With a pair of Chelsea boots in the cupboard, you will never be stuck for choice.

8) Cable Knit Jumper

Another important thing when it comes to warmth is a cable knit jumper. When it comes to colour, your options really are endless. Keep it simple with black, grey or nude, go with a hint of colour with a dark green, burgundy or navy, or go bold with mustard or bright blue! Wear on its own or with a shirt underneath for a smarter twist on this look that will keep you warm on a night out.

Crew neck cable knit jumpers look amazing or you could go with a turtleneck if it is particularly cold where you live! Make sure to go for an oversized one if you choose to go with a turtleneck, as this will make you feel super cosy. On a cold day, throw on your jeans and cable knit jumper and you'll be good to go. If you need an extra layer, go with a long sleeve top underneath for extra warmth.

Image Credit: Pinterest

9) ¾ Zip Sweater

Last but not least, we have a ¾ zip sweater. For the days where a cable knit jumper isn't quite dressy enough, then a cable knit jumper worn over a shirt or long sleeve top is a dressy and warm option that is effortlessly stylish! Jeans, trousers and even joggers can all look amazing with a ¾ zip sweater, so having one of these on hand is always a good idea. Comfy, cosy and warm, this is a staple that will help to get you through winter looking stylish.

Final Thoughts

Who said your 2023 winter wardrobe has to be dull just so you can keep warm! With these different winter wardrobe essentials, you're all set for a stylish winter wardrobe that is also practical. From cosy winter accessories to essential coats and stylish finishing touches, you will find yourself reaching for these pieces year after year, making these classic pieces cost-effective and eco-friendly pieces! Prepare to always have something to wear this winter with these amazing wardrobe staples.

Summer Wardrobe Tips 2023 | Up Your Fashion Game

Some people love summertime, whereas others find the heat very problematic. Although summer clothes are super fashionable sometimes, it can be challenging to understand what works best. You want to feel comfortable in your clothes along with looking stylish. Feeling good is just as important as looking good.

There are certain dos and don'ts when it comes to wearing the right clothes in this weather. You want to dress in a way that does not make you feel the heat or humidity. You also do not want to buy something because it is trending and then never wear it again. You want something that completes your wardrobe and complements your whole look. That's why we will talk about seven summer wardrobe tips that will help enhance your fashion game in 2023.

1. Make Dresses Your Best Friend

Dresses are super underrated. You do not have to wear a dress only when going to some formal gatherings. A comfortable flowy dress is perfect for summer. It will not make you feel hot because of the light fabric, and it will not make you sweat either. The best thing about dresses is that you can wear them when you can't figure out what to wear otherwise. Minimal effort goes into styling it. You can add a pair of sandals with the right accessories, and it will make you look chic.

There are different types of dresses you can opt for, such as minidresses, maxi dresses, and sundresses. Sundresses are essential for summer. Not only can you find the most comfortable plus-size sundresses, but the floral prints will give off the perfect summertime vibe. Add a pair of sunglasses and floral sandals, and you are good to go almost anywhere.

2. Opt for Light Colors

As much as dark colors make us feel bold, try opting for lighter colors in the summer. Lighter colors reflect heat and make us feel breezy, and give the perfect vibe. Light colors have an airy and cool feel that fits with summer, which dark colors do not. Pastel colors also come under this category and look stylish. There are plenty of ways to wear pastel-colored clothing. Colors such as lilac, light blue, and mint green are trending pastel colors. You can mix and match these colors or wear them with neutrals. For example, you can mix neutral colors, such as gray, with a pastel color for an elegant and classy look. You can also mix neutral tones with a pastel nude color, such as beige or light peach. You can style these colors with various accessories and do natural makeup and look flawless.

3. Avoid Skin-Tight Clothes

Tight clothing absorbs heat and makes you sweat, which are two things you don't want. The heat and humidity are already stressful, let alone having your clothes bother you too. Thus, choose clothes that have a lot of air circulation. Loose-fitting and flowy clothing not only gives excessive airflow but also goes hand in hand with summertime. You can wear crop tops, oversized shirts, wide-legged pants, and loose blouses, which will help you stay cool. You can also wear off-shoulder or sleeveless blouses for a formal look. It will make you feel stylish and not let the heat get to you either.

Image Credit: Pinterest

4. Choose the Right Fabric

You must know the correct fabric for summer. Choosing clothes based on the material will only matter during this time. However, it is something that needs proper attention. You want to wear breathable and light fabrics that will not make you feel sweaty. Try to wear cotton, silk, chiffon, or linen clothing. You can also choose jersey material and wear basic t-shirts and V-necks. Also, if you want textured clothing, you can choose fabrics such as seersucker. It will be light and make you look fashionable. The best thing about these materials is that they give the perfect summer vibe, along with making you heat-free.

5. Own a Variety of Tank Tops

You must own at least two tank tops. Tank tops are the most useful items in your entire wardrobe and it is the perfect thing for summer. You can wear a tank top and a pair of pants to beat the heat with a summer-loving casual outfit. Yet, you can also wear it below a sheer dress. Apart from this, you can wear different colored tank tops, such as red, blue, or pink every day, and create a whole new look. You can also pair it with tights/shorts and create an outfit for the beach. You can style a tank top in almost any way, and adding accessories gives an effortless summer look.

Image Credit: Pinterest

6. Say No to Denim

Denim is always a good idea, but not in summer! The fabric is quite heavy and will keep bothering you. Denim jeans, high-waisted or skinny, will make you feel hot in the summer. As an alternative to jeans, you can choose different lowers, which have more breathable fabric. You can wear cotton or linen straight pants, palazzos, or baggy pants. However, if you still want to wear denim, wear wide-leg jeans, which will allow better airflow than other options. However, with the variety of clothing items available nowadays, try choosing something stylish and comfortable.

7. Rely on Skirts and Shorts

Skirts and shorts have plenty of variety. They are breathable and help in preventing excessive heat. Mini skirts are your holy grail for summer. You can pair this with formal or casual tops and sandals or closed shoes. It will give you a chic semi-casual summer outfit.

Other options for skirts include tulle and pleated skirts. When we talk about shorts, you can choose anything you prefer. Try going for floral printed or lace shorts. Floral prints are perfect for summer. You can pair them with a tank top/button-down shirt and wedges to give a chic vibe. Lace shorts add an extra feminine touch to your look. You can pair this with a crop top and a summer hat and make a statement style.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Conclusion

The most important thing to remember when it comes to choosing clothes is comfort. If you are not comfortable, nothing else matters. It would help if you never compromised your comfort because of style. While you should look good, nothing trumps your satisfaction. If you are wearing something that others wear out of peer pressure, that will not look good. Wear clothes that you like and are easy to carry. If you feel good, you will automatically look good too. These tips will help you with the heat and give you choices on clothing and fashion, but in the end, only you can decide what suits you best.

Winter Outfit Ideas 2023 - Up Your Fashion Game

So, the winter season is coming.

Well, cheers to that! Not only is winter an enjoyable season, but it also comes with a chance to style up your winter outfit!

Solid knitted pullovers are all that you need to look cool. Choose knits in solid colors as they offer the highest versatility. To uplift your winter looks, you should choose knits that provide a range of color options as well as their delicate texture.

Choose solid knits to make for a great way of adding edginess to your outfit without overdoing it.

If you want to make the most with your solid knits, you can pair them with structured jackets, coats, cardigans, and shrugs.

3. Trench coats

Trench coats are a central part of the perfect winter closet! The trench coats used to be very famous all around the Western countries.

However, Asians have taken a page out of the book of Western countries as trench coats are becoming popular all over Asia as well!

Trench coats give a “timeless” appeal to them. Seeing that they come with a complete design and offer comfort and style, these coats are an excellent option for formalwear and casual wear.

So, in conclusion, wearing trench coats are the perfect way to add form and structure to your winter outfits!

4. Wool blend lowers

You may have come across many sources suggesting wearing layered legging in winter.

We agree that the idea sure sounds fun! However, if you aim for formal wear, the layered leggings will not have much to offer.

However, Wool blend lowers are the perfect alternative to casual layered leggings! You can wear wool-blend trousers with skirts. As such dressing offers warmth and comfort, this dressing is the ideal option for dressing up winters.

When selecting wool-blend lowers, you should consider choosing deep colors such as grey or navy blue. Then, you can pair them with classic knits or silk shirts.

5. Knee-high boots

While you can try out many winter outfit ideas, the classics never go out of style!

These classic shoes usually run all the way up to the knees of the wearer. However, in some cases, the boots also fall slightly under as well. These shoes feel tight around the leg shaft and ankle.

This tightness ensures that these shoes offer a secure fit to the user. In addition, manufacturers usually use leather to design these shoes. Since they are made from leather, these shoes provide the right amount of warmth to the users.

Wear these shoes with a pullover and a formal skirt to rock the look!

6. Ankle boot

Ankle boots come in handy the most in the winter season.

Since they are highly fashionable and go well with casual dresses, you can pair them with trousers to rock your casual winter looks!

These shoes offer a perfect combination of style and comfort, which is just what you should look for in shoes for winter.

You will find that these shoes are highly versatile. They go well with dresses, skirts, leather jackets, and even blazers! You name it.

7. Oxford shoe

You may know Oxford shoes as lace-up shoes. These shoes have the bottom of the lacing section closed due to sewing.

Furthermore, they also come with their eyelet facings stitched underneath the vamp. This design is featured on the front section of the shoe.

It's safe to say that these shoes are trendy. Other than that, these shoes also happen to be unisex.

In conclusion, Oxford shoes give you a lot of variety as they work well with formal and casual wear alike. Considering that, they will make an excellent option for improvising your fashion game!

8. Leather jackets

What to Wear for Maternity Photoshoot in 2023

We all know that as blissful as pregnancy is, it can be equally hard too. And an expecting mother goes through all kinds of emotional swings throughout this period. At the same time, it is also a phase when a lady becomes the creator of a new life, carrying it within her body.

Pregnancy brings both physical and emotional transformation to the woman. Inevitably, she'd want to capture the moments and cherish them for a lifetime and more. In the modern world, a maternity photoshoot is the best way to capture these precious moments of life.

Over the years, maternity photoshoots have progressed from taking informal images at home to going out and having them photographed in a studio. Either way, the challenge that every expecting mother faces is, "what to wear for maternity photoshoot in 2023?"

Choosing the correct outfit for an occasion has always been a tough choice especially when it's about pregnancy shoots. And this further complicates the decisions to be made. At the same time, it is also important that the mother feels comfortable in whatever she chooses to wear throughout the shoot.

In this informative article, we will share a few tips and ideas on maternity photoshoot outfits for 2023.

1. Trail Gowns

There is a certain elegance and timelessness that comes with gowns. And when you are pregnant, you get to wear your baby bump with even more pride than ever. With Trail Gowns especially, things tend to get easier and at times, even royal. They are easy to carry and comfortable around the baby bump. In maternity photoshoots, they capture the essence of your curves and contours. Furthermore, trail gowns can sprinkle a bit of drama into your shoot. In a still photograph, the flowing fabric as you flaunt your baby bump, adds to the overall appeal of the picture.

2. Maternity Photoshoot in Saree Ideas

Yes, you read it right! Another option for your maternity photoshoot can be a saree. We all know that those six yards of sheer elegance have been doing wonders for as long as we can remember. And nothing stops a mother from wearing a saree for a baby bump photoshoot. There are no boundaries on the type of sarees you can wear on a pre baby shoot. Wrap it in any style you want and let the camera bring grace to the picture.

3. Lehenga

Another ethnic costume suitable for a pregnancy photoshoot is to go for your wedding lehenga. Wearing a lehenga is every girl's dream come true. And the dream becomes even more divine during a maternity shoot. However, you don't have to buy a whole new lehenga for the shoot. You can use the one you wore for your engagement or wedding or any other function. It will not only bring the extra spark to your shoot but also will bring back so many memories just to build them with the new ones.

4. Professional Outfit

While we have discussed a lot of tastes so far, not everyone wants to go with traditional outfits. And as we said before, it's important for the mother to be comfortable in whatever she wears. So, you may also choose to wear professional-work attire. You can pair up a skirt with a shirt or a dress. You can always "Boss Up" your maternity photoshoot!

Image credit: pinterest

5. Casuals

Speaking of comfort, some women also like to keep things casual or go for a street look. And maternity photoshoots are all up for it! For casual looks, you can run to the basics like a black top and jeans with a denim jacket. Or you can go for dungarees or a crop top with shorts. You may even go for flair dresses. Casual looks tend to fit well in backgrounds like home settings, backyards, parks and even the famous landmarks of your city.

6. One-Piece Bikini

Maternity photoshoots are all about showing off your baby bump. A one-piece full set of bikinis are a good option to show off your curves. For that, you can go for solid-colored bikini costumes or with neons.

7. Solid Colors

Since it's a maternity shoot, the prime focus is on the baby bump and nothing should distract the focus from it. We generally suggest going with solid colors so your baby bump stays the prime focus. However, a couple pieces of jewelry or a scarf never hurt anyone.

8. Textured Clothing

Using textured clothing for your maternity shoot is a great way to add dimension to your photos without overcrowding them. Lace is a beautiful and feminine option that pictures beautifully. At the same time, knits are not far behind. Textured clothing will give your maternity photoshoot an extra edge and is the perfect substitute for prints and patterns.

9. Have Two Outfits

With maternity shoots, it's good to keep your options open. We suggest that you must have two outfits ready such as one for casuals and one for a sophisticated shoot. It brings variety to your pictures. All you have to do is inform your photographer that you'd like to change outfits during the shoot.

10. Bold Themes

You can have bold prints, vivid colors, and classic childhood themes if you want to bring a huge personality to your pregnancy photography. Any of these clothes can make a joyful statement in your maternity images. A wonderful method to put joy first during your pregnancy!

Image credit: pinterest

11. Choosing Outfits With Your Partner and Children

If you want to include your partner or kids in your maternity photos, choose your dress first and then theirs to complement your style. The best option is to choose solid neutral colors. Adding a splash of color with accessories, on the other hand, is a terrific way to bring everyone in the photo together.

There's no need to be concerned about what to wear for a maternity photoshoot. The first half of the battle is settling on your overall look, and then you're good to go. Also, avoid wearing clothing, cosmetics, or hair that is overly trendy. Allow your bump to take center stage in documenting and remembering this special moment.

6 Timeless Fashion Trends That Never Go Out of Style

Everyone should have a few closet staples in their wardrobe. Closet staples are timeless fashion trends that never go out of style. By adding these six trendy and comfortable fashion items to your wardrobe, you'll never have another; "I don't have anything to wear!" moment again.

1) White Linen Shorts

White linen shorts can be dressed up or down, which makes them one of the best fashion trends. If you're having a relaxed day, you can pair them with a casual women's t-shirt. This look is perfect for running errands, picking up the kids from school, working from home - and so much more. It's important to feel trendy and stylish, even while wearing something comfortable. It will help your confidence soar through the roof.

White linen shorts can also be dressed up. Pair your white linen shorts and casual women's t-shirt with your favorite heels and a few stunning accessories, and head out to lunch with the girls. Yes, it's really that simple. You can also pair your white linen shorts with stylish button-down shirts, crop tops, off-the-shoulder ruffle blouses - and much more. Get creative and style your white linen shorts to suit any occasion you're attending.

2) Stretchy Boot Cut Pants

You absolutely have to own a pair or two of stretchy boot-cut pants. Stretchy boot-cut pants are usually worn at work or in other professional settings. But, that doesn't mean that they aren't versatile. Let's talk about why you need these trendy pants:

- They're incredibly comfortable and functional. You can wear them for hours at a time without feeling like, "Oh my gosh, I can't wait until I can take these off"
- You can wear them at work or for dinner.
- Because they're stretchy, they'll fit comfortably, even though minor weight fluctuations or bloating.
- They look nice! Just like white linen shorts, stretchy boot-cut pants flatter your natural silhouette.

Pair your stretchy bootcut pants with heels and your favorite work blouse. Or, get a slightly oversized linen button-down and head out to the best dinner spot in town.

3) Oversized Cardigans

Oversized cardigans are cozy, comfy, trendy, and easy to style! They work during all seasons and, most importantly, they can also be dressed up or down. If you have some quick errands to run, wear an oversized cardigan with your favorite t-shirt and some comfy leggings.

If you happen to get a spontaneous call from your friends to meet them for some eats and drinks during your quick errand day, don't panic! Simply, throw on your favorite heels or fancy sandals and you've got yourself a whole new outfit.

Don't throw your oversized cardigan into storage during summer, either. You'll be needing it. With an oversized cardigan in your closet during the summer, you'll be ready for the chills of movie theaters and cool night walks. Oversized cardigans are also perfect for keeping warm in offices with frigid A/C, unexpectedly windy rainy days, and anything in between.

4) Pencil Skirts

Another versatile closet staple. A pencil skirt is like your own personal magic fairy. All you need is ask, and it'll grant all your wishes. Work, church, brunch, shopping - pencil skirts work for literally any occasion. They're stretchy, comfy and they're definitely never going out of style.

There are so many outfits that you can make with a pencil skirt. They can be worn with heels, sandals, or sneakers. And best of all, you can buy them short, mid-length, or long. Pair your pencil skirt with a leather jacket and sneakers or a blazer and heels. Dress up with a formal floral blouse or dress down with a graphic tee. The possibilities with pencil skirts are literally endless!

Image Credit: Pinterest

5) V-Neck T-Shirt Dresses

Flowy, comfy, versatile. You need a v-neck t-shirt dress. Your wardrobe is simply not complete without it. You can pair your v-neck t-shirt dress with just about anything and wear it just about anywhere. Sneakers, flip flops, or casual sandals are the perfect combination with your v-neck t-shirt dress for a relaxed day.

If you're looking to be a bit more dressed up heels, high knee boots, or dressy sandals are perfect combinations for a v-neck t-shirt dress. Regardless of your shoe or accessory choice, you'll always be comfortable while wearing a t-shirt dress.

Image Credit: Pinterest

6) Midi Skirts

Owning a midi skirt is a necessity. Trendy and comfy midi skirts are a big must-have in your wardrobe! What are your plans today? Traveling on a dreamy European or Caribbean vacation? Wear a midi skirt. Going to work? Yup, you can wear a midi skirt. Heading to dinner with the love of your life? You can definitely wear a midi skirt!

Midi skirts come in so many amazing patterns and colors, that it'll be impossible to own just one. But don't worry! Owning 100 can never be considered a crime. Pair your midi skirts with literally anything and leave your house feeling confident and gorgeous.

When you own comfortable fashion trends that will never go out of style, you always have something to wear. Even if it's just an errand day, leave your house feeling confident, beautiful, radiant, and always looking your best.

Summer is ahead and my feed has started popping up with the posts for the latest trends to look out for. Stylists have begun creating looks that would be trending this summer. This past year, during the lockdown we all have spent our days and nights in pajamas and nightwear. Some of you might still prefer slouchy clothes with light fabrics for work from home, most of us are pretty tired of it and want to hop on the latest trend bandwagon and try some new styles. To be honest, even my Insta needs some cheering up!

It is being said that, as the previous year, 2023 will also be the year of comebacks. Like tie-dye, which is still going strong, matching separates and oversized clothing has also made a banging comeback. Sadly, we aren't still able to go out on a regular basis but that does not mean we can't dress up a little for dinner at home, a zoom call to family and friends, or sizzle up a boring day. Here we have gathered some casual fashion trends and styles that are easy to achieve at home. These styles will give an edge to your everyday clothing. Give the list below a quick look.

1) Statement Sleeve Tops

It isn't the first time this trend is in the spotlight. Every time the style returns, it is grander than before. For outings, you can go big and bold but as we are planning to stay indoors, keep it a little subtle and remember not to overdo it. Be it ruffled, victorian, bell, bishop, or balloon sleeves, pair it with a pair of denim shorts, your regular jeans, or a pair of plaid trousers to give it a smart casual look at the dinner table. Pair it with a pair of studs or a bracelet to keep it minimal. Statement sleeves being in demand, many websites have it on sale; order the one that reflects your style.

Image Credit: Pinterest

2) Wide-Legged Pants (Palazzos)

Wide-legged pants have become the reigning silhouette for bottoms in recent times. As we are staying indoors and it's going to be summers, skinny jeans and fitted pants simply cannot be the go-to choice. Palazzo pants keep you comfortable and give room to breathe. We all have been praying secretly for these pants to be in fashion. Admit it now!

Be it denim, printed, plain or plaid, it will suit a person of any age or whatever your body type. When staying indoors, pair it up with a casual t-shirt, a cardigan, or a crop top and enjoy.

Image Credit: Pinterest

3) Matching Sets

The '70s matching sets styling trend has made an extravagant comeback this year. These sets come in different fabrics, colors, and styles including crop tops and skirts, shorts and blouses, sweatsuits, and many more. The matching sets can be a great addition to your wardrobe and come in very useful when you have online work meetings. They look stylish, sophisticated yet comfortable. It totally depends upon your preference if you want to go for solids, printed, or both. Put your hair in a sleek hairstyle that suits your face and you're good to go for that work call.

Image Credit: Pinterest

4) Scarf Tops

One of the top trends of the '90s and early 2000s, the scarf tops has also made a comeback and no doubt it will be ruling your Insta feeds this summer. Including Beyonce and Bella Hadid, many celebrities having been spotted sporting a scarf top. Almost everyone has invested in a square scarf as it is a staple in every closet. It is the most budget-friendly outfit that makes you stand out from the crowd. This summer when you're visiting the beach, don't forget to wear the scarf top! You can pair it with denim shorts or a pair of fitted pants.

Image Credit: Pinterest

5) Oversized Clothing

We no longer live in the times when oversized clothing is considered unfashionable. Rather, oversized t-shirts, sweatshirts, hoodies, jackets are very much in fashion these days, a lot of celebrities including Kim Kardashian, Rihanna, Hailey Beiber have been seen wearing it.

It will keep you comfortable in the scorching summer heat by giving you a casual, laid-back yet chic look. You can pair it with pants of your choice or skip the bottoms. Style oversized garments with minimal accessories, a belt, sneakers, and sport a no-makeup look. You can wear it on your chore days, grocery runs, or a socially distant stroll in a park.

Image Credit: Pinterest

6) Work Pants

It has been a while since your work pants have seen the light of day. This whole past year when you've been working from home in your pajamas, you must have missed sporting that formal look that makes you feel like a boss lady. You need not worry because thankfully, we live in the times when fashion has no boundaries. We can sport a casual look at work and a formal one at... anywhere!

Pull out those favorite work pants and style them up this summer. Wear it with a casual t-shirt, a tank top, crop top, or a spaghetti-strapped blouse. Put on sneakers if opting for a casual look or pair it with matching heels for a date night.

Image Credit: Pinterest

7) Graphic Tees

A t-shirt is said to be the most expressive garment of all. It has evolved tremendously over the years, from being an undershirt to becoming one of the most fashionable clothing items. Coming on to graphic tees, it was first introduced in the 1960s but took the world by storm in the 70s and since then the trend is going strong.

Youngsters to adults, everyone has graphic tees or a gameday shirt in their wardrobe and this summer as well you can wear your favorite graphic tee to make a statement. Pair it with shorts or a skirt or wear it oversized. You can never go wrong with the styling of a graphic t-shirt.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Bottom Line

All the trends and styling mentioned above are pretty easy to achieve and won't have you going on a shopping spree and breaking your bank account to get a particular look. These items are pretty common, just explore your wardrobe and pair up some garments and accessories to achieve the required look and rock the summer like a queen.

How to Slay in Leather Jackets this Spring 2023

Spring is here, and we are ready to come out of hibernation. It is time to ditch the bulky sweaters and coats and bring out the dresses and skirts. One garment people often question wearing in the springtime is a leather jacket. Who said leather jackets are only meant for the fall and winter seasons? Leather jackets can be worn all year, so make sure not to stack them away after the last snowfall.

However, you must be mindful of a couple of things before wearing leather jackets in the warmer months. First, opt for a lightweight leather jacket with a thin lining so it is airy and breathable. Second, avoid darker tones as they intensify high temperatures. Play with lighter tones instead.

The following is a list of our top 4 picks for springtime. Let us get started.

1. Powder Pink Moto Leather Jacket

Spring fashion is all about colors, so this powder pink moto leather jacket makes the perfect pick. Unlike the regular black and brown variants, this leather jacket comes as a breath of fresh air. Its stunning color exudes a chic and girly aura that will make you feel instantly prettier. Moreover, it is just one of those colors that stands out in the crowd. We have all seen neutral-toned leather jackets. It is time we tried out something different like this pastel powder pink number.

Aside from the color, the cut and finish of a moto leather jacket are unparalleled. With its sleek and simple design and body-hugging silhouette, this jacket flatters all shapes and sizes. Its clean design allows the jacket's unique color to take center stage, the perfect pick for minimalists. If, however, you wish to opt for something fancier, by all means, opt for a moto jacket with details like embroidery and embellishments; they make the jacket look all the more special. For the spring season, make sure to opt for a light lining material so that your jacket is breathable and airy.

Image Credit: Pinterest

When it comes to styling, powder pink may seem like a tricky color to work with, but with the right color palette, it works beautifully every time. Pair your powder pink beauty with a plain white pleated dress, a flirty skirt, and a tank top, or sport it over a pair of everyday jeans and a tee. Easy, breezy, and beautiful, just like spring.

2. Lilac Leather Biker Jacket

Spring is all about pretty pastels, and this lilac leather biker jacket is the hot new must-have for the season. Lilac is such a gorgeous color. It radiates a serene aura and looks supremely elegant and sophisticated. Leather jackets have always been known for their rogue and badass outlook. Therefore, a lilac-colored leather jacket never seemed like a doable idea until now. This perfect amalgamation of two contrasting auras is what we like to call harmonious perfection.

Leather biker jackets are super edgy and bold, which is what makes this particular pick even more stunning to behold and adorn. The wide lapelled collar, the asymmetric zipper, and the slim-fit cut of a biker jacket are one that instantly adds an element of boldness to your ensemble. This lilac-hued number is perfect for you if you are looking to channel all the badass vibes while maintaining that chic, elegant, and feminine outlook. If you are looking to go the extra mile, opt for a studded leather jacket in the same color or try your luck with a leather vest as opposed to the conventional leather jacket.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Like the powder pink leather jacket, this lilac leather jacket also performs best when given the spotlight. It is an absolute beauty; surely, you must let it shine. Style your lilac leather jacket with a monochrome lilac or lavender ensemble (all the purple vibes!), or pair it with understated neutrals like a pair of beige pants and a white button-down shirt or a flirty printed chiffon sundress.

If you are not a fan of color, lilac is the one color that will convert you; trust us. If you are searching for a spring season pick, this one is it.

3. Applique Patchwork Leather Jacket

The classic leather jackets are tried and tested, universal favorites. And rightly so; they are effortless, versatile, and timeless. However, sometimes, the heart craves for something different, something new. If you are on the search for something out-of-the-norm, an applique patchwork jacket is the one for you.

Featuring a unique assortment of leather patches and other accessory details, an intricately crafted masterpiece is nothing short of art. What makes applique jackets even more special is that every piece is unique in its own way; the design always varies. Moreover, there are so many options to play with. Leather patches of different colors and textures, embellishments, and embroidery; you can create your own custom piece by making some tweaks.

If you are a minimalist, play it safe with a monotone or dual-tone applique leather jacket. Monotone jackets feature leather patches of the same color but often varying textures to make them more interesting and attractive. Dual-toned jackets feature one more color to create a good contrast of color and texture.

If you are on the search for a true statement piece, the sky is truly the limit. Graffiti-inspired patchwork leather jackets are all the rage right now. Featuring an array of leather patches intertwined with embellishments and accents that make the jacket all the more special, a jacket such as this one is a head-turner and the ultimate crowd-pleaser. Go as bright and bold as your heart desires; art is not a thing to be restricted.

Coming to the cut, since the jacket canvas has so much going on, it is best to stick to understated cuts to balance everything out. A collarless straight-cut jacket or a sleek moto leather jacket cut works best in this situation.

4. Asymmetrical Collarless Jacket

When it comes to leather jackets, we have seen them all. From the classic biker and bomber cuts to the sleek moto and shirt-cut fits, leather jackets are loved by one and all. Much like other trends, leather jackets too have been subject to innovation, and we are glad to have come up with some refreshingly unique designs such as this asymmetrical collarless jacket. Collarless jackets are the true embodiment of minimalism. They are clean, simple, and statement. Asymmetrical jackets are quirky. Combine the two, and you have something stunning. Asymmetrical collarless jackets are the perfect pick for you if you are on the hunt for something minimal but not basic. Unique, easygoing, and effortless; it ticks all the boxes. Style your asymmetrical collarless jacket with anything from a dress to jeans to everything in between. This is perhaps the easiest one to style of the lot. When it comes to colors, stick to the spring color palette. Play with muted tones like understated neutrals (white, camel, brown) or vibrant colors, including both bright and muted tones like the yellows, millennial pinks, and greens.

Parting thoughts

Leather jackets are perfect for all-year-round wear. They are light, breathable, and easy. Moreover, they are super versatile; how could you say no to them? This spring season, try your luck with our top four picks and turn heads wherever you go.

Fashion Essentials for Destination Wedding 2023

Destination weddings are extremely special, as you get to spend your wedding day in a beautiful location surrounded by the people you love. Aside from the day itself, you will want to look your best in the days before and days after the wedding. So, we have put together must-have fashion essentials to help you look amazing and feel even better during your time away! From simple brown heeled sandals and beautiful swimwear to statement sunglasses and necklaces, these beautiful pieces will make sure you turn heads for all the right reasons.

1) Brown Heeled Sandals

When you are packing for your destination wedding, it is best to pack diverse items that you can wear over and over to save space. Believe us, you can't go wrong with the brown heeled sandals! This shoe is perfect as it is very neutral, so will accompany any evening outfit beautifully. Also, it is nice and cool so if you were heading for a fancy lunch or dress fitting appointment and wanted to feel your best, you can!

Invest in a good pair of brown sandals, as you will find yourself wearing them year after year. Plus, knowing they were bought for your wedding vacation will bring back happy memories every time you wear them. Just one quick tip, make sure the heel isn't too high as you don't want your feet to ache on your big day!

Image Credit: Pinterest

2) Beautiful Swimwear

If your destination wedding is near the beach or has access to the pool, beautiful swimwear is a must. This is the perfect opportunity to go all out with your swimwear and make a statement. In the days running up to the wedding, make sure you have a strapless bikini or costume to avoid unwanted tan marks! Once you have had your wedding day, you can go wild with all sorts of crazy designs if that's your thing.

Go for something blingy like a jewel bikini, or keep things more simple with a subtle black swimsuit. Don't forget to take a beach coverup like a fancy sarong or comfy beach pants, and of course a glam beach bag! Make the most of your stunning destination and soak up the sun in your beautiful swimwear.

Image Credit: Pinterest

3) Lightweight Evening Jacket

Depending on your location, the temperature could dip in the evenings, so packing a lightweight evening jacket is a must. Something like a lightweight cardigan or denim jacket would work well and will go with most outfit choices, especially gorgeous cocktail dresses!

You don't want your precious time away with your loved ones to be cut short because it's too cold, so be prepared and you will have nothing to worry about. Roll up your jacket tightly at the bottom of your bag and it won't be any bother.

Image Credit: Pinterest

4) Statement Sunglasses

You're likely to be taking lots of pictures when you are away, so if you don't want to risk squinting too much on your special photos, make sure to take some statement sunglasses with you. You will look effortlessly stylish and you will have a great new accessory in your lovely photos!

Everyone suits different sunglasses, however, a firm favorite for many people are oversized frames. This is a great way to make a statement without any crazy colors or patterns. Just make sure you occasionally take them off to prevent unwanted tan lines, especially before the wedding.

Image Credit: Pinterest

5) Statement Necklace

You want to look as glam as possible during your special trip, and one way to add glamour to any outfit is with a statement necklace. Pick a more simple outfit and pair it with a statement necklace to take it to another level. A white dress with a bright, colorful necklace works amazingly, especially when paired with a more simple bag and shoes. Whilst they aren't necessarily for everyday wear, you will look and feel amazing as soon as you put it on.

Statement necklaces have been in style for years, and it looks like that isn't going to change anytime soon, so invest in a few different pieces so you always have different options. Experiment with a range of colors and textures to find your own unique style. Any vacation outfit isn't complete with a few accessories, yet a statement necklace will make you stand out from the crowd for all the right reasons!

6) Raffia Handbag

The most on-trend vacation accessory you can find is a raffia handbag. These gorgeous, neutral bags look beautiful but they are also more sustainable than other bags thanks to their natural material. Just try to avoid ones with plastic linings and you'll be good to go! Best of all, they go with everything so you will save plenty of packing space for more important things. The subtle color of the bag works especially well with beautiful bright outfits!

You can get miniature sizes if you only need to take a few bits on the go, or larger over-the-shoulder bags which are perfect for the evening as you can easily carry your lightweight jacket. Whether you decide to get a designer raffia bag or a highstreet version, there are plenty of options on the market, so you will find something perfect for you.

Every type of bra or lingerie piece has a purpose for which it is meant to be worn. You don't have to follow the rule that one type of bra goes with everything. Explore the lingerie world and you will find that the variety is meant to benefit you. There has been an evolution of bras since they were first made. Now you can get a bra for each type of need that you have. From activewear to casual wear, you have something to choose from.

Sports bras and bralettes are the two members of the vast lingerie world that need to be given the attention they deserve. This post will help you know all about sports bras and bralettes, and how they are different and similar to one another in their usage and support.

What is a Bralette and its Uses?

A bralette is a more relaxed and casual version of a bra. It provides coverage and comes with removable pads. The designs and patterns are numerous when it comes to bralettes. They look sassy and elegant even if they are worn all alone. They are fashionable and trendy in terms of their neckline and strappy details.

Bralettes can also be understood as a mix between a crop top and a sports bra. You can ditch your regular bra and wear a bralette that is a much comfier option, non-constricting and provides necessary coverage for your breasts. They are also mostly made of comfortable and breathable material so they can become your go-to option for everyday casual wear.

When it comes to the usability of a bralette, there are many. They can be worn underneath your clothing as well as just as it is as a sexy crop top. They are great for layering underneath a jacket or a blazer which will give you a confident boss lady feels. Those who want little support can go for the padded bralettes and flaunt their curves. Bralettes are available for all sizes of women and no matter what size you are there's a bralette for you.

What is a Sports Bra and its Uses?

A sports bra we all know is meant to be worn while doing sports activities like fuming, playing a sport, running, or even yoga. Breasts are sensitive and need to be protected while doing physical exercises or workouts. Sports bras are necessary to wear during all these physical activities because they hold your breasts in place which prevents injury and soreness that may result from the up and down motion in the breasts.

Based on the type of workout sports bras comes in three variants that provide different supports.

- Low-Impact Sports Bras: For workouts like yoga or meditation you don't need much support as there is little to no movement in the breasts and low-impact sports bras are ideal for this.
- Medium-Impact Sports Bras: These provide support to the breasts to restrict excessive movement that could result in injury. These come with removable pads and are ideal for workouts like running.
- High Impact Sports Bras: They provide coverage and encapsulation of the breasts to restrict movement during physically strenuous exercises and are ideal for maximum support.

Sports bras are not a boring category of lingerie to explore. There are many different types of sports bras out there that provide the support that you need and they are also cute. Apart from the regular black and grey colors, there are many more to seek.

Difference between Sports Bra and Bralette

The differences between bralette and sports bra cannot be ignored. Below are listed some of them to help you understand them better:

- A sports bra is heavily padded which is necessary to fulfill its function of supporting the breasts and holding them in place. A bralette comes with no or removable padding and you choose however you want to wear it.
- Sports bras are worn while working out and can be worn underneath your workout wear or on their own. While bralettes with their beautiful designs and patterns are meant to be seen when you wear them.
- Sports bras that are heavy-duty ones are made for vigorous activities while for activities like yoga you can opt for a bralette instead of a sports bra as this activity doesn't cause much movement in the breasts.

Similarities Between a Sports Bra and a Bralette

Despite the differences between a sports bra and a bralette, they both have a similarity that they are stylish to wear. They elevate your boring regular outfit. A sports bra looks so sassy while providing support during a workout. With the zipper in front and racerback in the back, it makes you look and feel confident in yourself.

A bralette on the other hand does the same for your everyday outfit giving you options to style it differently each time you wear it. Wear a bralette as a crop top or style it underneath a sheer top, the choice is up to you. But the bralette will always end up making you look sexy and feel comfortable.

Summing Up

Both the sports and the bralette are ideal to wear in summer. Sports bras are made up of breathable material and absorb perspiration. Bralettes also provide comfort and breathability. There you know all the things you need to know about a sports bra and a bralette. Choose for yourself between the two keeping all the aspects in mind and according to your need and comfort. Both have their place in the lingerie world that has something to offer for everyone.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

1) Can you wear bralettes as bras?

Yes, you can experiment with wearing bralettes as regular bras. They come in several designs & patterns with a beautiful neckline and help you look sassy. If you are concerned about the nip slip, we recommend you consider using stick-ons.

2) Does wearing a bralette cause sagging?

The short answer is No. There is no scientific evidence available that can support the statement that wearing a bralette can cause the sagging of boobs. Therefore, you don't need to worry about the sagging of your boobs when wearing a bralette for any time duration.

3) Can I wear bralette for exercise?

It's not advisable to wear a bralette for exercise or high-impact workouts. Since bralettes are not designed to reduce the movement of breasts during high-impact workouts. Instead, it is recommended to choose the right sports bra depending on how much support you need.

4) Is it okay to wear a sports bra in public?

Yes, it is completely fine to wear a sports bra in public. Many girls these days wear sports bra outside of the gym when going out for a walk in the morning or a taking a stroll in the evening. You may also find many girls wearing a sports bra while travelling in a metro train. As long as you are comfortable wearing a sports bra, you can wear it anywhere.

5) Do bralettes cause sagging?

Sagging of breasts is a natural process that can't be averted. However, if you wear the right supportive bra, you can reduce the chances of breasts sagging at an early age. Wearing a bralette does not cause sagging at all, it is a myth that needs to be busted right away.

Why Saree Shapewear is Popular + Benefits

Sarees are such an integral part of our culture, and while we can test and rock clothing from cultures all around the world, the grace and beauty that emanate from the simplest of sarees are unmatched. Sarees have a way of really grounding you while giving you the upliftment and confidence you need to flaunt your culture's most deep-rooted clothing style. However, for the modern woman who struggles to fully own her body shape, it can become difficult to completely embrace and show it off with style.

Shapewear for saree effectively and quickly solves this problem for you. This type of shapewear targets your abdomen, thighs, and back and compresses them. Shapewear for saree has gained a lot of popularity among women as inner wear for many different reasons. Enlisted below are some benefits of saree shapewear and also there is a VIDEO below on

"how to style saree shapewear". Don't forget to watch it.

5 Benefits of Wearing a Saree Shapewear Over a Traditional Petticoat in 2022

1) No Drawstring Chafing

Many people avoid wearing sarees because handling all the drapes of a saree along with the flowy petticoats with a tight drawstring isn't comfortable. The string isn't adjustable once it's tied and that can cause chafing on your waistline, but this is not an issue with shapewear for saree. Shapewear comes with an elastic band that sits just right and holds your saree perfectly.

2) Better Comfort Than Traditional Petticoats

Traditional petticoats are often made of materials like cotton and are flowy with a lot of fabric. This isn't the most comfortable situation when wearing a saree, as the petticoat can restrict movement. Shapewear for saree sticks to your body comfortably, giving you more room to move. It's made of spandex material which is equipped with moisture-wicking technology to keep you dry and super comfortable. The best part of saree shapewear is that you can wear it every day for around 10-12 hours with no hassle.

Image Credit: Pinterest

3) More Breathable

Heat can be a significant concern when wearing sarees as the multiple layers of saree with the petticoat can get too bulky. However, saree shapewear is greatly helpful when it comes to breathability. It's made of smooth, comfortable fabric that molds itself according to your body and allows your skin to breathe.

4) Versatile

While saree shapewear is absolutely perfect for sarees, that's not all you can use it with. Shapewear for saree is also really good when worn underneath other long clothing items like lehenga, gowns, maxi dresses, and more. They work their magic the same way with these dresses.

5) Compliments Your Figure and Make You Look Slim

This is one of the main purposes of saree shapewear and the reasons why it's so popular. Traditional petticoats can give your saree an unflattering shape, but shapewear for saree only enhances your figure and helps you look slim. It compresses your curves ever so slightly to smooth out the area and properly bring out your natural shape. This gives you the perfect silhouette you can flaunt your saree in.

Frequently Asked Question (FAQs)

1) How do I choose the right size of saree shapewear?

Selecting the right size of saree shapewear is as easy as 1,2,3. You just need to know the exact size of your waist and hips. For instance, if your waist size is 31-33 and your hip size is 26-29, you should go for the medium (M) size. If your waist size is 33-36 and your hip size is 29-32, then the large (L) size of saree shapewear is the best fit for you. However, if your waist size is 36-39 and your hip size is 32-35, then you should consider the XL size.

2) Is saree shapewear comfortable?

Yes, saree shapewear is more comfortable than petticoats. Unlike traditional petticoats that restrict movement, shapewear provides you more room to walk comfortably.

Fashion Forecast- Trendiest Prints of 2023

Binging Netflix for 8 hours straight, baking, cleaning, online meetings, online classes, rather I should say sleeping in online classes. These were the major 2021-2022 trends. Another thing that was in vogue was being in pajamas all the time. But it's finally 2023 and we have high hopes for 2023 to be a good year.

Talking about the new year, we are definitely going to go out a little more and for sure going to step out of our pajamas and get back to our fashion A-game. This year for the spring 2023 show, designers have focused a lot on prints. So, here we have a list of some printed fashion trends for the year.

#1 Floral Blur

We've heard about floral prints, 'floral blur' is something new for us. So, what is a floral blur? Floral blur prints are inspired by pictures of flowers and not flowers itself. The pictures are deliberately blurred using soft focus lenses or filters. This provides a unique edge to the classic floral prints fabric. This pattern is portrayed by using digital print and even embroidery.

#2 Tie and Dye

Tie-dye is suddenly all over YouTube, Instagram, SnapChat, and Facebook feeds, and it could because it's such an accessible trend. It is so easy, just some rubber band and/or strings are tied in some portions of cotton or muslin fabric and then put on the stove for dyeing. This print can be achieved easily on any fabric be it cotton, linen even organza fabric. Tie and dye look super cool on everything- clothes and accessories, because a splash of colors always lighten up the mood.

#3 Paradise

Designers have been seeking inspiration from nature since forever. And plant-related stuff always tops the list. Therefore, even in 2023, designers have continued their obsession for plants by taking huge leaves as their inspiration. Humongous leaves are printed creatively in the tints and tones of green or pink. Thought styling this trend can be tough, so here's a tip. Wear solid colors to accentuate the overall look.

#4 Abstract

Fashion now a day is all about experimenting and having fun. And these abstract prints are the perfect exemplar for this. Abstract lets designers use their imagination to their full potential and give freedom to promote their creativity to the fullest. No specific motif, or object, or impressions are used to create abstract prints. Just amalgamation of different shapes, colors, and gestures are used to achieve something artistic.

#5 Checks Pattern

Checks pattern when simplified is nothing but horizontal and vertical stripes intersecting to form a square-like pattern. Inspiration for checks pattern have been the board game of chess. Checks pattern/print used to hold a very low status, until Burberry introduced a checkered collection. It changed the people's perspective towards checkered pattern. This year too, this pattern is going to be one of the top trending prints which we are going to see on the streets but with bright and contrasting hues. Checks on checks will be on rage in 2023.

#6 Surreal Paisley

Paisley is an ornamental textile pattern using the boteh or buta, a tear-like pattern with a curved top end. This year stylized versions of paisley are used to give the user vintage yet modern vibes. Earthy tones are tremendously used in this collection. In India, paisley holds an honorable place as paisley motifs are used since ages. And now, a fresh breeze of creativity is flowing in 2023 which will change people's perspective towards paisley pattern.

Image Credit: fabcurate

#6 Twisted Geometry

Geometry is understandable, but understanding twisted geometry twists our mind, quite literally. Twisted geometric fashion is a step ahead of basic geometric fashion. It consists of shapes but in an unusual and in abstract manner creating an illusion for the viewer. Bright colors such as pink, blue, yellow, and green are the star of this collection. This print is going to be the most talked about because of its exceptional concept. Every fashion enthusiast is going to wear this print at least once this year and style it in the most unexceptional way.

Cocktail Attire for Women 2023 - Dos & Don'ts

Ladies, it's time to dial up the glam and step into the captivating world where fashion meets celebration – welcome to the world of cocktail attire for women. It's not just about the clinking glasses and effervescent laughter; it's about making a statement, embodying sophistication, and owning the spotlight.

In a world where nights out become unforgettable memories, your choice of cocktail attire is your ticket to the magic. The glow of city lights, the hum of music, and the air abuzz with anticipation set the stage for an ensemble that stands out, turns heads, and speaks volumes. In this blog post, we're your fashion compass navigating the maze of cocktail attire. So, whether you're a trendsetter or a classic connoisseur, get ready to make heads turn, hearts skip a beat, and your style becomes the life of the party.

Do's and Don'ts of a Cocktail Attire for 2023

1) Don't Reveal too Much

Keep in mind that cocktail attire must not be too revealing. Looking sexy is everyone's top priority but refrain from wearing anything inappropriate because it is a strict no-no for cocktail attire 2023. Instead of mini cocktail dresses, try out the fitted midi cocktail dresses. Avoid plunging necklines; choose scoop, V-shaped, off-shoulder, or straight across necklines that are flattering, sexy, and yet appropriate for all types of events. Here are some ideas for sexy cocktail dresses that you must check out.

2) Don't Go for Casual Fabrics

Casual fabrics like denim, spandex, or jersey aren't ideal for the cocktail dress 2023 code. Your cocktail outfit must look elegant and refined. Fabrics such as crepe, chiffon, satin, or lace are much better. Not only they are comfortable, but these are high-end fabrics that act out perfectly for any dress style.

3) Do Wear Heels and Avoid Wearing Sneakers

Your footwear is a crucial part of the entire attire. It completes your look perfectly. With cocktail dresses, only heels can go ideally. Whether you are comfortable with high-pointed heels or mid-wedge heels, it's up to you and your dress but avoid flip-flops, sneakers, or anything flat because they don't go well with the dress and are more of a mismatch. Remember that your aim is to look not too casual and not too formal but a flawless combination of both.

4) Do Carry a Clutch and Avoid an Oversized Bag

It is true that the purse of a woman has pretty much everything required for her to go through the night without any mishaps. From makeup to safety pins, band-aids to cash- we carry everything in our sling bags but if you're going to dress up according to the cocktail dress 2023 code, the oversized purse or sling bag has to be avoided as it does not look as classy as the overall attire. Instead, carry clutches. They are elegant just like the designer short or long cocktail dresses that you're going to put on for the party.

Image credit: Pinterest (women's cocktail attire 2023)

5) Avoid Floor-Kissing Ballgowns

Don't make a style blunder by choosing a floor-length ballgown, instead, save it for Weddings, Prom Nights, Gala, Red Carpet, and Black Tie Events. For a Cocktail Event 2023, you should consider a dress having a mini or midi length but be cautious of hemlines.

Image credit: Pinterest (cocktail fashion 2023)

6) Don't Go Over the Top With the Skirt

By that we mean not to wear poofy skirts with a big train as it is more on the fancy and gorgeous side. You are free to try out trendy cocktail gowns with a brush train or tea-length dresses that will make you look charming and graceful. Ideally, it is said that cocktail attires must be above the knee-length but a little improvisation is going to bring about a unique factor.

7) Do Accessorize in a Sophisticated Way

Without proper accessories, wearing your dream dress will only be half the job done. That's why it is important to put on the right fashion accessories that complement your dress and complete your attire. However, for 2023 cocktail attire, you have to keep it simple yet noticeable. For instance, there's no need to go multicolor but a contrasting effect looks rather classy.

Image credit: Pinterest (cocktail dress trends 2023)

Cocktail attire is not just about fashion; it's about confidence, elegance, and celebrating the moments that truly matter. As you step into the world of clinking glasses and vibrant conversations, let your outfit be the conversation starter, the memory maker, and the embodiment of your unique style.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

1) What should I not wear to a cocktail party?

For a cocktail party, you should avoid wearing a lot of statement accessories, instead wear 1 elegant accessory that stand out. You should not wear hair ties on your wrist, instead wear a cute bracelet that complements your outfit. You should also avoid wearing jeans or denim shorts, instead, you can go for sleek trousers. Lastly, you also should not wear a maxi dress for a cocktail party.

2) What to wear over a cocktail dress?

If you have to attend a wedding reception, an office party, or a gala and you're wondering what to wear over a cocktail dress, we'll recommend you some of the best options. You can pair it with a blazer, bomber jacket, fur wraps/faux fur wraps, vests, shrugs, trench coats, capes/shawl, bolero jackets, kimonos, etc., and slay any event.

3) What is a cocktail length dress?

The length of a cocktail dress depends upon the person. For a formal event, you can go for a length that varies from below the knee to just above the knee. However, for semi-formal events, you can choose a short cocktail dress having a length of somewhere around mid thigh. Complement your outfit with a pair of sexy heels and matching accessories and you're ready to rock.

Bright Hues Will Take Over Streets in 2023: Fashion Talk

The fashion spectrum around the world usually resonates with the glass-half-full philosophy. But when it comes to the spring collection for the New Year, every designer turns into a unicorn spewing glitters and rainbows across the ramps.

The spring collections are filled with bright hues and pretty colors that evoke a sense of hope and purpose in the lives of the people. Especially after a year as gloomy and restless as 2021, the designers had a lot of responsibility on their shoulders to sustain the hopes and joys of the fashion enthusiasts.

While everyone was left locked in their home, fearing from COVID-19, the world needed to see a lot of canary yellow and peachy pinks to get back on track and remain resilient in the coming weeks.

Why so bright? You may wonder...

The bright hues behind the spring collection of 2023 are not a result of Crayola-fest amongst fashion headquarters. Psychologists from the field of fashion have collectively stated that our relationship with colors has evolved at an unprecedented rate.

The era of post-modern subjectivity has helped color and clothing establish a strong connection that allows them both to break free of the monotony and limits of everyday life.

Darker colors, generally, elicit a somber mood and emotions that are hard to articulate. But on the other hand, bright and light colors evoke positive emotions that are necessary for the sustenance of joy and positive energy amongst the masses.

Some colors enhance moods, which is precisely what drives the emotions behind innovative ideas of the 2023 collections. Since styling one's aura is an essential step for the beginning of a new phase, the wardrobe and sartorial choices are an easy choice for each individual.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Pastel Yellow

Pastel and pale yellow are the colors of likability, happiness, and being jovial. It is a color that mitigates stress in any social situation. The color projects happiness and impacts the psyche of the wearer and those wearing it. This is one of the reasons why the dazzling spring collections of Jil Sander, Ferragamo, and Peter Do featured some of the prettiest pieces in color.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Image Credit: Pinterest

Lovely Lavenders

The next most significant trend was a large number of lavender numbers in the season. Purple is the color of royalty, opulence, and regality. The use of purple also carries a secretive meaning that points towards the psychological impact of the color.

The entire world has been stuck in limbo after a terrible year of loss and grief. The color purple and precisely the shade of lavender have a calming effect on every audience. It is a color that reminds one of simpler times and remnants of glory that must be reignited. The collections of Baum, Valentino, and Pferdgarten are a testament to the fact!

Image Credit: Pinterest

Rebellious Red

The spring collection of 2023 featured a couple of cherry red pieces. While the fall of 2021 was the showcase for monochromatic reds, the spring of 2023 had a romantic blaze to it. Legendary design powerhouses like Givenchy and Chanel, Fendi, and Hermes chose to indulge in the color of confidence, rebellion, and fiery love.

The shade can be paired with pale pink to get a casual look for the streets, or you can casually tone it down with the help of a plus-size leather jacket. You can incorporate this dress through makeup, accessories, and even complete costumes in the spicy color of rebellion.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Trendy Turquoise

Turquoise makes an excellent choice for aesthetic pleasure and ruffled sleeves. It carries hippie energy, which flows naturally, connecting everyone to the one omniscient energy of the universe.

The color was thoroughly exhibited in the collection of Ulla Johnson, and it also enjoyed a spot of fame and glory in the books of Louis Vuitton and Christopher John Rogers. While the former was focused on the feelings of nature and healing, the latter reminded the world of the new boundaries that need to be established in the name of social distancing. Turquoise is an undertone of serenity and soothing energies. It is expected to go big this year for sure!

Image Credit: Pinterest

Tropical Tangerine

Orange is the color of creativity and independence. It is a surprise addition to the collections of Mara Hoffman and Maryam Nassir Zadeh, but it was indeed necessary to set the mood straight for the following year.

While most people worry about caution and comfort while trying something new, the exact color of tangerine is a test of one's fearlessness and audacity in the face of uncertainty. It is a powerful color that must be embraced for its liveliness and vitality. It is a color that evokes a sense of purpose and must be used with reckless abandon to bring everything back to life.

Generous Greens

Green is the color of rebirth, hope, and fertility. The fresh and vibrant shades of green tend to be the epitome of these feelings. The color is often considered as the flagbearer of optimism and hope, which is why the 2023 collections endorsed it with such vigor.

From Victoria Beckham to Michael Kors, everyone chose to assign a significant portion of their collection to the color and subconscious meanings of growth, expansion, focus, ambition, and determination.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Peachy Pinks

Last but not least is pink. It is a typically feminine shade that is arguably outdated and traditional in the spring collection. Psychologically the color breaks norms and is a bold choice for making a statement. Cecilie Bahnsen and Stella McCartney have used the variant shades of pink in a brilliant method to show the world how the power of peachy pinks and majestic magenta can be embraced.

Final Thoughts

The bright hues of 2023 are like a promise of rebirth and vitality. The spring collections have reiterated a new sense of hope and joy that has worked well in sparking hope amongst the dejected audiences worldwide. Let's hope that these promises are fulfilled, and this world restores its health!

10 Celebrity Inspired Gym Looks in 2023 to Pull Off

If you are regularly hitting the gym, you are probably sticking to the classic - simple leggings and an oversized t-shirt. Well, it's just one combination you could try out - why not spice it up a bit and motivate yourself with cool gym outfits inspired by celebrities?

Some celebrities are as creative in picking out gym clothing as any other outfit. You should do the same - stay stylish and original even when you're breaking a sweat in the gym. Don't think you couldn't pull off the same outfit as Kendall Jenner or Bella Hadid - try it and see for yourself how a great gym outfit could make you work out even harder. And let's not forget what else celebrities are introducing to the world - they are wearing gym wear as daywear.

In other words, crop tops, leggings, trainers, hoodies - they all don't get to shine just at the gym or on the way to the gym. Celebrities are now wearing them any time of the day and many times they don't have their workout planned.

Comfortable fashion is making its way again in 2023 but this time it doesn't have to exclude style and even luxury.

1. Black and tight

Black elegance works for every occasion - jogging included. To copy Bella Hadid jogging through the streets of New York, get a black sports bra, black leggings, and a cropped black sweatshirt, and then complete this sporty and elegant look with a black baseball cap and stunning white sneakers. Fabulous and powerful!

Image Credit: Pinterest

2. Show your legs

Sometimes it's fun to switch it a bit - instead of leggings, why not show off your toned legs in printed running shorts and sneakers while covering your arms with a simple grey long-sleeved hoodie? It's comfy and cool at the same time.

Image Credit: Pinterest

3. Denim jacket forever

Street style scene cannot go wrong without an oversized denim jacket, and that goes for the gym outfit as well. Simple leggings and a T-shirt completed with an oversized denim jacket and a pair of cat-eye sunglasses are the ultimate cool and stylish gym wear.

Image Credit: Pinterest

4. Muted colors

Sometimes it's mostly about the color palette you chose for your gym outfit. You can keep it cool with minimal cut pieces and muted colors - just combine a plain sports bra and leggings and cover your shoulders with an oversized shearling hoodie (in some grayed shade as well) to boost the effect.

Image Credit: Pinterest

5. Back to the 90s

The 90s have their bright moments, and Bella Hadid enjoys reminding us of all of them. Just like her, you can go back to the 90s just for a while by wearing colorful track pants that look as they have just arrived from the 90s shop window and matching them with chunky sneakers. Make sure the top is tight and simple so that you don't look like a bad copy of the 90s style.

Image Credit: Pinterest

6. Enjoy the pink

Bright pink is one of the best colors you can opt for when you want to get noticed and feel feminine - the same goes for your gym outfit.

You don't have to go overboard with pink but instead, add pink details to your black outfit. Your black leggings and jacket can go to a whole new level of cool if you add pink trainers to the combination, along with a bright pink T-shirt and a patterned pink beanie. These instances of pink are what make this outfit unique.

Image Credit: Pinterest

7. Layers, layers

Layers look cool if you combine them smartly. Supermodel Gigi Hadid knows how to do it, so you can simply copy one of her great gym outfits:

Wear a cropped sweatshirt over the sports bra (of course, the sports bra have to show at least a bit), and then add more layers to it - wear a cropped jacket over it and tie a sweatshirt around your waist - just for the looks of it, of course.

You can always tie a sweatshirt around your waist as an additional layer when you are wearing a leather jacket over a T-shirt, as well.

Image Credit: Pinterest

8. Cool cycling outfit

Windbreakers are an excellent piece of clothing if you love jogging outside or cycling no matter the weather. You need your upper body to be well-protected, especially if it's raining.

So try out this stylish option - wear a retro-inspired windbreaker in a bright hue like orange or yellow and tone it down with black leggings or cycling shorts. Complete your look by choosing from the best women's bikes that look powerful and come in a strong hue - you will definitely get noticed while cycling along the streets or the park.

9. Monochromatic coolness

Black and white never cease to awe, so try it out by combining a black crop top with white-hot leggings. This monochromatic look is then accented more with a black-and-white printed jacket, black sneakers that go great with a black tote. And of course, finish it magnificently with black round sunglasses.

10. Lady-like details

Anne Hathway is great at adding elegance to everything, so she was equally successful at it by combining an oversize soft gray sweater and navy blue sunglasses with navy blue leggings. You can wear black sneakers with that and add an oversized leather bag to create a unique mix of sporty and elegant.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

1) Why should you wear a sports bra when working out?

When doing an intense physical exercise, your breasts bounce up and down and if you don't wear a sports bra while exercising or running, it may cause stretch and tear of ligaments surrounding the breast region resulting in soreness, pain, and sagging. Sports bras are designed to reduce the movement of your breast when working out. It is important every woman should wear it no matter what size she has.

What to Wear with Men's Sandals (Style Guide 2023)

No matter what the occasion, you should choose the right footwear as it can make or break an outfit. Men's sandals are the new wardrobe essentials because of their versatility, functionality, comfort, and style. They provide the comfort of slippers and the elegance of shoes. You can wear them with a wide range of outfits on various occasions. They are made of suede, leather, and canvas. You can find sandals for men in fashionable styles and attractive colors.

Origin

Men's sandals are often called mandals. Although they have been in existence since ancient times, they gained popularity during the 19th century. Both men's and women's sandals used to have a protective sole and a strap. It was not easy earlier to distinguish between men's and women's sandals.

With the evolution of fashion, designers started creating a wide range of designs in sandals for both men and women. Earlier, sandals were preferred only for holidays and leisurely walks. Recently, there has been a new Renaissance of men's sandals. The footwear is now preferred for all occasions. In the present day, you can find formal and casual sandals for men in various designs.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Types of Men's Sandals

You can broadly categorize sandals for men into two types: formal and casual.

The formal sandals are ideal for office, formal parties, and business events. Instead of formal shoes that can feel uncomfortable at times, you can opt for an elegant pair of formal sandals.

Especially in the monsoon season, they can be your savior when you are going to work.

Casual sandals are stylish, sturdy, and airy. If you love spending time outdoors, you must have a couple of them in your wardrobe. You can team them with your favorite casual outfits to look stylish and feel comfortable.

When you are going out for a vacation, you can carry a pair of cool casual sandals for sightseeing. The comfortable footwear will protect you from painful blisters. Although sneakers are great for traveling, you might want breathable footwear, especially when you are in a tropical country.

Image Credit: Pinterest

As open-toed sandals are available in various styles, you should choose them according to your style. If you are a courageous person, you can choose slider or hiking-style sandals for a great adventure. Birkenstock sandals are ideal for people who are looking for maximum comfort. If you are looking for a pair of designer and high street shoes, you can always go for a pair of black leather sandals.

Style Guide for Men's Sandals

Men's sandals are in vogue because you can wear them with everything that you own in your wardrobe. You must know how to style this comfortable and fashionable footwear with the right outfit. A wrong choice of footwear can spoil your entire look. The following style guide will help you look stylish and feel comfortable and stay stress-free from the hassle of what to wear with men's sandals.

1) Earlier, the idea of traditional formal wear with sandals never existed. With changing fashion trends, men have started prioritizing their comfort along with style. The first rule to wear men's sandals with formal wear is to avoid socks. Opt for a pair of classic black or navy blue sandals that do not have any pattern or logo. Team it with dark trousers that match the color of your footwear. Wear a white collar shirt and a neutral blazer to make a great style statement.

2) During summer, you can try the combination of graphic T-shirts and chinos with casual sandals. Birkenstock sandals in grey, black, or earthy shades will be a great choice when you are sporting the street smart casual look.

3) Men's leather sandals and jeans are a classic combination. If you are wondering how to wear sandals with jeans, we suggest you opt for slim fit light wash jeans with the laid-back footwear instead of dark ripped skinny jeans.

4) Ethnic sandals for men are perfect for ethnic occasions such as festivals and weddings. Team a pair of brown ethnic sandals with a yellow Kurta and white pajamas to look dapper.

5) When you are attending an office event, you can wear wide-legged trousers and a striped shirt with a pair of strapped leather men's sandals. Although it is not a traditional office look, the footwear will make it a smart semi-formal look. Opt for brown or black leather when you are choosing your footwear.

Image Credit: Pinterest

6) Men's sandals and shorts are a classy, laid-back style. A well-fitted T-shirt with denim shorts will look great with sandals in vibrant colors. Instead of black, brown, and navy, opt for maroon and orange for a fun look.

7) You can opt for a pair of crocs casual sandals when you are going for a weekend getaway. If you have to explore a new place walking, you must carry comfortable and functional footwear that will provide comfort to your feet.

Tips For Wearing Men's Sandals

Now that you know how to style sandals for men, you should know a few essential tips.

1) Take good care of your feet. Sandals will not look good on you if your feet look unhealthy. Soak your feet in a bucket of water, clean your nails, and apply a moisturizer to keep your feet healthy.

2) If you are confused regarding buying the right sandals, opt for black leather ones. They will work in both casual and semi-formal occasions.

3) If you are wearing denim jeans or trousers with sandals, roll them up gently by one fold.

If you follow the style guide and the tips, you will stay fashion-forward always. The fashionable casual and formal men's sandals are the new wardrobe staple. Visit Mochi Shoes right away and browse through the exquisite collection of stylish men's sandals for every occasion.

What to Wear with Palazzo Pants in 2023

The best thing about spring and summer is that you are free to conduct new experiments with your clothing and style. Perhaps we should all admit that our summer collection is much more comprehensive than our winter one. Who doesn't love those casual summer dresses, trendy shorts, spaghetti tops, and pyjamas? While talking about summer clothes, we surely cannot leave behind Palazzos. Palazzo or wide-leg pants first became a popular style in the 1960s and were primarily admired by women fond of avant-garde fashion.

'Women can do anything a man can do but women can do it in heels.'

True that! Women can do anything they want and everything at the same time, miraculously in high heels as well.

High heels, stilettos have always attracted women and everyone's attention. It has always been around the corner. High heels to be precise have existed since 350 b.c. It has been the symbol of power and authority. Uplifting beauty and making a statement is the basic role of heels.

You don't need a reason to wear heels. You can wear it on a regular day if you got your hands on the right fit. 80% of women love to wear heels on every occasion. With all the actors, celebrities, and queens wearing heels have made heels a priority item one must-have in your closet. You too want to join the high heels club but stuck with how to choose the right fit? We are here to help you find the best.

Know Your Preferences Before You Buy Heels

A Suitable Height

You are your own Cinderella. Explore the right fit and height if you have not worn heels before. If you are wearing it in your office, party, and even consider the roles you play daily. If you are a mother: the epitome of strength considers buying accordingly and choose the right sole mate. The higher the heel the more it will hurt your feet sore if you are not used to it. It is important to check your preference for the environment you will head towards.

The Right Fit

Not wore heels before? Don't buy online at the first go. Stay calm and explore offline. Walk into the store, get your feet measured, and explore all the options. See which shoes you are comfortable with.

Avoid loose-fitting heels. Wearing heels, not of your size and fit can cause your muscle problems. Use insole if you are wearing a slightly free pair. Make sure your feet can breathe or you will hurt your heels and toes and end up soaking it in warm water for relief. Better to be sure before than sorry!

Take a Walk

An obvious thing. You won't sit wearing your heels. When buying heels do not hesitate to take a walk as much as you want, so you know if it's comfortable for the long run.

The Thumb Fits and Heel Cup

Wearing heels for an hour and getting bruises for the next two days is certainly not your plan. A check on the close heels gives a narrow space for your heels and hence it is important to check if it lets your toes breathe.

The heel cup allows your shoes to stay in shape. It adds stiffness but also discomforts to your heels. Ensure the sole that is soft as the leather and flexible, and worth the money and time you are investing.

Height and Heels!

The height of the heels plays a vital role in giving you comfort. You can't find support wearing heels, that are clumsy and embarrassing. Give yourself a chance and slip into the right height which should be above average. Size of the heels if is your concern? Come dig in along with us.

The two-inch game.

Feels like flat. But this size should be your choice only if you have never, never wore heels and are opting for kitten heels tapered cone heels, stacked heels. It must go with your heavy responsibility and surely make you move towards higher heels.

Image Credit: Pinterest

The three-inch game

This is a classic height suggested by many. Prism heels, wedges, platforms, and pumps are available in this height. It will not make your feet sore or uncomfortable.

Image Credit: Pinterest

The four-inch game

Party? Cocktail party? Business meeting? Brunch? Date night? The answer is four-inch heels. Few hours in these are okay if you are not a professional. If you are still considering wearing it occasionally. Platforms, wedges, and stilettos are meant to be worn in four-inch for that extra height and gaze.

These are worn by professionals. It can be discomfoting and leave your feet sore. If you opt for wedges, platform, or block heels it might be easier to walk in.

Selecting the Right Height Heels (Guide)

Wedges Heels

A shoe that has no separated heels. It is easier to walk in and give your feet the total support. It has a strap to hold your heel tight. It is a great alternative in comparison to those pointed heels you are not comfortable with or might not fit the occasion.

Wedges though are a bit showy footwear which looks hunky with denim and skirt if the height of the heel is high. Prefer to wear these with maxi skirts, long dresses, and saree. A perfect fit for casual wear.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Platform Heels

Shoes, boots, or sandals with a thick sole. These daring and extremely stylish heels add a slimming effect to your legs. If you are looking for a mixture of flats comfort and stiletto heels, add these.

It is a perfect fit for a cocktail party, office wear, casual. The platform boots are irresistible, it effortlessly uplifts your elegance and adds boldness. Wear these with ripped jeans, skirts, maxi dresses. It never fails to impress and suits all body types.

High Heel Sandals

Money can't buy happiness but surely add to your power. High heel is an ultimate remark of your personality. It can make you want it but resist looking at the design imagining the discomfort you might get after a few hours. The high heels are not that discomforting if you are dressing up for a party, or corporate meetings.

Thin girls can wear these with a long skirt, midway skirt, and ankle-length pants. Might not work that good for curvy girls. Remember that these high heels are a complete package of its own, so don't wear these with dresses that are already revealing these sandals way too much, might be a fashion fail.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Pumps

Comfort and flexibility come in a package called- Pumps. The heels have got the height and toe area at the ground creating an illusion of long height.

If you are curvy buy the chunky pumps and in height up to 3 to 4 inches. Slim girls can go for basic colors and suiting their height preferences. This is the most preferred heels if can't find anything comfortable with your dream of slipping into high heels.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Kitten Heels

You can easily make out if this is your style or not. Associated with Audrey Hepburn. You know it well if not flats then these heels are going with your great height. Symbolizing feminine, delicate, and elegance at the same time. These heels are preferred by most of the working women. The closed toes and semi backless design will surely catch your attention. Wear it with the best dress and you are good to go. Heels height is available and that will not be an issue.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Stiletto Heels

Image already created, haven't you? Stilettos what we imagine as we hear high heels. But now you how these are different. Stilettos are the most desired pair of heels by any women you will come across, one is reading now see!

Closed-toes pumps with great height is the automatic key to your confidence and beauty. It defines your elegance. Mostly owned and preferred by businesswomen, celebs. Business meeting, cocktail party, brunch with friends, and family functions you can take this along everywhere.

A show stopper and dapper collection uplifting any outfit for each body type if you how to carry the heels and your dress along.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Block Heel

Chunky and separated heels. Supporting and everyday wear heels on your list. It helps you distribute weight and thus you don't freak out with discomfort even if wearing it for the whole day.

Easier to wear suits all dress other than business casual. For all body type. The height in this will never be a problem.

Image Credit: Pinterest

Conclusion

There you have it, everything sorted from heels to height and when to wear. Wearing heels is an occasion to celebrate and no men can resonate with that eternal happiness it brings along. Why wait? Explore the options be the queen the secret is right there in the heels.

Selecting shoes sounds troublesome but being sure of the quality, dimensions, and comfort is never that tough. Collect as much as possible because how can you live the high life if you do not wear High Heels?

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

1) How painful is a rib tattoo?

The rib cage is one of the most painful areas of your body to get inked or tattooed. The reason being is the skin around the ribs is very delicate and thin, also, the fat in this body part is comparatively less, that's why it hurts most.

2) What are the most painful and least painful parts of the body to get a tattoo?

The most painful areas of the body to get inked or tattooed are the Armpits, Rib cage, Nipples and breasts, Groin, Elbows or kneecap, Hips, Neck and spine, face, and ears, and Lips. The least painful parts of the body to get a tattoo are Forearm, Outer shoulders, Upper and lower back, Outer bicep, etc.

3) Can I wear a bra after getting a tattoo on my rib cage?

Yes, you can definitely wear a bra after getting inked but we recommend you to wear it after 24-36 hours and make sure it is not too tight. If possible, free the nipples for a day or two.

Pillow Challenge – Have You Tried This Quarantine Look Yet?

When stay-at-home orders first entered into force, the initial days were spent in apprehending about the future and contemplating the next few phases of uncertainty.

But let's face the truth, this lockdown has provided us with the much-needed break from the daily humdrum (especially for those, like me, who are fastened to a demanding corporate job!). With the absence of domestic help, doing the household chores has become inevitable. While some people are finding this never-ending lockdown exhausting, but for others, stay-at-home has certainly turned them to a trendsetter!

Ok. So, you've cleaned all your closets, mastered the art of making Dalgona coffee and banana bread, tried the various TikTok workout and dance challenges and there's nothing more to do. What's next? Wear a pillow as a dress! The Pillow Challenge is the new fashion trend that is creating waves on social media. The question is, should you choose to accept it? Well, you should because thousands of people are trying this out and trust me, this is way more fun! But first, let's explore what is this latest fashion trend all about and how it came into play. Ready? Let's dive in!

The Pillow Challenge – What is It?

Are you poor in gardening, singing or dancing? Is cooking or other domestic skills not your cup of tea? Don't worry! You've got something new to try your hands at! It is called the #PillowChallenge where you don't need to knead, cook or sew. Just strip yourself naked, wear a pillow as a dress, accessorize (if you want) and look hot.

A 'challenge' that has no rhyme or reason, it is just pure fun that is worth a try when you are stuck at home. This easiest yet unique quarantine fashion trend was first started by @stylebynelli and @myforteisfashion in April on Instagram and since then, there has been no looking back! It is now popular on the internet under the hashtags #pillowchallenge, #pillowdresschallenge and so on.

Fashion has been a domain of experimentation for many years but till date, #pillow challenge has been an unparalleled one. So, how do you exactly do this challenge? All you need to do is take up your favorite big pillow, clinch it around your waist with the most stylish belt that you have. It was only a matter of a few days before this trend became viral. And would you believe it? Both the hashtags have earned over 343k posts so far. From Halle Berry to Anne Hathaway, many Hollywood celebrities have nailed the look by trading their clothes.

About the Trendsetters of This Challenge

As mentioned earlier, @stylebynelli and @myforteisfashion hit the popularity button from the moment they started the trend of turning a pillow as a dress. Both of them had posted pictures of themselves wearing pastel blue and pink pillows respectively. They had secured the pillows with a fashionable belt and adorned their look further. Then they encouraged their friends and followers to try the challenge and post a picture of themselves. But when it comes to a fashion trend, there is always a scope for innovation. Many international fashion influencers, as well as Indian celebrities, have gone a step ahead in recreating a sassy look by using luxury brands.

National Popularity of #PillowChallenge

Till now, many of us were thinking that staying at home is so boring until recently some of the phenomenal trends came into light, #pillowchallenge for instance. But are you thinking that the 'pillow challenge' is a fad meant for the international celebs or social media family only? You're quite mistaken there! Our desi buffs have also joined the quirky fashion bandwagon and are loving the idea of posing with a pillow on their bare body.

So, who are our favorite Indian celebs who have put on the new lockdown outfit?

- Payal Rajput – The Tamil actress took up the pillow challenge, wearing a yellow pillow dress and looked stunning.
- Neha Kakkar – The popular singer of many Bollywood movies is also well-known for trying out the latest fashion trends. On TikTok, she posted a video wearing not one but a total of 3 pillow dresses - white, green, and floral printed. Oh! And in one of her pillow dress looks, she sports a bit of Indianness too!
- Tamannah Bhatia – The actress shared a picture wearing a white pillow dress and accessorized it with a Gucci belt. "I'm off to club bed featuring DJ pillow and MC blanket!" - her Instagram page said.

My Take on the Challenge

Being in lockdown for more than two months, I was completely bored too. Besides doing the regular Work from Home and household chores, deep down in my heart, I was thinking of trying something new (fashion-wise, of course!). And then, there was this 'pillow challenge', which I wanted to give it a shot but was reluctant at the same time.

Finally, one weekend, I decided to try the trend. At first, I wasn't sure how I would look wearing a pillow and whether I'll be laughed at by my friends. Nevertheless, I put aside all my assumptions and strapped my favorite pink floral pillow around my waist with a black belt. I accessorized my look by wearing heels, a pair of shades, and a dash of my best-loved Maybelline hot pink lipstick. Till now, everything was fine. The real struggle came when I had to click a picture. To do this, I had set up my phone on a shelf in my room and turned on the 15-second timer.

Altogether, it took me around 20 minutes and 10 photos before I was finally satisfied with a decent pillow dress image. I also attempted to click a few pictures with other accessories like a book and a wine glass but well, my effort was wasted because pictures without these were far better!

Conclusion

Who said lockdown is meant for doing Work from Home and monotonous domestic chores?

This is the time to unleash your spirit of creativity and explore the unexplored. Staying at home is a challenge not until you are aware of the various social media challenges and sport the trend in your own way. So, my dear readers, recreate your own version of this quarantine look and stay in trend fashionably!

Why Wear Cotton Silk Saree to Work in 2023 (7 Reasons)

Indian women look their best when they dress up in sarees. It is one of the most graceful garments that has been incorporated by many countries across the world. The trick to draping the perfect saree lies in choosing the right material. While some sarees are incredibly easy to drape, others can be tricky and a lot of hassle, especially silk sarees that look unsightly and bulky if they are not draped properly.

While most women prefer to wear silk sarees on special occasions, you must consider wearing pure silk cotton sarees to work in 2023. You know why? This article will answer that question for you! So read on to know more.

7 Reasons Why You Should Choose Pure Silk Cotton Sarees for Office Wear

#1 Look graceful and be comfortable all day long

An office is a place you are not only required to dress presentably but also look professional. At the same time, you must also feel comfortable so that you work all day with complete focus. Cotton silk sarees have a certain grace that makes you look sharp in an office environment. They are also breezy and light that keeps you comfortable all day long.

#2 Makes you look unique

Over the years, many women have moved to western office wear. However, if you still dress in the traditional style, it will not only make your style unique but also help you stand out from the crowd. This is one of the best ways to be recognized for your unique sense of style. You would have to agree that a saree can be a great conversation breaker and a head-turner. It is a great idea to break the boring western formal pattern and choose pure cotton silk sarees to dress in a different way.

Image Credit: Pinterest

#3 It is a comfortable fabric

On a hot and humid day, cotton can be a very useful fabric as it is light and breezy. It is soft on your skin and has a natural ability to control body temperatures that keep you cool all day long. So prefer wearing formal cotton silk sarees to work on those days when the mercury is rising at a manic pace! You can wear your slim-fit pants and skirts on any other day of the week. In fact, if you use the right draping procedure, it will keep you ventilated throughout the day.

#4 Different looks with the same saree

If you want to add variety to your look, you can play around with multiple styles by simply changing the blouse designs. They are readily available online or you can pick the ready-made styles from a boutique at a reasonable price. In addition to that, you can also easily find low-cost office wear cotton sarees online that will make your wardrobe colorful without spending too much money. The best thing? You don't have to worry about the fitting too! Drape it the way you want to get the desired look.

#5 No need to go for a fitting

During the course of our career, our body changes shape multiple times. Sometimes you gain weight, other times you lose weight. If you are someone who has a lot of western wear, you would either have to run to the seamstress to get them fitted or buy a new collection of clothes to fit your body. However, with sarees, you don't have to worry about fitting. Just choose flattering colors to complement your skin tone and drape the saree properly to get an illusion of a lean silhouette.

#6 Follow your own tradition

Sarees are deeply rooted in Indian culture and wearing it for your office use is a good way to keep that tradition alive. You may also end up inspiring the younger generation to dress up in traditional Indian attire. Besides, well-kept good quality trendy office wear sarees can also be passed on to your daughters as an heirloom.

Image Credit: Pinterest

#7 They are easily available online

Thanks to the growing popularity of sarees and their acceptance at the workplace, they have now become easily available across all major online stores. You can simply choose the colors and styles you want and get them shipped at your doorstep. This is the best and the most convenient way to upgrade your wardrobe without ever leaving your house!

Women who love dressing in traditional Indian clothing, albeit with a modern twist, can try different ways to wear pure cotton sarees for office wear. They are incredibly versatile and can be worn in multiple ways as per your own style statement. You can pair them with shirts, leather jackets, belts, and even pants to create your own unique look.

Now that you know the benefits of wearing pure silk cotton sarees to the workplace, it is time to redo your collection and introduce a little culture into your wardrobe. Start with cotton silk sarees!

These lightweight and airy fabrics will keep you cool and comfortable during the scorching summer days.

8 Fashion Accessories to Wear With Kurtis (2023)

Never underestimate the power of accessories! Like the garnish that adds appeal to a delicious dish, accessories can instantly enhance your overall outfit. The right accessories can even transform a basic outfit into a statement attire. Let us find out the best fashion accessories to wear with your latest styles of kurti and look fantastic from head to toe.

1) Silver Danglers

Whether it is Chandbalis, chandelier earrings, mirror earrings, or Afghan earrings, your jewelry collection is incomplete without stunning silver danglers. Silver complements any outfit and adds a dressy touch to it. Also, big silver earrings are statement accessories that can enhance even simple outfits.

When choosing silver danglers, pay attention to details like the size and weight of the earring. Also, make sure that the shape and structure flatter your facial features.

How to Look Glamorous Everyday in 2023 - Tips for Busy Women

2023 is your year to shine with unwavering glamour, and being a busy woman is no longer an excuse to dim your shine. Busy women of today are no longer defined by their packed schedules; instead, they're defined by the unapologetic elegance they exude.

Welcome to a style journey tailored for the modern-day go-getter, the woman who thrives on juggling responsibilities and conquering challenges. This isn't just about makeup tricks and outfit ensembles; it's about embracing an attitude that radiates confidence, sophistication, and a dash of audacious charm. In this guide, we'll educate you on how to look glamorous everyday on a budget. From effortless hacks to strategic style choices, we'll transform your routine into a ritual of empowerment. So, get ready to conquer 2023 with a sparkle that's uniquely yours – because the world deserves to witness your glamorous glow, day in and day out.

Step 1: Focus on Your Signature Colors (Dress to Impress)

The most important thing to do is find out what colors do you favors and which ones do not. Being sure of your own signature color is one of the top priority tasks for you right now. Since you do not have plenty of time to worry about what you are going to wear, it will be best to at least know what colors you want to go with. Is it black, white, grey, or perhaps something else?

Playing with the three grayscale colors will make sure that matching your outfit is quite easy. Matching white, black, or grey with another color is not only very advisable and nice, but it is also quite easy and time-saving.

Image Credit: Pinterest (how to be glam)

Step 2: Pay Attention to Your Hair

Your glam style depends on 4 different factors. The outfit that you are going to wear (which is very important to be according to either the new elegant trends or going back to the classics such as the little black dress, LBD), the makeup, the attitude (as you cannot be elegant if you do not behave in such a way), and your hairstyle.

Yes, hair is indeed quite important, and this is why you have to pay attention to it. The safest option is washed hair that looks quite fresh, but sometimes you cannot afford to wash your hair on a daily basis. This is why you can turn to options such as dry shampoo or opting for an interesting braid or a nice ponytail. Ponytails and high tails are very popular at the moment and they definitely bring that elegant effect. If you prefer buns, though, you can go with one as well - Audrey Hepburn vibes.

Step 3: Put Your Best Foot Forward With a Pair of Sexy Heels

Women can do anything a man can do and that too in heels. Stock up your wardrobe with some sassy stilettos, pumps, wedges, block heels, and platform heels. When buying a pair of heels, you should consider this ultimate guide to put your best foot forward and grab the attention of onlookers.

Step 4: Invest in Quality Makeup Products (Not Expensive)

Next up, let us talk about your makeup. Yes, your clothes are the biggest percentage of your glam style, but you won't be a glamorous woman without good makeup. And since you want to come off as a successful yet elegant lady, you need to wear your glamour everyday and for the same, you have to invest in high-quality makeup. Not because expensive things matter, but because you want to show the world that you really pay attention to the way you look.

Apart from that, there are high-quality makeup products that are not very expensive, so you can go with them. Remember that glamour and elegance is also about buying things that are actually good, and not only popular. So, investing in a good lipstick, for example, will show, and it is so much better than buying a cheap one and not looking your best.

Step 5: Save Time by Shopping Online

Saving time is actually the key to dressing up nicely when you are a busy woman. But, if you are wondering how to look more glamorous on a budget and save time? Here is the answer. Apart from choosing your colors and having a couple of colors that you can play around with, or having colors that are complementary, you can also save a lot of time shopping from online stores.

Sitting in the comfort of your own home, looking for fashionable women's clothing online, and shopping from your armchair will definitely save you time in going to the store, shopping, and trying things on. This way, if you know your size, you simply buy the things that you like and try them on once they arrive. If they do not fit you, you can always return them and ask for a different size. You might not be getting the goods that exact day, but at least it will save you time going out of the house and shopping.

Step 6: Take a Balanced Diet

To glow inside and out, we strongly recommend you to take the right amount of proteins, vitamins, carbs, minerals, fats, and fiber in your diet regularly because you are what you eat. In fact, many skincare experts suggest having plenty of fruits and veggies. Always remember that eating right will keep your skin soft, lustrous, and supple.

As the curtains draw on this glamorous journey through 2023, remember this: you, the busy woman who fearlessly tackles the world, possess the magic to turn every day into a masterpiece of elegance. Your calendar may be packed, but your spirit is boundless. So, as you stride through the chapters of 2023, remember that your story is not just told in words but also in the way you present yourself to the world. Let your aura be the envy of time itself, and may your journey be etched with the ink of everyday glamour. Stand tall, embrace the spotlight, and make every day mirror the starlit nights of your dreams.

With homecoming season just around the corner, no wonder young ladies around you are looking to doll up. While it's alright for some to follow the lead of celebrities like the Kardashian sisters, picking your own style according to your body type and preference will make you stand apart in any crowd. 2023 Homecoming dress trends might be influenced by celebrities but you don't have to spend big money to achieve that look. There are plenty of fashion sites online that offer gorgeous dresses at a reasonable price. Here are 5 style tips for homecoming 2023 to help you impress those around you without breaking your bank.

1. Be Confident

It's quite common that we love a dress on a celebrity but when a friend, cousin, or even ourselves try a similar dress, it simply fails to be impressive. The trick to carrying a dress that is bold and striking is to be confident and comfortable in your own skin. Whether you are planning to wear a daring open-back party dress or a sexy deep v-neck dress, it's your self-confidence that will make you appear effortlessly chic. For instance, sequin bodycon mini dresses or embroidered lace short dresses are breathtaking but only when you wear them fearlessly with confidence.

2. Put Your Best Foot Forward

Instead of blindly following the lead of your favorite celebrity, take a closer and unprejudiced look at yourself. You could also ask a close girlfriend, sister, or cousin to help you to decide your best feature that you would like to show off. Is it your smooth and silky back or your shapely legs? Is it your well-sculpted shoulders or your cleavage? Once you know your strength, choosing a suitable designer attire becomes easy. The bead-embellished off-shoulder dresses or strapless floral lace applique tulle cocktail dress can be good options for the bold and the beautiful who do not hesitate to flaunt those sexy shoulders in a seductive off-the-shoulder dress.

3. Smile is Your Best Accessory

While you are busy checking out various homecoming outfit ideas, please remember that more than a dress or makeup it's the smile on your face that counts. Are you conscious of stains on your teeth and avoid smiling? Any money you spend on teeth whitening will be worth it. I wouldn't worry so much about crooked teeth or the gap between front teeth if I were you. They lend character to a smile. Unless you are going Bundy's way and leave bite marks on someone for police to discover, smile away. It only makes you more charming.

4. Choice of Colors

Along with styling, colors are an important factor for selecting the Homecoming Dresses 2023. Not only your complexion and hair color but also the persona you want to project is important. You might also want to check out the colors trending this season. Galaxy Blue, Guacamole, Chili Pepper, Dark Cheddar, and Paloma are some of the colors of the season that you might like to try out. Black is the ultimate sophistication and red is the new black. But nudes and light pinks are innocent and alluring at the same time. Make sure the color you choose for your homecoming dress works to your best advantage.

5. Budget for Designer Dresses

Let's admit most of us do not have the bank balance of either Paris Hilton or the Kardashian sisters even though we love to dress up like them. Thank heavens we don't have to take out a second mortgage on our soul to buy designer HOCO attire 2023. There are plenty of designers who design awesome stuff and their clothes are available online at a reasonable rate. Not only we can check out various styles and designs from the comfort of our home, but we can also do it whenever we have time. We can even show them to our friends and ask for their opinion. Moreover, the same dress is available in different colors which only makes our life easy. Most importantly, let me reiterate, these designer dresses are within a workable budget.

6. Use Accessories and Makeup Wisely

With the dress out of the way, let's focus on trimmings and make-up because even the best attire is often ruined by improper trappings. When in doubt, less is more. Don't let your personality be dominated by loud make-up or hoards of jewelry. One statement piece is enough whether it's a ring, a clutch, or a neckpiece.

With these styling tips, you will not only grab a lot of eyeballs but also remind your friends why they always looked up to you when it came to style and the latest fashion.

What are Western dresses? Latest Trends to Follow

With the advent of social media, it's getting easier and easier for Indian women to keep themselves updated with the latest fashion trends in fashion and choose the type of dresses they like to wear. Whether it is following the new and popular fashion trend influencers on Instagram, or checking out their favorite celebrity's designer outfits, staying on top of the fashion game has never been easier! Every outing is an occasion for a new snap-on Snapchat, a new display picture or an interesting social media story. You never know when the next brunch or party or travel story becomes a hit online, so it is important to stay ahead of the fashion police and look your best at all times! Thus a myriad of popular fashion bloggers, fashion pages, and trend-setters have set the path for fashion-conscious women to document their hits and misses online.

This has led to an amazing amalgamation of the Indian and Western fashion trend i.e. Indo-western wear that appeals to the contemporary Indian woman. As our taste in western fashion trend has peaked, so have the options for types of western dresses in the market. From palazzos to off-shoulder tops, if you're a top western brand in India, chances are that you are stocked with these types of dresses.

Unlike traditional Indian wear like cotton kurtis, which is known for their extravagance, western dresses are the type of dresses that have a more moderate and modern appearance with its sharp cuts and edgy appeal. Western dress wear has always been associated more with working women as it is seen as a practical and efficient style of dressing. Luckily though, this distinction between the type of dresses has receded as more and more women are embracing western dress wear into their wardrobes. It has also birthed a hybrid dressing style with Indo-western wear at its center, like Kaftan and cape dresses.

Although most corporate dressing codes forbid women from wearing any type of western dresses other than formal suits and skirts, few companies are heralding a new age of informal workwear that encourages women to adopt a more comfortable and trendy attire. At such times, a western dress design like culottes and formal shirts help combine comfort with fashion. Similarly, the new type of dresses for young girls have blossomed like modern western dress wear. Cute maxi gowns, floral bow dresses or denim dungarees are all new adorable little girls western wear trends for kids.

Every changing season brings a new trend into the market for Indian, western or Indo-western wear, so let us take a look at the best western wear trends riding the wave of admiration of fashion-lovers.

Bow Dresses

This adorably cute western dress trend is a big hit among girls and women alike! Small or big bows tailored into the back of dresses are cutesy and eye-popping western wear trends of the season. Whether in a feminine pink hue, polka dots, or floral patterns, these types of dresses make for great casual and party wear outfits. If you're going on a trip, a party, or a weekend outing, add some colorful heeled shoes to the mix and you'll be a fashion diva!

Asymmetrical Dresses

With an asymmetrical hemline, these type of dresses makes one feel like a movie star with their breezy and fun look. They can be paired with some gorgeous necklaces and knee-length boots. Style yourself with short or long asymmetrical dresses in colors of the season like magenta, hot pink, fuschia, or bright colors that give you a graceful and elegant air. Pair them with sunglasses and a handbag and you're good to go for a formal or casual event!

Dungaree Dress

If you're looking for comfort while shopping for a classy yet fun western dress look, you don't have to look any further than Dungaree dresses! The ultimate lazy day dresses, they help you look like you made an effort to dress up while also giving you the breathing space you need during your downtime. Dungarees take one down the memory lane with denim overalls and the type of dresses you rocked at wearing as a child.

They're back and they're even cooler when paired with cotton T-shirts or crop tops. Tailored for the contemporary western dress look, dungaree dresses will ensure you're on top of the western wear trends!

Wrap Dress

When one thinks of western dress design the image that pops into our mind is that of the wrap dress. Both glamorous and delicate, this type of dresses highlights the silhouette and exudes elegance even with the simplest of wrap dresses. Flattering for your figures and gentle on the tummy fat, dresses don't get any more feminine than this. Usually worn with patterned fabrics, stripes or solid classy prints, they look fabulous with pencil heels or block heeled shoes and a petite tote bag. You can wear them at any party or formal event with the right accessories!

Lace dress

Planning for a girls night out? Hoping to charm all eyes on to you? There is no need to go overboard and spend too much of your savings on flimsy dresses by some top western brand in India. Simply spruce up your wardrobe with the latest range of lace dresses trending in the market! Soft, delicate and extremely pretty, these type of dresses look good on everyone irrespective of body type.

A must-have western dress apparel for women, lace dresses come in a range of different colors and are the epitome of the fancy western dress stereotype. However, the most-loved ones are beige, white and black. Even the tallest people look dainty and pretty in a lace dress paired up with some statement earrings and pumps. From innocent and cute to beautiful and scintillating, lace dresses have something to offer everyone!

Off-shoulder

The off-shoulder trend has been around for a long time now and doesn't seem to be going away anytime soon! From dresses to tunics and tops with ruffled or statement sleeves, off-shoulder offers one a wide repertoire of clothing to choose from. You can wear them on a pair of jeans, a flowing skirt or a cute pair of denim shorts. If you're tall, flared pants and off-shoulder tops should be your go-to mantra for a messy-yet-casual attire. A brilliant western dress outfit for cocktail parties and fancy events, you can pair your bright and eclectic colored off-shoulder tops with mid-length skirts for an on-the-go suave look.

Denim

Now here's a western dress trend that never goes out of style: denim. Right from the simple, cozy blue jeans to denim shirts, everything can be flaunted with effortless grace with the right accessories. Denim jumpsuits can be styled in numerous ways with a funky colorful top. Loose, breathable and comfortable, High waisted jeans are just perfect for casual and simplistic attire. When you're running out of options, know that you can never go wrong with this type of dresses. Protect yourself from the cold winter or monsoon winds with a classic leather jacket or just match it with a mini skirt and clunky boots. If you're looking to dress down with some non-garish items, just plain or distressed jeans is the way to go!

Culottes

Did you know culottes have been in use since the sixteenth century? But while back then this type of little girls fancy dresses meant something else entirely and was a garment used by men, today culottes have quickly evolved into a favorite among women. From palazzos to gauchos to culottes, these pants that look pretty similar can work wonders for your wardrobe. Comfortable and versatile, you can pair them with plain colored tees or cropped tops or floral off-shoulder ones. You can wear them while traveling, at meetings, outings or some fancy ones at parties!

Maxi gowns

Every once in a while we discover clothes that make us look good regardless of our height or body shape. Maxi gowns are the type of dresses that offer the best rescue options from a limited wardrobe for a night at the club or a special occasion. They look dazzling in colors of coral, purple, green, gold or black. If one is conscious about revealing skin, maxi dresses are comfortable and elegant wear. The best part is they can be worn with minimum accessories and still look stylish. So if you're not a girly-girl but want to dress up for a special occasion, we couldn't recommend maxi gowns more!

Tie-dye

This is one trend that no one expected would have a comeback since the hippie days! Dyeing clothes in different bright natural hues is an ancient technique that was even practiced by the Egyptians and the T'ang Dynasty! How strange that the 21st-century woman walks flaunting the very same type of dresses, albeit, in more subtle and understated tones. Tie-dyed T-shirts, tracksuits, jumpers and flowing dresses with cotton candy and flowery shades can be seen everywhere right from on the likes of high-flying celebs like Rihanna to the girl-next-door. So splash up your wardrobe with funky colors from the top western brand in India and cool shades to get with the 'IT crowd'!

One shoulder

It bloomed in 2017 and has been around ever since! The one-shoulder is a hot and snazzy fashion trend that has turned a wide variety of clothing apparel modern and chic. Available in striped patterns, bell sleeves, bishop, ruffled sleeves, and no sleeves, one-shoulder tops are quite similar to off-shoulder ones. The sheer number of ways they can be worn and designed to give off-shoulder clothes an edge and are a favorite among designers who can custom-make both sophisticated and bold ones for their own labels. Pair them with a long skirt, a cute handbag, and some cool glasses for a glamorous look!

Along with the type of dresses, their fabric and patterns also play a large role in delighting fashionistas and setting the style magazines ablaze. Make sure you choose your fabrics and colors carefully and they compliment your features for a smashingly good look. Moreover, if you're not comfortable with any outfit, avoid it as your confidence is your greatest accessory and will hamper you from having a good time!

How to Wear the Same Dress in 3 Different Styles

Not only does wearing the same dress every day seem dull and boring, but most of us would never dare to repeat an outfit two or three days in a row. However, is it really such a big deal if nobody else can tell you're wearing the same items? The trick is not to think of it as repetition, but rather as creativity. Working with the items you already have in your closet will not only make you a more conscious consumer, but it will also challenge you to be more imaginative and find new, interesting ways to express your personal taste and style. So, here are some ideas that will help you wear the same dress in 3 different ways to 3 different occasions:

How to choose the perfect dress

The first and most important, thing you should do is find a dress that fits your figure perfectly and is versatile enough to be worn on almost any occasion. While you can experiment with prints and colors if that is the best representation of your personal style, the best idea would be to opt for a neutral shade and a classic cut that never goes out of style.

Depending on your body type, choose a dress that hugs your figure well, accentuating the positive aspects, and hiding everything you don't want to be on display. For example, if you have fuller hips, opt for a dress with detailing on top, such as ruffles or puffy sleeves, to balance out your figure, while a bigger tummy can easily be concealed with a loose dress style and a belt that hits you right below the bust. You can buy your staple dress in-store, have it made especially for you, or even find your ideal dress in any great women's online clothing boutique, as long you know which cut and shape suits you perfectly.

Dressing it up for work

The easiest way to dress up a staple dress and make it office appropriate is by combining it with an elegant blazer and a pair of stilettos or kitten heels. If you don't want to go for such a classic workplace look, another great idea would be to opt for ballet flats and a classy cardigan, or even an oversized sweater, to add more texture to your look, while still remaining polished and professional. Another great way of achieving that effortlessly chic and refined look is by pairing your dress with some high heels and a trench coat or a long winter coat, then topping the whole look off with a sleek tote or even a silk scarf, for the ultimate Parisian chic outfit.

Relaxed for a casual outing

Whether it's a brunch with your girlfriends, a shopping day, or even a quick stroll around town, there are endless ways you can style your staple dress for a cute and casual everyday look. From white sneakers and fashionable mules to denim and biker jackets, you can truly combine a neutral dress with almost any wardrobe staple you own.

When the temperatures drop, your dress can easily be paired with some black tights that add some contrast to your outfit, layered over turtlenecks for a more refined and highly fashionable look, or even combined with sweaters that not only add some texture and color to your outfit, but also give you the opportunity to wear your dress as a skirt and create more diverse looks. With the right choice of shoes and fun casual bags, you can create numerous casual looks perfect for everyday wear.

Glamming it up for a night out

When it comes to constructing an attractive outfit for a fun night out, accessories are your best friend. A neutral dress can easily be highlighted with a pair of brightly-colored high heels, or even a shimmery clutch or cross-body bag. Statement jewelry can be a great focal point of any outfit, but especially when it comes to a dressier look, and it's a very quick and easy way to add more dynamics to an otherwise neutral outfit. When the weather gets chillier, an outfit like this can easily be paired with a classic blazer or a cool leather jacket, for a polished and refined, yet still fun and sexy look.

Whether your weekend trip requires you to pack lightly or you simply want to learn how to achieve more with less, these effective tips and tricks will help you nail that repeated outfit every time.

5 Top Essential Fashion Tips for Men (2023)

Dressing up is a subtle art. Having an appropriate fashion sense is a vital part of our society's hierarchy. You will need to look and dress perfectly for earning the respect of the community. If you want to look better and improve your dressing sense, you need to invest an adequate amount of time and effort. A good wardrobe is paramount in making a decisive first impression on all the people you meet. Exuding confidence and personality through your dressing, like any other skill, can be improved.

However, the usual go-to fashion fads promise to be stylish but usually fade off after a short period. You will need to dig deeper and identify your brand of style which exudes your personality instead of going after the newest fast fashion. In case you are still figuring out the clothes and accessories you are most comfortable in, you are in the right place. Here are five unavoidable style and fashion tips for men for 2023 to improve their dressing sense.

1) Keep it Straight Forward

To have the best possible look, you need to keep your fashion simple and avoid going over the top. Maintaining a straightforward demeanor gives you a confident yet suave appearance. More often than not, men who dress extravagantly are not pleasing to the eye, and it requires a high degree of suave to pull off. Besides, you can maintain a professional, yet casual look over an extended period as it is more natural.

2) Always Get The Right Fit

Nearly all of your fashion issues will solve themselves when you switch to clothes that fit your frame. Ready-made sizes rarely fit the unique dimensions of every individual. Tailoring of dresses is essential in trimming your clothes to the perfect fit for you. A tailor-stitched suit is an incredible asset to any wardrobe. Usually, men tend to wear clothes that are one size too large or too small. It is critical to identify the right size for you so that you look good while wearing them. Even if you own your clothes from a reputed brand, you will not look good if you are wearing the wrong size.

3) Build Your Style After Trying Classic Styles

Try wearing more neutral colors which lets you experiment with different looks. Gradually try adding more colors, patterns, and textures without going overboard. Going after the latest trends will ruin your wardrobe and does not allow you to build on a consistent style.

4) Wear Accessories That Accentuate Your Style

Accessories are great for adding your unique take on a style. Try using accessories that match with both formal and casual wear. Wrist accessories such as workwear watches and bracelets are a classic trend that has been in vogue for centuries. Leather and bead bracelets tend to work great, together with almost any form of dressing. A great variety of bracelets in multifarious designs made with gemstones and precious metals are now obtainable, giving you the chance to make it your exclusive style.

5) Use Sunglasses That Match Your Face Shape

Sunglasses can add a new dimension to your flair. Sunglasses are made to match different face shapes. Make sure to identify the type of sunglasses that match your face shape and size. The right sunglasses will enhance your panache and sophistication, thereby augmenting your presence instantly. Furthermore, you can use your sunglasses by propping them over your head, on your shirt collar, or even your neck.

Conclusion

Having a fashion sense is an acquired taste. You will need to be brave and try out something different once in a while to help figure out what you are most comfortable in. Do not try to copy someone else's style. Every individual has their unique style which matches their personality and dimensions, so what may work well for someone may not work for you. Finally, you need to be confident in your style to pull off whatever you wear and keep the aforementioned style and fashion tips for men in your mind.

Pool Party Outfit Ideas for 2023 (10+ Sexy Looks)

Summers are around the corner and what better way to celebrate the summer spirit than an enthusiastic and booze-filled pool party! Sitting on the poolside bench while relishing a fruity drink and soaking in the sun's rays seems like paradise on earth with your gang. The biggest question when preparing for a party remains constant, that is, what to wear to a pool party? Fret no more! Read on for some tips and pool party outfits for 2023 that will definitely add more class to your summer wardrobe.

Remember that a poolside party does not only require you to be in your best swimwear but you're expected to have complementing spares and extras. A floaty caftan, cute flat sandals, and signature sunglasses make for a strong fashion statement. Here are 5 stylish yet classy pool party outfit ideas for 2023 that will make you want to head out to the pool with your gals immediately.

1) A sexy one-piece bathing suit with a great set of accessories

A combination of a one-piece girls swimsuit, a juniper sarong, ochre shades, and ankle-tie flat sandals, this adds up to a classy outfit that will surely make all your girlfriends burn with jealousy. Since you're wearing a one-piece bathing suit, you could look at summer skirts and denim cut-offs as an alternative to a sarong to make for a chic look.

The choice of your accessories can either make or break the appeal of your clothes. One of the essential accessories at a pool party is a bag in which you can keep extra stuff like your swimwear, sunscreen, moisturizing cream, etc.

While leather bags pump up every outfit, you'd want to skip over these at a pool party as they might get wet and face wear and tear post your little celebration. Carrying a basketweave jute bag with this outfit will result in you being the classiest woman at the gathering.

2) Pairing a Two-piece Bikini with a Sundress

A two-piece bikini is a sexy pool party outfit for 2023. Pair it with a white sundress and cute earrings, and you've got the most glamorous look out there. However, with a two-piece bikini, there are multiple styles you can adapt to with different combinations.

If you're feeling free and easy, you could put a t-shirt over your bikini and go for a bolder look. Similarly, your white button-down shirt from work can be used as a layer over your swimsuit. If not, you can don a sarong, which is a large piece of fabric to be worn as a skirt. Similarly, you can opt for bright patterned culottes to match the summer spirit.

3) Wearing Denim Shorts with a Cool Cotton Tank Top

Denim shorts, a cotton tank top, and a patterned robe to cover it all up — all say, “Bring the summer spirit on!” A simpler yet sexy look, this outfit can be customized from top to bottom. Switch the tank top for a lace crop top, and you’ve got something! These lace tops for women can step up your fashion game when substituted for the tank top.

Sandals are an excellent option for footwear as compared to heels when you’re attending a poolside party. If you’re not a sandals person, you can opt for espadrille wedges or platforms while matching the tone of your clothes.

You can always carry a light jacket to cover yourself up when the sun goes down.

4) High-Slit Sexy Maxi Dress

You can never go wrong with a high-slit sexy maxi dress for a poolside party. By sporting this poolside party look, you can easily stand out and grab the eyeballs of onlookers without putting in much effort.

5) Sheer Top with Shorts

Another sexy outfit to nail the poolside party in India is donning a sheer top with shorts. You can also wear a bright color bikini underneath your super cute sheer top. Many celebrities are also often seen sporting this look since it is awesome and can never go out of trend.

Final Words

All these outfits have one thing in common, i.e., they are made out of natural fabrics. This is one factor that you should keep in mind when selecting your outfit. All your clothes, which cover your swimwear, should preferably be made of cotton or linen. Synthetic clothes tend to absorb heat and increase your skin temperature significantly.

The opposite is true for your swimwear as natural fabrics have a high water absorption capacity. Thus, when you step out of the pool, your swimsuit would weigh you down and make you uneasy. Synthetic swimwear is always the way to go.

So the next time you're freaking out over cute yet sexy pool party outfit ideas for 2023, check out this complete dress guide and be on your way in a matter of a few minutes. Happy summers!

5 Celebrities who Wore Corset Dresses

Fashion is an ever-changing dynamic. New trends replace old ones and old ones get recreated every day. A style of any century is accepted by fashion critics if it is pulled off in the right way. One such retro craze that is back in vogue again is the corset.

The tradition of manufacturing and wearing corsets began in the mid-nineteenth century during the reign of Queen Victoria. Advertising campaigns in Britain and the USA further popularized the fad making it a part of the attire of different classes of women. This tight, restrictive item of clothing reflected on the societal expectations from women of that period as they were supposed to view life as strict, orthodox, and rigid like the corset itself. The body-hugging lingerie style garment also served the ulterior purpose of reducing women's waist sizes, often to numbers that were harmful to their health.

The age-old trend made its way back into the fashion market when designer Vivienne Westwood reinvented the corset in the 1970s. She revisioned the conventional corsets by flattening them out and raising the bosom, thus adding an innovative touch of glamor and power. Today corsets are loved and adorned by celebs for their sex appeal and the way they complement every body type. Further, the unique style flatters the waistline giving it a curvy and hourglass shape. Now let us look at some of the most famous corset dresses worn by women in the fashion world that left endless jaws dropping and countless cameras flashing.

Michelle Rodriguez

The model/ actress is well known for her admirable sense in glamour and fashion. In her appearance in 71st Cannes Film festival in France, she showed the world how to carry a corset. She looked stunning in a revealing black gown featuring a sheer corset top. The semi-transparent corset accentuated her torso and bone structure making her look like real royalty. The black straps and black panels that covered her breasts added extra oomph to the outfit making her stand out in the crowd. Michelle's sheer skirt with the show of her slender legs along with the exclusive diamond and emerald necklace beautified the ensemble.

Blake Lively

Be it her Gossip girl days or her stream of romcoms, Blake Lively has always made heads turn her way with her great eye for designs. She didn't let down the expectations of her fans as she walked into the 2018 Met Gala, looking like a regal queen in her ornamented maroon corset gown by 'Versace'. The shocking 600 days it took to put the whole thing together was worth it after all as the marvelous dress blended perfectly with that year's theme of 'Heavenly Bodies: Fashion and the Catholic Imagination'.

The glittering gold and maroon jewel-encrusted corset top hugged her slender waist and added a push-up effect to her boobs making her look breathtakingly elegant. The gown with its Game of Thrones vibes turned out to be such a crowd-pleaser because of the classy craftsmanship and the detailed and intricate beading. The massively long train of the dress with its sparkling panels and delicate embroidery and the handcrafted spiked headpiece made Blake look like a true angel sent from heaven.

Kim Kardashian

Fashion diva Kim Kardashian looked lovely in a hot sheer white corset dress by the world-famous Italian designer brand 'Dolce and Gabbana'. The fashionista pulled off her signature sheer and sexy look at the Crystal Gardenia fragrance launch in 2017. She skipped jewelry and accessories to ensure that her outfit took center stage.

She went braless with the tight corset enhancing her curvy figure making her look bold and beautiful. The translucent dress had a latex outlook which on close examination somewhat resembled a bridal gown.

Alia Bhatt

Alia Bhatt is acclaimed nationwide for her excellent acting skills. Now the actress is making statements with her developed fashion adventures too. Alia sported a wonderful corset gown by Ralph and Russo to the Filmfare Awards 2018. The well designed translucent black corset bodice that highlighted her petite frame and the interesting details on it made onlookers' heart skip a beat.

The billowing train attached to the gown made her a true endorser of high fashion. The actress let her dress do all the talking with her minimalistic accessories. She paired her red carpet look with hair tied in a messy bun, hot smokey eyes, sculpted cheekbones, and nude lipstick.

Kendall Jenner

Kendall is one of the highest-paid supermodels surely knows how to dress to impress. She takes style along wherever she goes to, be it to brunch or the airport. Kendall's red corset over a plaid 'Louis Vuitton' dress that she wore for the Paris Fashion week in 2017 made her look mod and chic.

She layered the corset over a trench coat style jacket and a thigh-high slit checked skirt. Who knew a corset belt could be worn over a coat inspired skirt/dress! She completed the look with eye-catching nude and snakeskin boots and her favorite oversized hoop earrings.

The corset is an evergreen trend that looks good on all kinds of women of all age groups. This may not have to be a fashion necessity of the young and famous only. Common people and even men can wear a timeless trend with a little research on how and when to wear it.

Many designer companies are coming up with new innovations of a corset. Today there are corset-themed jumpsuits, tops, bodysuits, bralettes, and dresses. Be it a cocktail party with some eagle rare, food and friends, or a casual lunch date, there is a corset costume for every occasion. It is time you upgraded your wardrobe with a few corset ensembles.

Party Dresses - Party Wear Tips for Little Girl Kid

The party's on! It is time to celebrate a wild occasion or just go out and have some fun. Dressing up for a party is almost as fun as dancing to the fun beats at the event. For several mothers, dressing up their little girl is much more fun than dressing up themselves. If you are one such mom who loves to dress up your little girl, here are 30 actionable party wear tips that you can use to dress her up in style!

1) Dress According to the Event

Are you attending a wedding party? If so, a full-length elegant silver dress will suit the occasion much more than a denim blazer. Keeping the type of event and the list of attendees in mind will help you choose the perfect wedding dresses for your little girl on a special occasion.

2) Choose Light and Fancy Colours

Fancy dresses look cute on little girls. These girls have a higher degree of freedom while choosing fancy outfits for a party. Therefore, you can freely choose an unconventional and fancy outfit with punchy colors for her.

3) Throw in a Trendy Bracelet

A trendy bracelet or a slim wristwatch will accentuate the overall appeal of the dress significantly. It also inculcates a good habit in your child's routine. Little girls will be inclined towards cartoonish watches. Depending on the type of dress that you choose, you might want to let her choose the cartoonish watch or go with something more elegant and subtle.

4) Choose Fancy Footwear

If you know that the party will have an open dance floor, you must prefer choosing stylish sneakers or laced sandals for your little girl. These choices will give her the freedom to let loose and enjoy with her friends. On the other hand, you can choose flat sandals or boots for a sophisticated party.

5) Let the Hair Loose

Let your little girl enjoy the party by letting her hair loose. However, if you are attending a sophisticated party, a short ponytail can be the best hairstyle to match her charisma. You can use subtle hair bands for girls above the age of 7. On the other hand, you can use fancy hairbands with trinkets that match the fancy party dresses for baby girls below the age of 5.

6) Focus More on Comfort

While choosing the right party dresses for kids, focus on comfort more than everything else. Your kid won't be able to enjoy the party to the fullest if she feels claustrophobic in the dress. In parties that involve a lot of dancing and fun-filled games, choose comfortable jeans/shorts along with a trendy t-shirt.

7) Choose the Right Fragrance

Teach your little girl the art of selecting the right fragrance from a young age. This skill will help her develop into a fine woman.

8) Let Her Have a Say

When you are selecting cute party wear for kids, choose the dresses that your little girl likes. Take her likes and dislikes into consideration while shopping for the right dresses. You might not want her to govern the entire selection process, but you should consider her choices without fail. This process will help her develop confidence in selecting the right dresses for herself.

9) Dress According to Her Body Style

A few dresses might look good on slim little girls. The same dresses might not be the best fit for the slightly healthier girls. Under such situations, you should dress your kid according to her body style.

10) Choose a Timeless Design

A lot of parents feel overwhelmed with the number of party dresses for a baby girl that they find in the market. If you too feel overwhelmed with so many choices, always go for a timeless design. Choose a branded and casual t-shirt along with a pair of trendy jeans. Such timeless combinations are great for a casual party as well as day-to-day wear.

11) Find the Matching Belts and Boots

While dressing your kid up, make sure that her belt and boots match. However, you don't need to use this as a fixed rule. The adults need to be slightly more careful and adopt this rule more frequently. On the other hand, the kids have the flexibility of choosing fancy outfits with mismatching components. Several kids can pull off such unique combinations in style.

12) Does She Need a Necklace?

If you are choosing a dress with a hanging V-neck design, a good necklace will look great with it. Such accessories look splendid with ethnic dresses. However, they do not fit the more casual outfits that include jeans and a t-shirt. If you are selecting a necklace, go for a subtle one. Do not choose an extremely glittery and shiny necklace. A matte-colored necklace fits most outfits with delicate ingenuity.

13) Find the Right Belt

Belts are the go-to accessories for loose clothes. They offer great functionality as well as accentuate the overall look and feel of the dress correctly. The thickness and design of the belt matter a lot. Slimmer belts look great on dresses that have minimal prints. Similarly, the slightly broader belts look better with the printed and pleated dresses.

14) Make Use of Multiple Layers

Use the layering technique to your advantage while selecting the party dresses for a baby girl. A plain white t-shirt will produce the desired trendy appeal when you accessorize it with the right clothes. A trendy jacket and/or shawl look extremely fashionable with such minimalistic outfits.

15) Shop with Purpose

Both the online as well as offline markets are filled with hundreds of trendy party dresses for kids. Such a huge collection will either make you feel overwhelmed with choices, or you will feel a strong urge to buy a lot of outfits in a single shopping spree. Under such situations, you should control your urge to shop impulsively and buy the outfits that you need.

16) Experiment with Tucked-In and Tucked-Out Apparel

A simple t-shirt gives a completely different look when it is tucked in versus when it is left out hanging casually. Experiment often with different t-shirts as well as shirts. A few casual shirts will appear completely different and sophisticated when you tuck them in. Teach your little girl the skill of tuck-in her shirt correctly and she will appreciate it when she grows up.

17) Play with Different Prints

Kids have a huge room to play with when it comes to fancy printed clothes. Floral designs, as well as abstract shapes both, look great on kids' clothes. The top kids' clothing brands have a wide collection of dresses with all kinds of different prints. The kind of prints that you select must match the weather as well as the body type of your little girl. Floral designs look great in a sunny environment, whereas the modern abstract designs look the best in winters.

18) Make a Colour Pop

The best way to attract the attention of the audience at the party is to make a single color pop. The kids can make even the brightest color like red, yellow, and pink pop very well. They can get away with experimentation with a variety of different hues very easily.

19) Avoid Too Tight as well as Too Loose Clothes

Both too tight as well as too loose outfits look out of place. The tighter outfits will make your little girl feel claustrophobic. It will also restrict her free movement, which is essential in a party with an open dance floor. The loose clothes will be uncomfortable as your little girl will have to spend time consistently managing her dress. If you are choosing loose clothes to make your kid feel more comfortable, do throw in a couple of functional accessories like belts and laces to tie the outfit neatly together.

20) Throw on a Jacket

A simple leather jacket can completely change the look and feel of an outfit. The leather jacket, when styled in a right way will not only look great but also feel extremely comfortable. The jacket feels like a natural extension to her clothes. Jackets can also help you provide a more comfortable and cozy feeling to your kid in colder environments.

21) Experiment with Contrasting Hues

A few colors that do not meld well together on adults look great on kids. Adults usually do not have the freedom to wear a green hat and a pink skirt along with a red top. Kids, on the other hand, can freely experiment with such contrasting hues and look extremely cute. The top cute party wear for kids usually has such contrasting colors.

22) A Fancy Pair of Sunglasses Looks Great

A fancy pair of sunglasses will help you enhance your kid's facial features further. Unlike adults, kids can wear an extremely fancy and colorful pair of cool sunglasses and look cute with it. The sunglasses don't necessarily need to match the rest of the outfit. An oddly colored pair of sunglasses will look great without any additional touches.

23) A Subtle Skin Toned Make Up is Sufficient

Teaching your little girl how to put the right makeup on is extremely important. However, you should always try and limit the amount of makeup on her skin. Always use the branded and certified products for putting the makeup on. The cheap and low-quality makeup products can harm their delicate skin at a young age.

24) Try an Elegant Lipstick

Teach your little girl how to choose the right lipstick according to her outfit and the occasion.

25) Choose Vertical Stripes

If you ever need to make a choice between vertical and horizontal striped clothes, always choose the ones with vertical stripes. The dresses with the horizontal stripes look extremely out of place. On the other hand, the dresses with vertical stripes have a more elegant feeling to them. They make your girl look taller and more confident.

26) Find a Matching Handbag

Teach your kid the art of selecting and wearing the right handbags. The handbags are extremely functional accessories that can help your little girl store all the pertinent items. Inculcating a habit of carrying a clutch or a trendy handbag at a young age is extremely helpful for the kids when they grow up.

27) Dress According to the Season

Try taking the cues of dressing up your kid according to the occasion. The right clothes will not only look good but feel comfortable according to the season. For example, padded clothes with a lot of layers will provide the necessary cozy feeling during the winters. Similarly, the lightweight and airy maxi dresses are the best summer dresses for your little girl.

28) Choose Matching Earrings

The right earrings can highlight the facial features of a person extremely well. Choose the right earrings according to the size of the face of your kid. Huge earrings feel out of place on kids with a smaller face. The color and the design of the earrings should match the outfit of your kid.

29) Replicate Your Design Style

You can try and replicate your own design style in your kid's outfit. This way, your little girl can take fashion to a whole new level and will look like a mini fashionable version of yourself.

30) Wear it with Confidence

Lastly, teach your kid the art of wearing a dress with confidence. The confidence with which a kid walks and talks will speak volumes about her attitude. Kids who underdress with a minimalistic approach will look better than the kids who wear branded apparel if they are more confident and open. The other way around is true as well. The kids who dress well have a better sense of confidence and control compared to the ones who do not know how to carry a dress.

The internet is filled with several reliable online clothing stores for kids. These stores offer a huge collection of branded clothes and accessories. The best stores have a wide collection of fashionable and comfortable dresses & jewelry for kids. These stores never compromise on the quality of their materials to protect the delicate skin.

4. Lilac locks

Your social media feed might be full of lilac locks as these flaunt-worthy locks are an all-season choice. They are a playful choice for summer and spring and bright and dreary in winters. You can choose to go bold and dye your hair all lilac to choose to be more subtle and paint a few strands red, you will not look out of fashion with lilac locks.

5. Almond-shaped nails

In 2019 when your manicurist asks if you want rounded or squared nails, your answer should be “almond.” Yes, the nail shape for 2019 is chosen to be the soft and rounded almond nut. Pinterest is full of the trendy almond-shaped nail pics and designs, pick one that appeals to you.

6. Powder dipped nails

Ok, tell us the truth-how much do the chipped nails or ruined polished spoils your day? It's a nightmare for those who like to paint their nails red! Enter the powder dipped nails and not only you are saved from ruined polished nails plus they last much longer than traditional gels. Quality dipping nail kits last for 3-6 weeks without chipping. No more ruined nails in 2019, yay!

7. Natural lash lifts

Do you know you can actually lengthen and strengthen your lashes? According to Pinterest 2019 will see a rise of eyelash tonics that will replace artificial lashes. You can also use natural solutions like aloe vera, castor oil and grapeseed oil to naturally lift those peepers. In 2019, you will get introduced to natural nourishing products that will give you the lashes of your dreams. Next in trends will be a new line of beauty and healthcare products. To be part of the 2019 beauty trends you do not have to spend a lot on beauty products. With high-quality coupon sites like GreatBuyz, you can shop smarter and get huge discounts.

8. Glossy makeup

From colorful lips to slick lids, nothing complements your facial features as a little gloss. Glossy lips have also been a trend but this year glossy eyeshadow will be the limelight. Now a secret tip is to use your same old and regular lip gloss as both a lip tint and as an eyeshadow or invest in new Maybelline eyeshadow product line.

9. Liquid exfoliators

For a brighter and smoother skin, exfoliation is a must. So why not liquid exfoliators? In 2019, you are no longer forced to use gritty scrub as the new-age water-like gels are here to live that dead skin off your face. The liquid exfoliators do not leave any dirt behind that can clog the pores and give you a perfectly smooth skin.

10. The anti-retinol trend: Bakuchiol

Skincare market is largely ruled by retinol products that prevent wrinkles and fine lines. But 2018 has seen the advent of a more natural and gentler alternative the bakuchiol. A new ingredient in the skincare industry, bakuchiol is known to improve pigmentations, remove wrinkles and boost firmness. Available in face creams, face serums and face oils. Know more about bakuchiol here.

Priyanka Chopra Pulls Off Lingerie Blazer Dress and Crop Sweaters

Priyanka Chopra and fashion go hand in hand. She never fails to impress fashion enthusiasts like us with her quirky, fun and fashionable sartorial choices. Recently, she was spotted pulling off some amazing looks in tinsel town and what caught our attention was her lingerie blazer dress (Boob cut-outs) and a mini and a cute crop sweater. In her street-style looks, she managed to give us some uber-chic fashion goals.

What is a lingerie blazer dress?

It is a blazer dress which is inspired by lingerie and has a built-in brassiere with boob cut-outs. Recently, Priyanka Chopra a.k.a PeeCee was spotted wearing a lingerie blazer dress from Dion Lee's Fall 2018 Ready-to-Wear collection. This drool-worthy creation from Dion Lee Fall Collection had a plunging neckline and cut-outs over the pockets that amped up her fashion quotient to a whole new level.

Besides plunging neckline and Boob cut-outs, this lingerie blazer dress also features long sleeves and a layered hem, which seems like a skirt. To complement her look, she was seen sporting Christian Louboutin's white strapped stilettos and a white top handle bag. Looking at Priyanka Chopra's drool-worthy look, we are pretty much sure that she is way ahead with her sartorial choices. What do you think of her look? Don't forget to tell us in the comments below.

Mini and Cute Crop Sweater

Priyanka Chopra was also spotted pulling off her high waisted denim with woolly sunshine yellow Ganni crop-sweater. Exposing a slight part of her midriff, the versatile actress grabbed the attention by complementing her look with a pair of retro eyewear.

Eggplant Hues

No other than Priyanka Chopra can wear such a rich color and look flamboyant in a gorgeous deep violet dress from Vivienne Westwood. She paired her cold-shoulder dress with a matching tote and stark white pointed toe heels.

What to Wear in Goa Beach? Dress Code for Girls

Welcome to the land of sand, sun, and endless adventures – Goa! Nestled along the azure coast, this haven of bliss is not just a destination; it's a state of mind. And what better way to embrace the spirit of Goa than through your outfits? Whether you're indulging in the rhythmic beats of beach parties, strolling down the vibrant streets of Panaji, or simply savoring the salty breeze on tranquil shores, your attire speaks volumes. It's not just fabric; it's a canvas on which you paint your memories.

In this sartorial 2023 guide, we're here to unveil a kaleidoscope of Goa outfit ideas for all you fierce and fabulous ladies out there. From the bohemian goddesses to the chic beach explorers, we've curated a collection that captures the essence of Goa's diverse vibes. So, get ready to transform into a walking story – because in Goa, every outfit is a chapter waiting to be written, an adventure-ready to unfold.

1) Shorts - The More, The Merrier

When you are on a beach vacay, don't shy away from flaunting your sexy legs by wearing shorts. The more you have, the merrier you will be. The best thing about shorts is that they are not only comfortable but can also be worn with almost anything. We suggest you carry as many as you can, and of all kinds.

This way, you can wear almost every type when you step out. It is always considered wise to wear linen/cotton shorts when you hit the serene beaches of Goa since denim shorts not only take a good amount of time in drying, but can also be quite uncomfortable in the heat.

However, if you don't have cotton shorts in your closet, we suggest you carry an extra pair of denim shorts for your Goa trip.

2) Bikini/Monokini/Tankini– Whatever You Love!

Goa beach wear for women is incomplete without sultry bikinis, monokini, and tankini. So whatever you have, pull out all those to flaunt your sexy curves on the best bikini beach destinations including Arambol Beach (North Goa), Ashwem Beach (North Goa), and Colva Beach (South Goa). Even if you don't have a sexy bikini body, tankinis and high-waisted bikinis are perfect options to try. Nobody is gonna judge you based on what you're wearing in beach/pool areas and you shouldn't too.

3) An Oversized Button-Down Shirt

Nothing makes a great cover-up than an oversized button-down shirt. Being versatile in nature, you can pair it in different ways such as let it hang off your shoulders, tie it into a crop top, layer it under a beach dress and tie it up at the waist, pair it with high-waist bikini bottoms, mix it with fun prints, etc.

4) Sarongs/Bikini Cover Up

When shopping for a Goan trip, always remember that sarong is just as important as bikini, especially if you are a bit curvy. These beach coverups go with the beachy vibe and can be easily draped around your waist. If you don't want to splurge on Goa beach dresses girls you can make a sarong on your own by using a long scarf and bid adieu to what to wear in Goa for ladies.

5) Shades – A Must-Have

A cool pair of shades not only complete your beach look but also makes you look effortlessly stylish for selfie sessions.

6) Fedora Hats

Timeless, elegant, and a necessity for a beach vacation to protect yourself from the scorching heat whilst making you look uber chic.

7) Flowy, maxis, and bohemian kind dresses to match Goan vibe

When you are in a beach town, flowy and maxi dresses are perfect to wear to keep up with the coastal vibes. They come in different styles like kimonos, kaftans, and ponchos, and are comfortable, trendy as well as sexy to wear anywhere from a romantic evening stroll to beach parties. Carry at least three to four Goa beach wear dresses if you are going to stay for around 7-8 days.

8) Tank Tops, Loose T-Shirts, and Spaghetti

Tank tops, loose t-shirts, and halter-neck spaghetti are quintessential Goa dress for girls or women since you are unable to wear them in your daily work life. They can be paired with almost anything, and are perfect for a stroll in the middle of the night to buy a couple of beers from the local market.

9) Go a little offbeat – Wear Harem pants, Pallazos, Dhotis, and Mermaid Pants

If you love to experiment with different dressing styles, why not go a little offbeat and pair your sports bra or bikini tops with dhoti pants, flowy palazzos, and harem pants to create your own fashion sense.

Image credit: Pinterest (goa outfits for fat ladies)

Whether you're redefining chic in tailored shorts and breezy tops, exuding elegance in beachy maxi dresses, or embracing the bohemian vibes in flowing prints, your Goa ensemble should mirror the kaleidoscope of experiences this coastal haven offers. Unleash your inner fashionista, and with every step, make the golden sands your runway.

Quirky Blouse Styles Must to Try Out

Do you know what women see at glance in any designer saree? What matters most to them??? Well, women quite aware of what I am talking about. Blouse is the most appealing part in designer sarees. Any simple saree paired with a sultry blouse becomes designer. Yes, it's true. This upper weave of any saree is the high point in the making of complete doll-like charm.

With latest trends in fashion, designer blouse has taken a whole new shape. Their contemporary patterns, back designs and fabric usage can't be appreciated in mere words. It's injustice! They are the prime reason for the upsurge of sarees in current fashion world. It's like 'cherry on the top'. Well, they are like beautiful cherries in the whole saree costume. Sarees are the most favourable attire of women. They always love to sparkle like a chic in this adorable attire. And the major amount of credit goes to 'fashion gurus' who have completely reformed this dress by swaying their magical wand. Do they really have one???

Let's sneak into some gorgeous blouse designs & engross them-

Back-knot: Is it for real??? Well, it is. This back-knot blouse is totally kickass masterpiece in the work of art. And when festivals are befalling, it's best time to show up your creativity at top level.

Already fallen for it???

Chinese Collar: This style of designer blouse is very much popular and looks great when paired with net or georgette saree. Its high neck and chain pattern is bold enough to create your unique style statement.

Bundle up your chic look!

Boat-Neck: Are you up for some twist? Then, you are perfect to adapt this bold boat-neck style. But make sure that you don't mess up its glam by wearing a necklace. Moreover, it's kind of over-dressed. Both transparent net design and off-shoulder style are phenomenal and eye-catching.

Velvet Beaded Cap Sleeves: This is called a graceful and slinky piece. Well, if you are a strict fashionista and have guts to pull off any look, you must try this girl. These cap sleeves has beads embroidered and over the complete border of the blouse. Velvet fabric is reason for its glossy and elegant appearance.

Closed Neck: I am in love with this blouse style. The reason is - it's perfect for this festive run. Its subtle and classic look is best for #Diwali or #Navratri puja. This style of blouse can also be paired with designer lehengas. And what if you can find this fabulous style in online blouse section???

Sheer Blouse: Look at the smile of this gorgeous lady and then look at her extra-gorgeous sheer blouse. Sheer has stolen the whole spot in fashion glam. It is alluring, majestic and tempting too.
Shine in sheer this time!!!

Peplum Style: What you say about this style? Totally kick-ass! Peplum style has a unique charm and class. Stun your friends with this style and be the fashion goddess of this season.

Back to College: Fashion & Style Tips for 2023

New session of college is going to start very soon. Keeping this in mind, we come up with an exclusive post which is especially dedicated to all the Fuchas. So, are you excited to make a spellbound debut in the college? If so, this post is for you. Few months back, many of you have passed out from the schools with flying colors and now all set to live and enjoy the lively college life. Right? But, you should know that college is not about higher studies only. It's all about grooming, personality development, cultural activities, friends, fashion and much more. When it comes to fashion, it is just like breath for our young generation. They always want to look cool, smart and sexy every time. It not just enhances their personality but also boost their confidence. So, our wacky fashion team of Tashiara has decided to do a professional photoshoot with a cool college going look for this season.

For this exclusive post, our teammate styled herself by donning a loose naughty quoted t-shirt from The Souled Store. She paired the naughty quoted tshirt with bright yellow shorts which are complementing each other. Isn't it? To add more quirkiness to her chic look, she added red canvas carlton London shoes from Myntra. Not just this, she gives a perfect finish to her look by wearing a scarf "saafa" which is like icing on the cake. It just make her outfit looks cool and sexy.

No college look is complete without a bag, so she layered up a cute 'Big Bang Theory' tote bags which is also from The Souled Store. You can also try this hot, sexy and stylish look for yourself and let us know your personal experience. We will appreciate and share your experience with others.

Happiness is.....Customized Shoes From Paio (Review)

You cannot buy happiness from money, but you can buy customized sexy shoes from Paio & that's kind of the same thing! Today, we are going to share our personal review on Paio shoes. Before we move ahead, let's quickly know about Paio and their unique design concept. So basically, PAIO stands for a 'Pair of Shoes' in Italian. They are experts in customizing shoes for all the lovely ladies out there. At Paio, you can customize or make your own pair of sexy shoes by selecting the design, material, heels, and height. All they do is design a perfect pair for you as per your requirements.

Our Personal Experience (Paio Shoes Review)

One of our teammates received 2 pairs of shoes from one of our clients, Paio. Let's take a quick look at her personal experience in her own words.

I received 2 pairs of shoes from Paio. I was so excited to check out the shoes that without making any delay, I started unboxing the parcel. Paio exclusively crafted two beautiful pairs of shoes for me. Although I have selected the same from their catalog as per my foot size description but seeing them live in front of my eyes was totally an amazing experience. I usually have size issues every time whenever I go shopping for footwear and ordering them online was also a difficult task for me. But to my extreme surprise, the size was exactly fit. They are so much comfortable that I even started dancing wearing them ;)

The first pair is “the turquoise flat bellies”. They are just super cool for the hot summers. I have paired them with a green short dress and they both were complementing each other. Aren't they? But, this sexy pair of turquoise flat bellies can also be worn with formals, casuals, or with salwar kameez too.

#2 Pink Platform Heels (Paio Shoes Review)

The second pair is “pink platform”. As it's quite difficult for me to carry heels all day long, therefore, I go for platform heels for the second pair. The color combination of the second pair is also lovely. Don't you think so? I paired them with a white top and denim skirt. You can team it up with any dress but being a part of a fashion blogger, I suggest pairing it with the short dress, like I did.

So, all the pretty ladies out there who are also looking for the perfect fit along with beautiful design for their footwear should give a try to #paio shoes.

Stay in Trend with Relaxing yet Stylish Salwar Suits

Believe it or not, salwar suit is the most popular Indian ethnic wear. Also, known as Salwar Kameez, it is a quintessential Indian dress for young ladies and women in Himachal Pradesh, Punjab and Haryana but nowadays it's popular all across the country. The comfort and flexibility of this clothing not only made it a popular wear all across the country, but also made it an integral part of every woman's ethnic couture. Be it spring, autumn or summer, this classic and evergreen piece of clothing never goes out of the trend.

A salwar suit comprises of mainly three parts — a tunic top (kameez or shirt), a dupatta (scarf or odhni) and a salwar (like a loose pyjama). In Indian tradition, married women generally wear a dupatta to cover their head and beautifully drawn it over the bosom. The best part of this ethnic wear is that one can do a lot of experiments with an unstitched salwar suit according to their aesthetic tastes. If you are one of those who are looking for beautiful salwar suits for special occasions like weddings, engagement, baby shower or simply for lounging at home, Craftsvilla brings to you a wide collection of gorgeous salwar suits to suit every occasion. From traditional Punjabi salwar suits to designer Anarkali, you will find all the latest trends only at Craftsvilla. So, get ready to explore their impressive range of Indian traditional attire.
